SUMMER MEETING

Of the State Board of Agriculture

At Fair Grounds—Many Interesting Demonstrations — Massachusetts Dairy Bureau Agent Says Some Farmers are Dirty

There was a large attendance of farmers and others interested in agriculture at the summer field meeting of the state board of agriculture at the Fair grounds today. The weather was all that could be desired and great interest was manifested. The speakers were introduced by J. Lewis Ellsworth, secretary of the league.

Prof. F. A. Waugh of the Massachusetts Agricultural college was the first speaker. He gave a demonstration of the preparation of Bordeaux mixtures, and best fruit packages.

The program for the day was a pretty lengthy one and the professor said he would have to skip over his assignment as speedily as possible.

He first spoke of the package and its appearance. The more attractive the package, he said, the greater the sale. He had about 50 samples of packages including boxes, baskets, crates and other such packages as are used for fruits.

He compared the prices of boxes and barrels and said it has been his experience and the experience of others that more money could be obtained for fruit in boxes than in barrels.

The most novel package shown was a paper box that came from the factory as flat as a pancake and when opened up it had a capacity of nearly a bushel of the fruit.

The professor's talk up to this time had been devoted almost entirely to apples and he next turned his attention to peaches, showing the Georgia peach carrier, the Jersey basket and other packages suitable for peaches.

As to the Bordeaux mixture, the professor explained that its mission was to prevent ordinary plant diseases. Some, he said, have the impression that the mixture would kill insects as well as prevent diseases, but such, he said, is not the case.

On the track about midway of the grand stand was a wagon containing all the appliances necessary for making the Bordeaux mixture and a practical demonstration was given. The professor answered many questions relative to the mixture, the expense, manufacture, length of time required to make it, time to apply it, etc. He also answered several questions as to the preparation and use of paris green.

Questions were asked relative to spraying and the best methods. Demonstrations were made with small sprays as the last exhibition included a series of large sprays forced by a gasolene engine.

The next demonstration was that of the Babcock milk test by P. M. Harwood, general agent for the Massachusetts Dairy Bureau. He gave an interesting explanation of the sanitary handling of milk.

DIRTY MILKERS CRITICIZED.

After he had finished with the demonstration Mr. Harwood made a little speech in which he said the price of milk would have to advance in order to assure absolute purity.

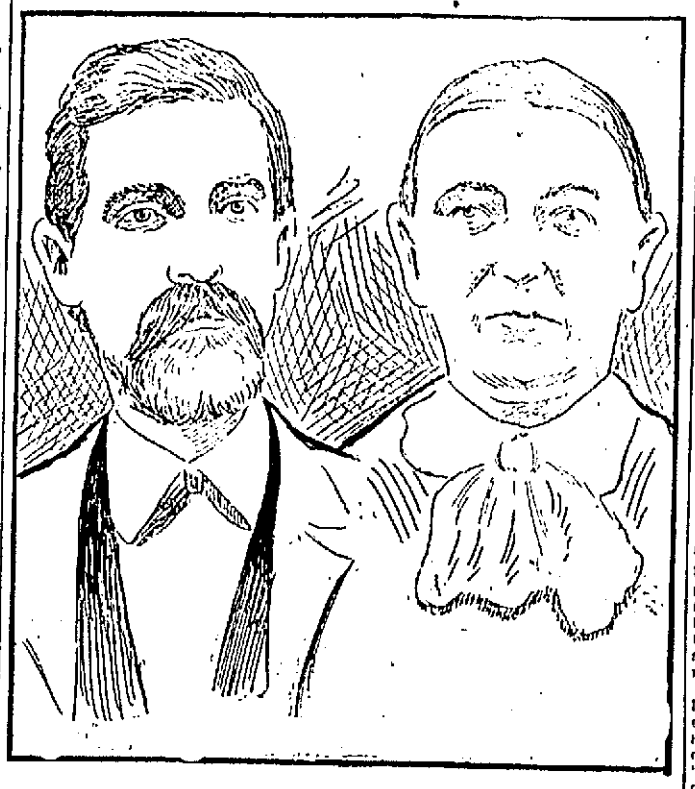

He said there were too many farmers and men working on farms who get up in the morning and without washing their faces and hands, go to the barn and milk the cows. He said there are filthy habits among some of the farmers that he was almost ashamed to speak of. "Every farmer and every farm-hand should be obliged to wash their faces and hands and clean their finger nails before milking cows or handling the milk," he said. Mr. Harwood also showed and explained a number of sanitary milk pails.

Various other demonstrations followed and the killing and dressing of fowl was left till the afternoon.

Dinner was served in the dining hall at noon by the ladies of Dracut grange.

AFTER 50 YEARS

Brother and Sister Meet in Lowell

MRS. HUGH McDEVITT AND HER BROTHER, JAMES O'NEIL, REUNITED AFTER 53 YEARS.

James O'Neil, a California Miner, Reunited With His Sister, Mrs. McDevitt of Lawrence St.--They Had Not Seen Each Other in 53 Years

Home again, to a strange house in a strange country, yet the home of his heart for years, and his home in fact, henceforth for the remainder of his days, James O'Neil, a veteran of the California gold fields in the halycion days of the "Forty-niners" set foot in Lowell for the first time in his life on Saturday evening, and half an hour later clasped in loving embrace the sister and the brother whom he had not seen since the eventful day in 1852, over half a century ago when he left the family roof in a peaceful parish in County Tyrone, Ireland, to seek his fortune in the new world.

And since his return, for it is a return, to where his heart has been for many years, while there may be more luxurious homes in Lowell one would indeed find it next to impossible to imagine a happier family circle than in the cosy vine-covered cottage of Mrs. Hugh McDevitt of 25½ Lawrence street, where since his arrival the sturdy veteran of the golden west has been kept busy shaking hands with friends whom he has never seen before but whom he has grown to know through the regular correspondence of his faithful and loving sister, Mrs. McDevitt.

When Mr. O'Neil left his home in County Tyrone in 1852 he was only a lad of 19 while Mrs. McDevitt was but "a slip of a girl." On Saturday evening as the old gentleman whose weather-beaten countenance pronounced him a stranger and whose white hair and beard unerringly marked the flight of years, inquired of some young people where Mrs. McDevitt lived a tall and comely young woman with laughing eyes and a face strangely familiar took him by the hand and said: "Right in here, Uncle, we've been waiting for you," and gently led him within the cosy little cottage where with outstretched arms and the tears of joy coursing down her cheeks a sweet-faced, motherly-looking woman whispered, "Welcome home, Brother Jim. Thank God, you've come to see us at last." Beside her stood her other brother, Mr. Bernard O'Neil of Charles street who joined with her in greeting the stranger and thus were reunited after the long lapse of 53 years the three remaining members of the family.

A reporter of The Sun called at the home of Mrs. McDevitt yesterday, and upon making known his mission, was hospitably welcomed and introduced to Mr. O'Neil. The latter is wonderfully well preserved for a man of his years and experience and aside from being slightly hard of hearing is in excellent health and much younger in spirit than most men of his years. His skin is as brown as a berry and his hair as white as snow, and these characteristics together with a clear, sharp eye, give his countenance an attractive appearance.

In response to the reporter's queries Mr. O'Neil said; "I left home in County Tyrone in 1852, being 19 years old at the time. I heard of the many opportunities of the new world, and seeing none at home, I decided to seek a living over here. I landed in New York after a long and not very pleasant trip, for they didn't come over as easily in those days. I had heard of the marble quarries of Vermont and went there first, where I worked for two years. Then I got the gold fever and I started for the west, and landed in Sonora, Tuolumne county, Columbia, California. There isn't much to tell of my travels after that, for I lived the 50 years in the one county. When I went out there they were doing nothing but placer mining and were finding the gold in the creeks and at the roots of trees. I went placer mining with the rest and worked at it until about 30 years ago, when it was about all done up and the mining for quartz began. The quartz miners went down into the earth 2000 feet after their gold in some cases. I did not like this form of mining and, giving it up, went out on a ranch and did farming. I was with one man for 18 years and would be with him yet but for an accident which killed him and nearly killed me. We were thrown out in a runaway and the poor fellow was killed. Then I went it alone until the last few years I began to realize that I was getting old and could not work forever, and as they had been writing to me for several years to come east, I finally wrote on that I would get ready and bid good by to the west and come to Lowell for the remainder of my days. It was three years ago that I made up my mind to come east, but I didn't get here until Saturday night. It is a great change from the wild country, the miners' camp and the ranchman's life to a comfortable home with loving friends all about, and though I never saw this place before, it's home to me for the remainder of my days."

Mrs. McDevitt's beaming countenance told more eloquently than any words could express her happiness at her brother's presence within her home. "A better boy never crossed the ocean," she whispered to the reporter, adding, "He never forgot his father and mother nor any of the family and he not only wrote regularly to the folks at home but sent home money and brought out to California and gave a start to many young men from our place, and since I came to this country with my husband, 22 years ago, there has never been a break in our correspondence. We always knew he was living but we had really given up hope of ever seeing him again. We had been writing to him to come here but we could never get him to promise to leave the west until lately. Seventeen years ago my poor sister Mary went out to see him in California purposely to bring him back with her but she, poor girl, received a paralytic shock while out there and Jim sent a man all the way back with her to look after her and she died here a few years afterward."

Just then a shadow passed over the kindly face, and Mrs. McDevitt turned slightly and looked for a moment at the picture of a bright-looking young man resting on an easel in the parlor. "If he were only here now," she said, "our happiness would know no bounds. That's the picture of my son. He went out to California with my sister 17 years ago and went to work for him (Mr. O'Neil). He stayed with him only two years when he went to some other part of the state, not liking where he was. That was 15 years ago, and we have never heard from him since. I keep praying that some day we will hear that he is alive while Jim thinks that he will turn up all right some day. But it's a great happiness to have Jim back with us and I know that he is going to remain with us."

While Mrs. McDevitt was speaking to the reporter, the other brother, "Barney," as he is familiarly called, entered the house with an old friend and in a moment the two white haired men were exchanging stories of boyhood days, interspersed with many a hearty slap on the back and dig in the ribs, and the scene of such real happiness was infectious and the reporter was loth to leave the little circle. Mrs. McDevitt's happiness is shared by the neighborhood for she is well beloved by all who know her, and her friends and neighbors rejoice with her husband and daughters that her hope of many years has been realized.

COAL TEAMSTERS

No Change Reported in Situation

LEATHER WORKERS ENDORSE STRIKE

Dealers Say Margin on Coal is Too Small

There is little or no change in the coal teamsters' and helpers' strike this morning. The strikers claim that they will stay out until their demands are granted and while some of the employers would willingly grant the demands if the rest would, the majority favors holding out as they claim that the present time is the dull season and the effect of a strike will not be the same as it would be during the cold months when business is rushing.

The Leather Workers' union, at a largely attended meeting last night, endorsed the strike of the coal teamsters, and promised moral and financial support. The members voted to "withhold their patronage from any and all coal dealers who refuse to comply with the request for an increase and to induce their friends to do likewise."

The strikers feel confident that their demand is a just one and that they are paid very small wages for the amount of work done, but on the other hand the employers claim that there is a margin of but 75 cents on a ton of coal and they cannot afford at the present time to grant the demand. Laforest Beals stated yesterday the wholesalers are putting an increase of 10 per cent. on the retail dealers every month.

Some of the dealers have hired "green hands" to unload cars standing on their tracks. W. H. Wilson & Co. having about 15 men who are unloading 20 of their cars.

It was noticed this morning that some of the dealers who had small rush orders sent the coal out in express wagons.

UNION PICNIC

OF THE BILLERICA CHURCHES TODAY.

The union picnic of the Congregational, Unitarian and Baptist churches of Billerica is being held at Canobie lake today. Three car loads of people went to the grounds and from reports the affair proved to be one of the grandest successes of the season.

Two of the big jumbo cars of the local division of the Southern New Hampshire Traction company, left Merrimack square at 9.15 o'clock, leading the regular car, while on the next trip another special car carried picknickers to the grounds.

After a most delightful ride the people arrived at the park, and after enjoying the different amusements at the park, had dinner, after which sports were indulged in.

THE LAST WEEK.

The Bon Marche Dry Goods Co. have introduced quite a new idea in this city in making their studio better known to the public. The firm wishes to make a special offer in that department. About two weeks ago they engaged Mr. F. Lindsley of Brooklyn, N. Y., and his demonstrators to introduce here the methods now being used in the large department stores throughout the country. Mr. Lindsley stands near the main entrance in their store demonstrating their work and selling a ticket for 25c, which entitles the holder to six large size cabinet photos and one 11x14 enlargement for $1.48. No extra charge for groups. All work fully guaranteed by the Bon Marche Dry Goods Co. to give satisfaction to every holder of said ticket. This will be the last week that these tickets can be had, and there is no doubt a great many people will want the offer after it is all over. The work they are giving for $1.73 cost ordinarily about $5.00. The tickets hold good until used and can be had only of Mr. Lindsley or his demonstrators. See the display at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets every evening this week.

A DARING ACT

"Mike" McDonough Stops a Runaway

By Striking Horse With a Broom—Exciting and Dangerous Runaway on Market St.

Michael McDonough, the Market street sweeper who has a fine record for stopping runaway horses made a most daring stop in Market street this noon.

Undoubtedly his act saved both life and property for the frenzied animal having broken off a stone post in its flight was making for the sidewalk.

The horse was one of a double hitch attached to one of the big ice carts of the Crystal Lake Ice company and it was left standing in front of Cahill's blacksmith shop while its mate was being shod.

The animal suddenly becoming frightened started down the street at a mad gallop and when at a point in front of Donovan's harness shop the wagon collided with a stone post with such force as to break off the post.

The horse then rushed along and was about to crash into E. A. McQuade's delivery wagon when Mr. McDonough, running in front of the animal struck it over the head with his big broom.

The force of the blow staggered the animal for a moment but before it could recover Mr. McDonough had dropped the broom and grabbed the bridle bringing the animal to a standstill. If he had missed his blow, it certainly would have been the finish of brave Michael, but he had a good eye and steady nerve and another good capture has been added to his record.

FOUR MISSING

Police Notified of Four Disappearances

The police have been notified of the disappearance of four men within the past 24 hours.

John D. DeCurtaret, a stone contractor of North Chelmsford, has not been seen since July 17. He has friends in Lawrence and Billerica and the police believe he will turn up all right.

Fred Rock, aged 16, of 790 Gorham street, left home on Saturday and has not turned up. He is light complexioned and when last seen wore dark short trousers, a mixed gray coat and cap.

Hermidas A. Lacerte, aged 41 years, was the third missing individual. Hermidas left his home and his wife and three children, at Tucker street, July 14.

He was of a melancholy tendency of mind and frequently talked of committing suicide. His wife believes he may have carried out his threats.

He was five feet, three inches in height and of a stout build. His complexion was dark and he had a black moustache. He wore when last seen a light coat, black trousers and a black stiff hat.

John O'Loughlin, aged 20 years, of 44 Elm street, has not been seen since Saturday, July 15. He returned from his work in the Waterhead mills and gave his pay to his relatives and then went out and has not been seen since. O'Loughlin came to this country from Ireland last August. He had often expressed himself as being dissatisfied with America and many times said he was homesick. He longed for the home land, and his parents believe he may have crossed the ocean on a cattle boat. When last seen he wor a dark blue suit. He was about 5 feet and 6 inches in height and weighed 150 pounds. He was dark complexioned.

DIAMOND RING

MAN FOUND IT IN A FISH.

WARE, July 25—"Polisk pie Kaz," yelled Michel Straczkaz, a Water street Polander, when he opened a sucker he had caught in the Ware river yesterday.

In the fish's stomach was a cluster diamond ring containing nine stones, which was later pronounced by an expert to be worth at least $150.

Michel did not know the value of the ring and was showing it to a crowd of people in Nenemercek square, when Charles G. Slater came along.

Mr. Slater belongs in Hartford, Conn., where there are more diamonds than in Ware, and he offered the Pole $15 for the ring.

Straczkaz clutched Slater with one hand and held out the ring with the other, and the trade was made.

Mr. Slater hunted up Paul Satz, a local jeweler, and had him examine the ring. He said it was worth at least $150 and that it probably cost $300 when new.

It is a lady's ring of beautiful design and there is considerable speculation as to where it originally came from.

The local police say there has been no report made for years of any jewelry of that description having been lost and they believe it was probably picked up by the fish somewhere in the Connecticut river, into which the Ware river flows. The ring appears to be none the worse for its stay in the fish's stomach and after being cleaned looked like new.

IN CONVENTION

Sons of St. George Grand Lodge

SESSION AT ODD FELLOWS TEMPLE

Reports of Grand Officers Made

The seventeenth grand lodge of the Sons of St. George of Massachusetts was opened at Odd Fellows temple in Middlesex street this morning.

Delegates began to arrive on the early morning trains from th edifferent cities and towns in the state, while a number arrived last night. Prior to the opening of the convention there was a renewal of old acquaintances.

At ten o'clock the credential committee got down to work and examined the credentials of the different delegates. There are 43 lodges in the state, each lodge being entitled to a delegate, though many alternates and friends were in attendance.

After the credential committee finished its work Grand President Thomas A. Mort called to order, after which he read his report in which he said:

I regret to report our finances have fallen behind. This is due to the high rate of sickness and death, also extra expenses which are not annual, as may be seen by reference to the grand secretary's report.

All of us have been fully aware of the great suffering existing in Fall River during the great strike of the cotton operatives, the lodges in that city stood nobly to the principles of our order until their funds were exhausted in relieving distressed brothers and their families.

I am pleased to say all our lodges, with two or three exceptions, are in a prosperous condition; a large amount of enthusiasm has been shown by the lodges visited, they all have given ample evidence of their appreciation. From all the evidence at my command I am safe in saying that there is a deep rooted desire on the part of all members to see our order grow and flourish; to rise to nobler and higher usefulness in helping the suffering brothers, as shown in the large amounts voted by some lodges to the Fall River fund.

I have striven hard to merit your great confidence and so far as I know have not left a stone unturned that would advance our order's interests, but brothers there is yet a great work to do, we as an order are not occupying that elevated position we are capable of attaining, many thousands of our countrymen and their descendants are all around us; let us keep our shoulder to the wheel of progress and surely success will reward our united efforts.

At the conclusion of the grand president's report the meeting was declared open, and His Honor, Mayor James B. Casey addressed the convention, welcoming the delegates to the city of spindles and giving them the key of the city.

The grand lodge degree was then exemplified. General routine business was then transacted, included in which were the reports of the secretary and treasurer.

Receipts, $2,799.04. Balance on hand, $752.06.

Fifty-six death claims were paid amounting to $5600.

PLACED IN A VAULT

Body of John Paul Jones at Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 24.—In a simple brick vault in the grounds of the naval academy today lies the body of John Paul Jones. With the ceremony attending the landing of the body from the cruiser Brooklyn, the naval expedition which transferred it from the Paris cemetery where it has lain for more than a century is completed. The formal national reception of the body with appropriate exercises is reserved until it shall be placed in the splendid naval chapel now being erected near the site of the temporary vault.

At 5 a. m. today, just as a thunder shower had spent its fury, the guns of the Brooklyn boomed a salute to Rear Admiral Sands, superintendent of the naval academy. The shore batteries replied and the naval tug Standish, in command of Lieut. Wiley, cast off and proceeded to the Brooklyn, lying five miles off. The saluting batteries were kept busy, as the French cruiser Jurlende La Graviere, followed the Brooklyn's shore salute with a similar one, the shore again making answer. The French cruiser and Rear Admiral Sigsbee exchanged salutes.

Then Rear Admiral Davis, commanding the four battleships lying opposite the four cruisers of the expedition fleet, saluted Rear Admiral Sigsbee and received a reply.

The Standish made fast to the Brooklyn shortly before 9 o'clock. The body of the dead admiral was hoisted from the "half deck" by a boat crane, carried to the starboard side and lowered to the after deck of the tug. Sixteen jackies went over the side of the Brooklyn and placed the coffin on a catafalque where it was covered by the flag of General Porter, over which was spread the Union Jack. The unsheathed sword of John Paul Jones, now the property of Commander Nicholson of the cruiser Tacoma was laid on the coffin.

Rear Admiral Sigsbee and his ship officers came aboard the tug and the start for the shore was begun. As the tug passed between the two columns of cruisers and battleships minute guns from every ship gave the fifteen-gun salute.

As the body was being transferred the marines of the squadron were sent ashore in small boats towed by launches. They formed an imposing guard drawn up in double line on the seawall of the basin of the naval academy. The Standish landed at a large over which an arch of American and French flags had been designed.

She touched shore at 10 o'clock and thirteen minutes later the body was ashore.

A hearse drawn by four black horses was in waiting on either side of which were the honorary hall-bearers, on the right side board Rear-Admiral Sands and Captains Tilley and Reeder, of Admiral Sigsbee's fleet, on the left was Captain Gertis of the French cruiser and Rear Admirals Davis and Captain Gaussig. At the extreme right of the line was the naval academy band, which played Chopin's funeral march as the body was placed in the hearse by the eight jackies who bore it aboard the Brooklyn at Cherbourg.

Behind them were eight jackies from the French cruiser as honorary bodybearers. The cortege began the march at 10.20 with the band leading and the marines and jackies preceding the hearse, which was followed by a battalions of midshipmen from the academy, Admiral Sigsbee bringing up the rear.

When the procession began to move a shore battery fired minute guns to the number of 15. The route of the march led to the centre of the academy grounds. Around the vault a huge square was formed on three sides by the sailors and marines, the fourth being occupied by the hearse and midshipmen.

After the body had been removed from the hearse and placed on a car which rested on a temporary wooden track leading to the vault, Chaplain Clark of the naval academy, assisted by fleet chaplain Bayard, read a portion of the Episcopal funeral service and offered prayer.

As the car was moved to the vault the band played the funeral march. After it had been placed in position a squad of marines fired three volleys and taps were sounded by the buglers. The cortege was then dismissed, the entire exercises on shore having occupied forty minutes. Rear-Admiral Sigsbee was in command of the exercises ashore and afloat. Rear-Admiral Sands, superintendent of the naval academy made all the shore arrangements.

The vault containing the body of John Paul Jones is draped in crepe. Over his coffin which is visible through the bread grated doors at either end are spread American flags. Outside paced an armed sentry.

The fifty other employes in the building escaped without any serious injuries, though two girls were slightly hurt.

MAY RECOVER

BOY WAS IN TRANCE FOR 109 DAYS.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Charles Canepl, Jr., a Yonkers contractor, who has lain in a trance-like stupor for 109 days, is apparently awakening from his long sleep.

Mrs. Canepl, the boy's mother, said yesterday that the child's temperature was normal, and that he breathed more easily and seemed to digest his food better.

When he was stricken Charles weighed sixty-eight pounds. Yesterday his weight was twenty-nine.

In the early stages of his illness the boy was fed artificially, but now he takes food through the mouth and seems to swallow it mechanically.

The attending physician believes nature will work its own course, and that the boy will eventually recover. It has not yet been determined whether the stupor is the result of an injury to the head due to a fall or to some affliction similar to spinal meningitis.

WAR DEPARTMENT

TAKES COGNIZANCE OF DEATH OF LAMONT.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The war department took cognizance of the death of former Secretary Lamont today by issuing the following order:

The acting secretary of war announces with deep sorrow the death of Honorable Daniel Scott Lamont, which occurred on the 23rd instant at his residence at Millbrook, in Duchess county, N. Y."

Mr. Lamont was secretary of war during the second administration of Pres. Cleveland from 1893 to 1897, a period of great activity in the administration of the war department. The service rendered by Secretary Lamont was of the greatest importance to the efficiency of the military establishment and his interest in the welfare of the officers and men of the army did not cease with his retirement from public office but continued unabated to the end of his life. He was a gentleman of broad and varied culture; of exalted personal character; of quick discernment in public affairs and of very great administrative ability, whose constant and kindly interest in the welfare of the army strongly attached him to those with whom he was associated in the conduct of military affairs.

As a mark of respect to his memory it is ordered that the flags at all the military posts be displayed at half staff on the day of the funeral.

TWO DEAD

USED A KNIFE

YOUNG BULLIES ATTACKED ARLINGTON BOY.

ARLINGTON, July 24.—Because he resented the bullying of two 8-year-old boys by a gang of young roughs, Walter Jukes, aged 14, of Arlington Heights, was stabbed in the right shoulder by a youth of about his own age, who, after inflicting the wound, made his escape.

The affair occurred late yesterday afternoon near the Arlington Centre transfer station, and was witnessed by a large crowd, who, believing it to be nothing more than a boys' quarrel, did not interfere. Jukes was not severely injured and received treatment at home sufficient to relieve his pain.

Jukes and other boys were playing about the banks of the Arlington reservoir when one of the gang, from Boston, walked over to where the others were standing and deliberately pushed young Savage into the water. Spencer rushed to his aid, and when he dragged him to land the gang set upon him.

At this point Jukes undertook to thrash the bullies. They decided then to cease tormenting the other lads and walked toward Arlington Centre. Jukes, Savage and Spencer followed. At the transfer station the exchanges of words led to blows, and before he realized it Jukes was stabbed. A Boston-bound elevated car was leaving at that minute and the gang hopped aboard and rode away.

MEANS A LIFE TERM

Man Was Accused by Many Little Girls

NEW YORK, July 24.—What was practically a life sentence in Sing Sing prison today was imposed upon Edward H. Neldinger, an aged man who last week was convicted of improper conduct in connection with so-called flower clubs which he organized for little girls. Nineteen years and ten months, within two months of the extreme penalty provided by the law, was the sentence of the court. Other indictments to be held over him in readiness for use should he survive the present sentence would give a sentence of eighty years.

BURGOYNE IS SAFE

MR. HUGH DUGGAN OF CONCORD STREET, BROTHER-IN-LAW OF FRANK BURGOYNE, A LOWELL BOY WHO WAS ON THE U. S. GUNBOAT BENNINGTON, RECEIVED A DISPATCH FROM HIM DATED SAN DIEGO, CAL., WHICH SAID: "ALL SAFE, WILL WRITE LATER."

TWO WERE KILLED

Four Persons Fell From Great Heights

NEW YORK, July 24—Fate played strange pranks with four persons who plunged from high roofs or windows yesterday. All of them fell at least four stories, but only two of the four were killed. One of the others was seriously injured, while the fourth—a boy of eight years, who tumbled five stories to the ground—escaped with slight bruises.

This boy was Joseph Colemerl, of No. 203 Forsyth street. He was sleeping on the fire escape on the sixth floor early yesterday morning when the rain woke him, and in groping sleepily for the window he fell through the opening in the floor of the fire escape. Down he went the whole six flights of the iron ladder, and at every floor encountered clothes lines that the dwellers of the tenements, in defiance of the law, had stretched across the opening to dry clothes upon. He broke line after line as he fell, and finally landed on an old fence, that gave way under his weight. When he was picked up by his father only a few scratches and slight bruises were found on him.

Despondent and insane on acount of the death of her three-weeks-old baby, Mrs. Lucy Collins, twenty-three years old, sprang from the window of her flat on the fifth floor of the tenement at No. 1449 Avenue A yesterday morning and was instantly killed by her fall. Her husband had prevented two earlier suicidal attempts, but when wearied by his long vigil and believing that she was asleep the man dozed in his chair. Then the wife climbed lightly over him to the windowsill and sprang into the air. Mr. Collins was wakened just as she went out the window and grasped her thin skirt, but the light garment was torn in his hands, and a moment later he heard his wife's body strike the pavement below.

Another fatal fall from a window occurred when Jacob Lebowsky, three years old, of No. 312 Henry street, with infantile curiosity, leaned too far out, lost his balance and dropped five stories to the yard below. An ambulance from Gouverneur hospital was summoned, but the surgeon at one glance saw that the child was dead, the skull having been crushed.

The fourth accident of the day was a curious one, in thatt he victim, who plunged head-first from the roof of a four-story tenement, was not instantly killed. Dante Bettrino, nine years old, of No. 2516 Park avenue, went to the roof of his home to play "tag." In eluding the boy who was "it" Bettrino made a misstep and leaped head-first into the air. His frightened companions rushed to the yard and picked him up. It was found that the little fellow's back was broken, and he was unconscious. He was taken to the Lebanon hospital, where it was stated that his chances of retaining life were good, though he will always be a cripple. On the way to the hospital a horse attached to the ambulance fell and broke his leg, and the boy had to be transferred to another vehicle.

COTTON LEAKS

Three Persons May be Indicted

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The Post today says there is no doubt that the district attorney hopes to secure the indictment through the grand jury investigation into the cotton report scandal of two or three or more persons, at least one of whom "is now or was formerly an official of the department of agriculture and that it is a certainty that the investigation conducted by the department of justice has brought to light a great mass of information, some of which is far more sensational than that of any that has so far been made public. It is proposed to summon before the grand jury every official and employee who could possibly know anything about cotton leaks. E. S. Holmes, Jr., the former associate statistician who was dismissed, has left Washington, for Chicago."

JOHN HYDE

WASHINGTON, July 24.—John Hyde, the former statistician of the department of agriculture, who resigned last week, has returned to England, whence he was summoned at the beginning of the department investigation which resulted in the dismissal of associate statistician Holmes. It is stated that Mr. Hyde has gone abroad to consult a London specialist and will be absent a month or six weeks.

TO CANADA

SEVERAL SUPPOSED VERMONT TOWNS BELONG.

NEWPORT, Vt., July 24.—The surveyors representing the United States and Canada have completed the inspection of the boundary line between the Dominion and the United States at Richford and North Troy.

It is stated that they have made startling discoveries. These are that Richford, East Richford and Stevens Mills, which are a short distance within what has been considered the Vermont side of the border, rightfully belong in Canada, and steps will probably be taken to fix the boundaries so as to give Canada either a recompense or the territory stated.

The United States surveyors are J. B. Baylor and son and P. W. Staples of Washington, D. C., and the Canadian engineers are E. C. and E. Rainboth and F. W. King of Ottawa.

The strip of land is several miles in length and from one-half mile to a mile in width, and has a population of about 4500.

Richford has been one of the important outposts of the United States along the border. The Chinese detention station is located there. The surveyors were there several days ago.

HELD IN $2000

LOUIS WRIGHT IS ACCUSED OF LARCENY.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 24.—Louis Wright of West Newton, Mass., who was arrested yesterday for two burglaries at the Union station restaurant in this city, waived examination in the city court today and was remanded to jail in default of bonds of $2,000 to await the action of the superior court. Wright is said to have confessed the burglaries to Chief-of-Police Gunn and to have also confessed that he was arrested for setting fires in Boston in February and March, 1903.

BIG FIRE

SEVERAL BUILDINGS IN SKOWHEGAN WERE DESTROYED.

SKOWHEGAN, Me., July 24.—Fire early this morning caused a loss to property on Water street estimated at $17,375, upon which there was a known insurance of $11,400.

The buildings burned consist of two carriage repositories and the greater part of their contents, a blacksmith shop and contents, two stables and a shed. A two-story frame dwelling was badly gutted also, and is practically a total loss, and the four-story brick block owned by R. W. Brown was badly burned from the roof to the second floor.

STREET WORK

Committee Recommends a Loan

FOR EXTENSION OF MOODY STREET

Action Taken on Other Improvements

At a meeting of the committee on streets, held last evening, it was voted to recommend to the city council that $22,000 be borrowed, that sum to be used for the paving of Moody street from Tilden street to Spalding street with bituminous tar macadam.

The committee considered a communication from J. A. Speirs relative to the sale of a piece of land required for the extension of Ina street. The strip of land is owned by a Mr. Giles. The communication requested that the owner of the property be exempt from taxation. City Engineer Bowers was instructed to inform the writer of the communication that the committee had no jurisdiction in the matter.

The sub-committee on the extension of Clough avenue reported progress. The report was accepted. It will cost about $500 to extend Clough avenue and it was represented by the committee that it would be a paying investment as the extension would mean new buildings.

The report on the extension of Dummer street was one of progress.

Messrs. Clough, Mahoney and W. J. Hayes were appointed a committee to talk with the abutters of West street relative to the widening of that street which at the present time is but 20 feet wide.

The chairman and the city engineer were instructed to interview the Shaw Stocking company and Mr. Gates relative to the purchase of a strip of land 10 feet wide, on the northerly side of New Fletcher street.

The petition for the macadamizing of Beacon street, from Methuen to Eighteenth streets, was read and a new hearing voted.

The joint order, empowering the mayor and the city council to sell at public auction the "ledge lot," at the corner of Fletcher and Bowers streets, provoked a slight discussion. View and hearing voted.

The petition for the macadamizing of Mammoth road was referred to the superintendent of streets.

The joint order of Councilman Carr to have the names of certain streets of the same name changed, was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion.

Views and hearings were voted on the following petitions: That Gershom avenue, from Moody street to Genoa avenue be laid out and accepted; that West Forrest street, from Stevens street to Clifford street be accepted; for a sidewalk of edgestones and cinders on both sides of New street; Mt. Washington street from Varney street to Bowers street be macadamized and put to grade and that the grade of sidewalk at the intersection of easterly line of Gorham street with southerly line of Central street be lowered and street at this point widened.

BRYAN FOR FOLK

Favors Him for President in 1908

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—It is stated on unimpeachable political authority that when William J. Bryan was in the city last Thursday he agreed to support Gov. Folk for the presidential nomination in 1908 if the latter was an "available" candidate at that time.

The deal is understood to have carried with it the return of Stone to the United States senate and the election of James M. Seibert as chairman of the state democratic committee, a return to power of the old democratic machine which was so badly shattered by Folk and his friends in the gubernatorial campaign.

The deal is said to have been laid before Gov. Folk last Friday by Col. Moses S. Wetmore and to have been accepted by the governor.

Dissatisfaction with the outcome of his racing venture for the year is said to be the reason for Mr. Smathers' decision. Some of his friends say his racing has cost him this season alone in the neighborhood of $250,000, exclusive of stable expenses.

ASKS $10,000

ALLEGES ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

BOSTON, July 25.—Seeking $10,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Frank H. Byrne of Winthrop has brought suit in the superior court in this county against Ralph P. Chase.

The Byrnes were married Feb. 19, 1902, at Winthrop, and lived there up to the time of the breach in their domestic life. On June 12 Byrne obtained a divorce from his wife on the ground of adultery, the defendant in the present suit, which was entered this month, having been named as corespondent.

The original libel was filed Feb. 20, but a substitute was filed by leave of court Feb. 25, in order to embrace an allegation of an offence committed subsequent to the bringing of the first action.

WATER BOARD

Honored Memory of August Fels

AT ITS MEETING LAST NIGHT

Testimonial Read by President

At a meeting of the water board held last evening the following tribute of respect to the late August Fels was read by Robert J. Crowley, president of the board:

"The Lowell water board aside from their desire to acknowledge how keenly they feel the personal loss of their late fellow member, August Fels, also deem it a matter of duty to have inscribed on the records of the board a testimonial from them of his worth as a faithful public servant.

"To him was vouchsafed the honor of having served the city in the capacity of a member of the water board a longer time than any other citizen. He became a member of the board in March, 1894, continuing from that date until the time of his lamentable death July 2, 1905. During his long period of service many important improvements had been made in the water works system, the most notable of which was the substitution of driven well water for Merrimack river water.

"The great and lasting benefit which was brought about by this change in the source of our water supply needs no comment excepting that Mr. Fels and colleagues, through whose wise judgment and ability this work was accomplished, deserve the gratitude of the people of Lowell. To the consideration of this problem Mr. Fels gave his valuable time freely and unremittingly. In fact, no member of the board was more energetic than he in what was practically a reconstruction of the water works plant.

"The routine work of the department also received his careful attention. He rarely missed a meeting of the board or of any of the sub-committees of which he was a member. His knowledge of the department in all its branches was thorough and complete. Every employe of the department knew, admired and respected him. The water takers had confidence in his integrity and ability.

"A feature of the water works property in which he was specially interested was the system of parks established over the conduit and tunnel in Pawtucketville, and the board believes that one of the parks should be named Fels park in his honor; and they so voted that the lot of land situated on the corner of Sarah avenue and Riverside street be hereafter known as Fels park."

On motion of Frank L. Weaver the board voted unanimously to adopt the testimonial. A copy of the testimonial will be sent to the bereaved family.—

The question of extending the water service to that part of Tewksbury known as Atherton was discussed but no action was taken as the board wanted more time to look into the matter. Mr. Edward Cawley, owner of the Atherton property, was on hand to offer any information requested by the board. It was promised, however, that no great delay would be made in the matter.

FREE TRANSFERS

HEARING ON MATTER HELD IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, July 25—The question of permitting the Boston & Northern to limit the present free transfer privileges in Wakefield, Stoneham, Reading, Malden and Melrose was again before the railroad commissioners yesterday afternoon at 21 Beacon street. The main issue before the commission was whether the transfer question could be treated apart from the question of increased rates. It had been suggested that the company intended to raise the fare to Boston from the centers of the towns indicated.

The board did not think the transfer petition should be passed upon without further consideration. Chairman Jackson said the board agreed in part with the policy of the company as outlined in the petition and also believed that the fare from Malden was "extraordinary." But the parties present, such as counsel for the town of Wakefield, were not prepared to go ahead yesterday on the transfer question, alone, without reference to the rate to Boston. The board, therefore, put over the transfer hearing to Sept. 7.

A FIREBUG

PUT SEVERAL LIVES IN PERIL.

BOSTON, July 25—After keeping quiet for several weeks, the Charlestown firebug made his presence known again early this morning by a dastardly attempt to burn the three-story wooden building corner of Water and Gray streets, Charlestown, in which two families were asleep in the upper part of the house.

The building is owned by the P. O'Riordan estate and occupied on the ground floor by James Hume as the White Star lunch room and he, with his wife and two sons, Herbert, aged 4, and Stephen, aged 6, with a boarder by the name of John J. Nolan, occupy the second floor, while the third floor is occupied by a Mrs. Eldridge and her two grown-up sons.

When the fire was discovered these people were all asleep and Patrolman Gould, attracted by cries on the street and seeing the fire burning on the ground floor, seized a stone and threw it through a second story window to arouse the occupants. Then, bursting in the door on the Gray street side, he ran up stairs and awoke the sleepers.

RUSSIA'S PLAN

Wants Japan to Assume War Loans

BERLIN, July 24—The Lokal Anzeiger, today says:

"Russia may propose to Japan to take over all her foreign war loans in lieu of indemnity. M. Witte's interviews in Paris are connected with such a plan and the visit of Herr Ernst Von Mendelssohn, head of Russia's principal bankers to Berlin, to chancellor Von Buelow is supposed to be on the same business."

MAN SHOT

ACCIDENT IN A GALLERY AT PROVIDENCE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 24—Joseph di Montagny, 33 years old, residing at 190 Carpenter street, this city, was seriously wounded at Crescent Park last evening by Henry Hughes of Fall River, who is under arrest.

Hughes was in a shooting gallery on the Midway. He had fired several shots at a target and was in the act of closing the chamber of his rifle, having inserted a cartridge, when the crowd, which was jostling him, pushed Di Montagny in front of the muzzle of the weapon. At that instant the cartridge was discharged, the bullet entering Di Montagny's right side below the ribs and penetrating his intestines. Di Montagny was brought to the Rhode Island hospital, where his wound was found to be of a grave character.

SHOT AND KNIFED

Man Was Trying to Settle Strike

NEW YORK, July 24.—For attempting to bring a strike to a peaceful ending Geo. Prescott, walking delegate for the National Teamsters' union, was shot today, probably fatally. Union teamsters employed by Joseph Johnson & Co. of Staten Island, notified the National union that they had struck and that non-union men were working in their places. There was no disorder, but when Prescott landed on the island to meet Mr. Johnson and discuss the strike, his steps were dogged by two Italians, said to be non-union drivers, who at a lonely corner ordered him off the island and then shot him through the body once and also stabbed him. Prescott was carried unconscious to a hospital. The Italians were arrested.

WHEAT BROKE

PIT WAS FLOODED WITH SELLING ORDERS.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The price of wheat for September delivery broke 2¼ a 2½ cent to 3¾ a 3½ cent a bushel on opening trades here today. Advices indicating that the results of the damage by black rust to spring sown wheat had been greatly exaggerated were chiefly responsible for the vast volume of selling orders that flooded the pit. A slump at Minneapolis of nearly five cents in the price of wheat for September delivery had a weakening effect on the market here.

ONE MATCH

PLAYED IN THE SINGLE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

BRISTOL, R. I., July 24.—The Rhode Island state tennis championship tournament was begun under slightly unfavorable weather conditions on the courts of the Bristol Y. M. C. A. here today. The sky was overcast, the weather cool, while a moderate southwest breeze blew lengthwise of the courts. The gallery was small. In the single championship, in which 51 players are entered, but one match was played during the morning between Robert Nelson and A. F. Potter, which the latter won handily after a fast first set. Two other players defaulted. Good matches are expected this afternoon, when some of the states' most prominent players will play.

The morning's summaries:

State championship, singles, first round—A. F. Potter beat Robert Nelson 5-7, 6-1, 6-3.

F. M. Diamond beat H. W. Stiness by default.

Paul Howe beat W. R. Davis by default.

EMPEROR WILLIAM

Talks Over Peace Terms With the Czar

BERLIN, July 24, 1.06 p. m.—The foreign office here is advised that a meeting between Emperor William and Emperor Nicholas took place early today off the Swedish coast near the island of Bjoerkoe.

Emperor Nicholas wrote to Emperor William several days ago that if during the latter's yachting in the Baltic he should approach the Russian shore, he (Emperor Nicholas) would be pleased to meet him. The German emperor replied that he would be glad to cruise to any convenient point and the island of Bjoerkoe was suggested. It was understood that the conversation was to be entirely personal and intimate and therefore no minister from either government was present, although the Russian minister of marine is in Emperor Nicholas' suite. The meeting is a sequence of the correspondence that has been going on between the two emperors concerning peace, in which Emperor William urged Emperor Nicholas to take steps towards peace. Emperor William was then co-operating with President Roosevelt in seeking to bring the belligerents to a discussion of the terms of peace and in the present meeting, the Associated Press is authoritatively informed Emperor William will continue to advise peace, should the Russian emperor ask for his further views, and it would be very natural that Emperor Nicholas should do so as a development of the correspondence which has already taken place.

Emperor William went to the meeting as the Associated Press is officially informed prepared to say if he were asked that he thought Emperor Nicholas could attain a full understanding and reconciliation with the discontented portions of his people only through reforms. The German government is interested in having the neighboring country peaceful and prosperous for it is toward the Russian empire that Germany's manufacturers look for great trade expansion in the future. The German emperor is most reluctant to have either the Russians or others think that he is volunteering suggestions regarding the internal affairs of Russia. He is not doing so but will only give his personal views on their being asked.

Emperor William has the fullest information regarding the Russian situation and may be able to give Emperor Nicholas statements of fact and deductions from them that are unknown to the Russian emperor.

So far as the rumors in other capitols that a scheme is afloat to combine several of the powers in giving Russia moral support against Japan in the negotiations soon to be opened at Portsmouth, N. H., concern Germany, they are denied explicitly. Germany's policy of non-interference, it is often declared, remains the same.

WAS MURDERED

Chicago Man Attacked by Thugs

CHICAGO, July 24—The police believe that the death of John Tesmer at the County hospital yesterday, an hour after he had been found in a doorway on Ashland avenue, was due to torture inflicted by men who attacked and robbed him.

Tesmer who was a prosperous real estate owner, had collected rents at several places and was going to his residence when he was attacked. Evidently, he fought off the gang until his strength failed. After having robbed him, they then dragged the unconscious man into a doorway and opened the arteries in his wrists. Passersby found him some hours later.

WANTS DIVORCE

HAVERHILL WOMAN BEGINS ACTION IN TACOMA COURTS.

TACOMA, Wash., July 24—Alleging that her husband treated her with indifference and was caustic in his remarks, Mrs. Carrie D. Walker of Haverhill, Mass., has commenced suit for divorce from Fred S. Walker. They were married in May, 1894, at Haverhill, where he (Walker) is a wealthy meat dealer. The plaintiff alleges that when ill and confined to her room the defendant left her during the winter without fire in the house and without a nurse to care for her.

Mrs. Walker claims she suffered great privations and was compelled to go to a Montreal hospital. She asks the court to award her $100 attorney's fees, $50 a month alimony during pendency of action and $20 a month alimony after the divorce has been granted. The plaintiff also asks that she be decreed possession of one-half of the property now held by the defendant. She alleges that her husband's action compelled her to leave him in September, 1900.

Operations to recover possession of that city commenced July 17, from three directions. Marshal Ahmed Fezi Pasha at the head of the Albanian battalions dislodged the rebels from a strong position, near Menakha, inflicting severe losses on them.

MOST DARING

SPOKANE, Wash., July 24.—Five military convicts escaped last night from the guard-house at Fort Wright. All were serving for desertion. The outbreak was one of the most daring ever attempted at Fort Wright. With the whole post out of doors, enjoying the cool evening air and from six to ten guards in an adjoining room, the five sawed their way through two iron bars, three quarters of an inch thick, and escaped through a window.

BIG PILGRIMAGE

500 Went to Shrine of St. Anne

More than 500 people started on a pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre yesterday afternoon. It was one of the most successful organized pilgrimages which has evr lft this vicinity for the famous shrine near the city of Quebec. The long train of tourist and combination passenger and sleeping coaches which left the north station, Boston, at 3 o'clock were filled to their capacity. Rev. Edward F. Saunders of St. Anne's church, Somerville, organized the pilgrimage and will have charge of it until the return. He had the approval of Archbishop Williams in his undertaking and the co-operation of priests in various parishes. Several other priests are in the party. While many are making the pilgrimage as a vacation trip, there are others who seek relief for an ill of their own, of their family, or of a close friend. The shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre is noted for the miraculous cures that have been effected there. In the churches in the town are stacks of crutches, braces and other appliances which have been left there by those who have been cured. Those who went on the pilgrimage began a novena in honor of the mother of the Blessed Virgin, St. Anne, some days ago. This novena will cover a period of nine days. Today a triduum began. This is a three days' special devotion in honor of St. Anne. Those who started from this city yesterday arrived at St. Anne de Beaupre this morning. After breakfast they attended solemn high mass which will be the first of a number of services that will take place each morning and evening until the feast day of St. Anne. On the feast day all who have been making a novena of the ariduum will receive holy communion. Some of the pilgrims will remain on the trip seven days and others 10 days. In addition to the religious exercises there are to be a number of excursions to various places. This pilgrimage is the first from this vicinity in four years.

LARCENY

STEVEDORES AND DECK-HANDS UNDER ARREST.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 24—Twenty-one men, comprising the entire crew of stevedores and deck-hands of the steamer Allan Joy of the Bridgeport-New York line, have been arrested charged with the theft of small articles from freight packages. Some of the stolen goods are said to have been found in the men's quarters. All the arrested men named New York as their residence.

BUTCHERS

MAY AMALGAMATE WITH THE MEAT DEALERS.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Amalgamation of the National Retail Butchers and Meat Dealers' Association of the East and Master Retail Butchers of the West, heretofore separate organizations having common aims and purposes is expected to result from a convention at Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 1. The eastern delegates will leave here by special train July 31.

In discussing the objects of the proposed amalgamation, George H. Shaffer, president of the eastern association, said:

"As a united organization, I am certain we will strongly influence for the better the now failing industry of stock raising in the eastern states. There are also certain game tax laws, the repeal of which it might be possible to bring about by sheer strength of numbers in our protest. As they stand now they make certain game a never-to-be-thought-of luxury for people of moderate means.

"That the associations when united will prove one of the strongest organizations of business men in the United States, goes without saying. Its strength, power and benefits will be felt and shared by the entire country from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast."

ABOUT SMALLPOX

Believed That It Has Spent Itself

SPOTTED FEVER ON THE RUN

Work Pushed on New School House

The last case of smallpox reported was July 6, and the board of health believes that it has had its run. The last patient left the contagious hospital one week ago and if the city has any more trouble with the disease, at this time it will probably be due to cases that were not reported; cases that were concealed. The board, however, is not borrowing any trouble along this line. The board does not dread a return of cerebro-spinal meningitis, not at least, while warm weather continues.

The brick work on the Ennell street school will be begun this week.

The committee on streets will meet this evening at 8 o'clock and the water board will meet at the same hour.

The common council will meet tomorrow evening and will proceed to ballot for a fourth member of the water board. Z. Wm Sturtevant who was the choice of the board of aldermen for the water board job, expresses himself as confident of winning out in the lower board.

He was taken to the Emergency hospital where two stitches were taken and the wounds were dressed. The accident was caused by Daigle striking his hand against a circular saw.

O'CALLAHAN—The funeral of the late Daniel O'Callahan took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock from his late home, 20 Whipple street and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at nine o'clock at St. Peter's church by Rev. Hugh McDermod. The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by the members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. John Cotter, Martin Donnelly, Frank Howard, Thomas Keefe, John Haggerty and James Donohoe. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of funeral director John F. Rogers.

GAS HEARING

QUESTION HINGES ON THE PRICE OF GAS.

BOSTON, July 24.—The state gas commissioners gave a hearing today on the petition of the Boston Consolidated Gas company for the approval of a contract made with the New England Gas and Coke company for a large supply of gas.

The point at issue is whether the prices to be paid are less than it would cost the Boston Consolidated Gas company to make its own gas.

The Coke company agrees to supply the gas company with not less than 3,500,000 cubic fet a day and if the supply falls below this amount, it will pay the gas company 15 cents per thousand feet for such deficit except when deficit is caused by strike, fire or inevitable casualty. There was no opposition to the petition.

THE TALISMAN

Won the Race For Motor Boats

MARBLEHEAD, July 24—The motor-boat Talisman owned by Wm. Saville of Boston won the long distance contest from New York to Marblehead today. The Talisman crossed the finish line off the Eastern yacht club's house at 9.21.15 having completed the run of 280 miles from New York in official elapsed time of 15 hours, 11 minutes and 58 seconds. When the Talisman finished none of the other boats was in sight.

The Talisman had a very rough trip around Cape Cod against a head wind and a heavy sea. She put in at Cottage City yesterday to coal, stopping only a few moments, and then resuming the race.

The Talisman was built in 1901 at South Boston. She has an eight horse power motor, is 32 feet 8 inches over all in length, 8 feet 5 inches beam and of 2 feet, 10 inches draft. Her victory is attributed to her cruising qualities. The race was for a $500 bronze and silver cup and was run under the auspices of the Knickerbocker yacht club of New York.

Mr. Saville, his sons and a friend who comprised the crew of the Talisman were greatly exhausted by the trip, the violence of the sea having made sleep impossible for any of them during the run. The log of the Talisman shows that her engine was run at full speed without stop during the entire distance, her motor giving the propeller 385 revolutions.

The Talisman started on the race at noon. She had a light northwest wind down the sound to Plum Gut. Between Block Island and Point Judith the sea began to rough up and shortly afterwards became very nasty. In Vineyard Sound yesterday the heavy northeast wind and the cross running sea opposed the progress. At times she was submerged by the waves and those on board were drenched repeatedly. Although there was no abatement in the bad weather, Captain Saville determined to keep on. He said today however, that the run from Cottage City to Highland Light, was the worst he had ever experienced and that he never would have undertaken it had he fully appreciated conditions. The Talisman at times was tossed by the great waves until it seemed as if she would leave the water and again plunging through them it seemed as if she must founder. At one point, a severe squall like that of winter, bringing with it hail and sleet was encountered.

Off Pollock Rip the steering gear gave out but was patched up.

Highland light was passed at 2.10 a. m., and from that point the course was northwest which brought the wind a slant instead of dead ahead as it had been for more than 26 hours. This made the course of the boat a bit easier but it was still very rough and the high wind drove the spray in cutting sheets off the bow. On the way across Massachusetts Bay considerable fog was encountered, but for the last two or three hours of the course, conditions were comparatively comfortable.

The Talisman might have been a winner without having finished first, as she has a time allowance of 16 hours, 14 minutes and 9 seconds over the scratch boats.

MEXICAN BANDITS

Demanded Ransom Money From Prisoner

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The Examiner today says:

Bound, gagged and at the mercy of Mexican bandits, B. S. Loomis, a San Franciscan, was held a prisoner in the mountains of Cerro de San Juan, near San Blas, Mex. A promise of the payment of a ransom saved his life, for it was the intention of the robbers to kill him after they had stripped him of his effects. Loomis is the superintendent of a fruit company at San Blas and is well known in this city.

In telling his experience, Loomis writes:

"While returning from Tepic I was held up by bandits and robbed of my effects. I was bound and gagged and then taken to a narrow canyon to be killed. I bought the bandits off with a promise to pay them $200, the money to be taken to a certain point on a certain day. They threatened to seize me on the plantation and kill me at night if I did not keep the promise and instead of sending the money, I purchased a rifle for my protection."

REAR END CRASH

Three Railroad Men Were Injured

OPEN SWITCH CAUSE OF ACCIDENT

Train Was Going 20 Miles an Hour

PORTLAND, Maine, July 24—Three railroad men were injured by a rear-end collision of a passenger train with a freight train, a half mile east of Cumberland Mills station, on the Worcester, Nashua and Portland division of the Boston & Maine railroad today. The accident was due to an open switch, the freight having taken a siding to allow the passenger train, which followed, to cross. The freight was an extra numbered 671 and was bound from Portland to Nashua. The passenger train was number 2 and left Portland at 7.33 this morning for Worcester.

The injured:

Engineer Frank Elwell, Portland, rib broken and internal injuries, not serious.

Fireman Lewis A. Bishop, Portland, bruises.

Brakeman ——, bruises.

The passenger train was going about 20 miles an hour and had rounded a curve when Engineer Elwell noticed the switch was set against him. He applied the airbrakes but there was not sufficient time to prevent a collision.

Just before the trains went together the engineer and fireman jumped. The former fell and sustained a broken rib and slight internal injuries. The fireman was somewhat cut and bruised.

The engine forced the freight caboose off the track and rode a flat car which was next, in front of it. The engine was badly smashed. None of the passenger cars were damaged. The passengers escaped with only a slight shaking up. The rear brakeman of the freight, who was standing near the caboose, was cut by splinters. Traffic was blocked all the forenoon.

YELLOW FEVER

Move to Prevent Further Outbreak

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Surgeon-General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service, who has been absent on official business, is on his way to Washington and upon his arrival will give personal attention to the yellow fever situation in New Orleans. Meantime the service under the direction of Dr. Glennan is co-operating with the New Orleans authorities to prevent any fresh outbreak. There are in that city half a dozen trained members of the force who are giving their especial attention to getting residents away. To accomplish this end without endangering other communities, a large number of detention camps will be established outside the New Orleans city limits. In these refugees will be held for a sufficient time to protect those with whom they may later come in contact.

"Beyond this I can say nothing as yet because the material facts are but very imperfectly understood. I deprecate the publication of conjectures or speculations as to the possible cause of the disaster. But I think this department may reasonably ask from an indulgent public that it be trusted to do what is needed under the circumstances hereafter shown to have existed whether as a matter of justice towards individuals or of precaution against similar misfortunes in the future."

WILL NOT RESIGN

Balfour So Informs the House of Commons

PREMIER CHEERED BY SUPPORTERS

His Speech Tried Patience of Hearers

LONDON, July 24, 2.30 p. m.—The government has no intention of resigning in consequence of Thursday's adverse vote. This was the gist of Premier Balfour's eagerly anticipated statement in the house of commons this afternoon. Although it has been generally recognized that such would be the decision of the premier there was feverish eagerness on all sides to hear the exact terms of his statement. The house was literally packed. Every gallery available to the peers and the public was crowded and there had not been such an attendance of members during the life of the present parliament.

Mr. Balfour, who was heartily cheered by his supporters on rising somewhat tried the patience of his hearers, by a long disquisition on how former administrations had ignored defeats similar to that of Thursday. He declared that such incidents had never been regarded as ground for resignation or dissolution and announced that the government did not propose either to resign or dissolve parliament because of Thursday's occurrence.

The premier hoped that the practice would never prevail of allowing a government united in itself and possessing the confidence of the majority of the house to abandon its post merely in consequence of such a vote.

Mr. Balfour sat down without referring to the remaining business of the session and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the liberal leader, immediately asked for an opportunity to discuss the premier's statement. The opposition, he said, did not propose to proceed with Sir Edward Gray's proposed vote of censure which obviously was superceded by the occurence of Thursday. They wanted to discuss the conduct of the government regarding the events of last week.

John Redmond, the Irish nationalist leader, took a similar line and the heated tone of both leaders indicated that the government will have to face the most determined opposition during the balance of the session. Ultimately by arrangement with Mr. Balfour, the chief government whip, Sir Alexander Acland-Hood, formerly moved the adjournment and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman opened the debate with an attack on the government.

LOST HIS LIFE

Young Man Saved Mother and Sister

FIRE IN TENEMENT HOUSE

Occupants Barely Made Their Escape

NEW YORK, July 25.—In a heroic effort to save his mother and sister who with a score of others were for a time in great peril, from fire, Nathan Newman, 20 years old, today, lost his own life in a burning Brooklyn tenement house. Half a dozen Hebrew families were sleeping in the double deck three story building when the fire started. When the alarm was given the fire had reached practically every floor and the occupants were forced to flee for their lives.

Many were too late to get down the stairways before their escape was cut off by the flames. These sought to escape by the narrow ladder which leads to the roof. Newman got through in safety but was unable to find his mother and sister. He went back into the building, found the women and assisted them through the opening to the roof. When he tried to follow them, however, the ladder was surrounded by flames. He made a rush through the fire but was overcome just as he reached the top and fell back into the burning building to his death. All the other occupants of the house escaped. The loss on the building was $10,000.

BOY SUSPECTS

They May be Noted Firebugs

BOSTON, July 25—A 12-year-old boy and his brother, three years his senior, are now being closely watched by the officers from the fire marshal's office, in hopes that the mystery about the recent firebugs scare throughout the city may be cleared up.

The 12-year-old lad has confessed, it is said, to setting fire on March 28 last to the brick building 53 Haverhill street, occupied by the Hub Moulding company.

The lad, whose identity the police are closely guarding, states, so they say, that he set the fire with oil waste stolen from the journal boxes of a freight car, and then, lighted and thrown into the doorway of the building.

A damage of $1000 was done before the fire was extinguished.

Efforts have been made to get the young lad to admit knowledge of the same style fires which cost over $3,000,000 loss at the Hoosac block.

CITY IS SHOCKED

Brockton Has a Police Scandal

BROCKTON, July 25.—This city is shocked as never before in its history as the result of disclosures made at a police hearing yesterday afternoon by Miss Stella Elliott, an 18-year-old girl, who charged, in the presence of Mayor Edward H. Keith, Aldermen Charles C. Eaton, William Lays, Arthur E. Kendrick, Harry L. Thompson, Edward Gilmore, George A. Monk, William H. Clifford and an audience that crowded city hall to the point of suffocation, that Inspector Chester E. Harris of the police force, right-hand man to City Marshal Boyden, betrayed her and then arrested her for street walking.

She charged Harris with the paternity of the female child born to her in a girls' refuge in Providence last December, and that died there in March, and further charged that she revealed to City Marshal Boyden the inspector's share in her shame, and that he concealed the facts rather than dismiss him.

INSPECTOR IS SUSPENDED.

Inspector Harris, a married man, aged 32, and of handsome appearance, was last night suspended by Mayor Keith and the committee on police, pending a formal investigation at which he will have the opportunity to defend himself.

Attorney E. F. O'Neill, her counsel, states that criminal charges will probably be made.

Stella Elliott testified in the presence of the throng, a goodly proportion of which consists of well-known women, that she came here in August, 1903, from South Hanson, where her father is a poor wood chopper, with 11 children. Forced to earn her own living at that early age, she secured employment in a restaurant.

When there but a short time her comely appearance attracted his attention and, she said, he began his improper conduct by snapping a pair of handcuffs on her wrists, in a spirit of fun, and then subjecting her to indignities. She charged that he lured her to the police station about two weeks after.

With childish frankness she continued to tell of their meetings, while the aldermen subjected her to the most searching cross-examination.

"When did you learn that you were to become a mother" she was asked.

WAS IN IGNORANCE.

"In the police station, after Inspector Harris had arrested me for night walking," she said, "I was examined by City Physician E. P. Glenson. Then Mrs. A. P. Alden aided me, and I was sent to Providence, where my child was born."

"And you told the marshal all about it last October, when you were arrested?" asked Alderman Gilmore.

"I did," the girl answered. "He seemed interested, but did nothing about it. My child resembled Mr. Harris. She had dark red hair, the same as his."

Mrs. Jennie Sherman testified to a knowledge of the intimacy between the Elliott girl and the inspector.

Rupert O. Hatch, Selgfred Anderson, Miss Octavia Gilbert and others contributed more sensational testimony. The city is much excited over the affair.

BECAME INSANE

Mrs. Jeanette Walsh Wrecked Her Home

WHILE VIOLENTLY INSANE YESTERDAY

She Was Removed to City Hospital

Jeanette Walsh, a former inmate of the Worcester Insane Asylum became suddenly insane again at her home, 17 Hawtelle Place, yesterday afternoon and completely wrecked her home before she was subdued and removed to the police station whence she was taken to the city hospital.

The unfortunate woman who is 40 years of age lived with her mother, at the home of her brother, Fred Seavey and although she had spent two years and a half in the Worcester Asylum four years ago she was considered perfectly rational.

Suddenly yesterday afternoon, without even a moment's warning she grabbed the dishes from the table and threw them in all directions with all the force at her command. Then she ran through the house pushing her fists through every pane of glass within her reach. Her mother tried to stop her and was struck several hard blows. Finally two citizens were attracted by her strange screams and they attempted to hold the infuriated woman. They were scratched and narrowly escaped being bitten. Officer Page who was summoned ordered the patrol wagon and assisted in holding her until its arrival. At the police station she was in a state of frenzy but finally went into a state of exhaustion.

LOWELL MAN

GOT HIMSELF INTO TROUBLE IN LAWRENCE.

The Lawrence Sun says:

Antonio Lapadula, who was arrested Sunday evening about 8.30 o'clock by Officers Vose and Griffin at the lower end of Common street in a very drunken condition and carrying a loaded revolver and a vicious looking dirk with a blade about five inches long, with an edge and point as sharp as a razor was fined $1 for drunkenness and $5 for carrying concealed weapons.

Lapadula, it seems, has a good record as a law abiding citizen and holds a responsible position in Lowell as a foreman of building laborers employed in the construction of a large mill. He said that the gun belonged to a friend and that the knife was used for cutting bread and tobacco during meal hours.

SECRETARY TAFT

Given Hearty Welcome to Japan

YOKOHAMA, July 25.—Secretary of War Taft and party received a demonstrative welcome to Japan, the principal buildings, streets and wharves of the city and the shipping in the harbor being gaily decorated. A noisy display of daylight fireworks along the streets fronting the harbor announced the arrival of the steamer Manchuria at the quarantine grounds at 1 o'clock this morning and continued until the vessel was docked. Lloyd C. Griscom, the American minister, the attaches of the legation and consul general H. B. Miller of New Chwang, together with representatives of the Japanese Imperial household, foreign officers, war department and the Asiatic society, then boarded the Manchuria and extended formal greetings to Secretary Taft and Miss Roosevelt, who held an informal reception upon the deck. The party then was driven to the railroad station through the crowded streets, and, boarding a special train, departed for Tokio at 10 a. m., amid the cheers of the assembled multitude.

Upon their arrival at Tokio, Secretary Taft and his personal staff were taken to Shiba, where a detached palace was provided for their accommodation. Miss Roosevelt accompanied Minister Griscom to the American legation.

The voyage was uneventful and the party arrived well.

A RAGGED GAME

Lowell Allowed Nine Runs at Start

CONCORD, N. H., July 25.—It looked like rain and but few attended the game; it did rain and the game was called in the sixth inning. It was a good thing, too, that the game was called, for the Lowell team put up another of their celebrated exhibitions. Lowell allowed nine runs in the first inning, and yet the players wonder why their salary is overdue. The players took the receipts before the game, as usual.

DIAMOND NOTES.

New Bedford at Lowell.

Huntington is talking of going to Rutland, Vt. He'd better remain where he is and get a little more experience before starting out.

Jack Kerins has received an offer from the American association.

According to the schedule Lowell has home games Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. Here's hoping they give us a little baseball during the four days.

Sullivan is out of the game with a bad finger. It's too bad, for Sully was one of the real working ball players in the team.

BATTING AVERAGES

AS COMPILED BY THE WEBSTER SYSTEM.

This system gives to the batter all the points, or bases, run upon his hit, and all the bases made upon any hit of the batter not an error, by base runners who have preceded him. These are designated batted bases and from them the true record of percentage to the batsman is derived. A sacrifice hit is scored a time at bat, as the player is credited with whatever is accomplished by said hit.

Connors and Grant Go to Boston

Capt. Connors and George Grant were both too ill to go to Concord yesterday. Connors with cramps and Grant with an injured nose. Both recovered sufficiently, however, to go to Boston in the afternoon and confer with J. C. Morse, secretary of the New England league.

While there, according to Capt. Connors, they met President Harry Pulliam of the National league and Secretary Locke of the Pittsburg National team and with them attended the Boston-Pittsburg game.

Upon his return Capt. Connors gave out the following statement:

"As the result of our talk with President Pulliam and Secretary Morse, we are not worrying so much about our salaries. We have a way of getting our money. What it is I do not wish to state at the present time, but it is a fact that we have a remedy.

"We will play with New Bedford at Spalding park this afternon and will not ask for the money received at the gate as we have been doing. President Pulliam informed us that we had no occasion to worry, and he also said that there was no such thing as 15 days' lee way for a manager to meet his financial obligations.

"Looking over the New England league's constitution we found that no reference was made whatever to the question of how long a manager could owe his players after the salaries were due. We will play out the present week, in all probability, and then if we are not paid, there will be something doing."

Sec. Morse is the authority for the 15 days' statement.

BROCKTON TALK

OVER FUTURE OF LOWELL TEAM.

The Brockton Enterprise yesterday had the following:

There was a good chance for the Walkover baseball association to get the Lowell team for the New England league for the rest of the season if they wanted it for Brockton. This would take not only the players but the franchise, and would result in putting the association in a position to have a team and franchise for the next season as well as this.

The matter was broached to leading members of the association yesterday by Treasurer M. F. Farrell, who had been told that the Lowell team might perhaps be readily obtained for this city. It was understood that—different from the Manchester scheme—it would not be necessary for the association to put up much if any money to get the team and franchise.

Treasurer Farrell said today that the opinion among those he had seen was that the Walkovers would do better this season to go along with independent ball. The Stoughton series for one thing is going to be a money-maker without doubt, and it is considered by those who were seen by the treasurer that it is best to let well enough alone just now.

President Maguire is out of the city.

The Lowells have been reported as on strike for salaries this week, and it is likely that they will soon be transferred to some other city. The team has not run with its usual success this year.

Manager Reardon says that the Walkovers will not go into the New England League this season, but might another season if conditions seemed right. The Walkover management is satisfied with the present outlook for independent ball in this city, and believes the quality and interest of the games that are being played here now is fully equal to that which would be seen here in New England League games. The Lowell team is not a winning proposition anyway. The only New England League ball that will be seen on these grounds this season will be that shown in exhibition games when the New England teams come here.

WOMAN DYING

SHE JUMPED FROM AN ELECTRIC CAR.

SPRINGFIELD, July 25.—Mrs. Amelia Bushey of Indian Orchard was injured, probably fatally, by jumping from a Palmer trolley car in Ludlow yesterday afternoon. She had been visiting in North Wilbraham. She signaled the conductor to stop and without waiting to see whether the car slackened speed stepped to the running board and jumped off.

She was unconscious when assistance reached her and was taken to the house of Mercy in this city. Her skull was fractured at the base of the brain and the surgeons do not believe that she can last through the night.

Mrs. Bushey is but 17 years old and married George Bushey less than a year ago. Mr. Bushey was summoned to the hospital as soon as the identity of his wife became known.

FIGHT FOR CHILD

Cambridge Man Wants His Son

BOSTON, July 25.—Cambridge has at present one of the most sensational cases in years in the fight made by Fireman Arthur McArthur, first for his wife's body and then for the custody of his 2-year-old son.

McArthur's wife committed suicide Saturday last. She had left him and he intended bringing suit for divorce, alleging cruelty.

Mrs. McArthur died at her mother's where she had been since she left her husband, and when he was told he could not get the body he threatened to go into court for an injunction.

To prevent such action, the mother held funeral services at her home yesterday, and then allowed the body of her daughter to be taken by McArthur to his mother's home for a second funeral service today.

Then McArthur took steps to obtain custody of his son Neil, who is with his grandmother, Mrs. Esterbrook.

Mr. McArthur says that he wants the boy to attend the funeral services. He will apply to the court to secure possession of the child and to insure his attendance at the services.

He will also later proceed in court, he says, to secure possession of $500 worth of goods which, he claims, belonged to his wife before her death.

Yesterday afternoon Belle McArthur, niece of Arthur McArthur, went to the Esterbrook house to secure the child Niel. The lad refused to go to his father.

Later on about 7.15 p.m., Patrolman William Rowe went to the Esterbrook house to get possession of the child. He was in the company of McArthur.

Rowe asked Neil if he wanted to go, and the boy said "No." The patrolman asked him why he didn't want to go. The child said that he was afraid of his father because the latter had kicked him several times. He told a story of one instance of this kind.

Rowe went away without the child.

THE BENNINGTON FLOATED.

WASHINGTON, July 25—A telegram received at the navy department over night from Captain Drake states that the Bennington was floated at 6.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and is now alongside the wharf.

FOR AN OLD MAID

Y. M. C. A. Boys Defend Her

SAY SHE IS BETTER ON A FARM

Than the Ordinary Old Style Wheelbarrow

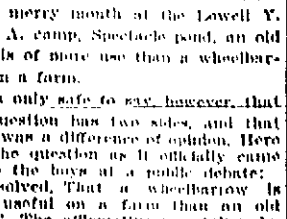

According to the boys who are having a merry month at the Lowell Y. M. C. A. camp, Spectacle pond, an old maid is of more use than a wheelbarrow on a farm.

It is only safe to say, however, that the question has two sides, and that there was a difference of opinion. Here was the question as it officially came before the boys at a public debate:

"Resolved, That a wheelbarrow is more useful on a farm than an old maid." The affirmative was taken by Douglas Morey and Physical Director Maxwell, while Chester E. Wheeler and Percy A. Yarnold had the negative. W. G. Mackay was chairman and W. A. Morse, A. L. Kelly and Mrs. McKay acted as judges.

Mr. Maxwell's assertion that an old maid tramped down the farm more than a wheelbarrow because she made two trucks to a barrow's one, was disputed by Mr. Yarnold, who claimed a point in favor of the old maid because unless the barrow could run itself there were three tracks every time it was moved—one made by the wheel and two by the feet of the person pushing. The affirmative stated that the cost of keeping a barrow was much less than an old maid, claiming that $15 a week was about the figure for the latter, but the negative denied the assertion and said if you gave her some water, a few crackers and a cat she would live for a week. Some doubted her ability to digest the cat and also questioned whether it would be possible to get a fresh one every week. The matter was referred to the judges, who reported in favor of the wheelbarrow, but the audience would not stand for it and demanded that a vote be taken, and on a count of hands the champions of the old maid were declared the winners.

Saturday morning the Tigers and Bears played a six inning ball game the result being 10 to 9 in favor of the former, with an inning to spare. W. G. McKay and W. B. Wiggin were umpires and C. E. Wheeler scored. The teams, positions and runs:

Tigers—Holman Waring c, 2; Herbert Draper p, 2; Paul O'Donnell 1b, 1; Warren Howe 2b, 1; Russell Fox 3b, 3; George Hill ss, 2; Ralph Costello lf, 2; Claude Rogers cf, 3; D. Dilts rf, 1.

Bears—Frank Hull c, Carl Taylor p, 2; Fred Gray 1b, 3; Edward Noyes 2b, Lewis Duncan 3b, 1; William Graves ss, 2; Carl McLeod lf, Stanley Crandall cf, Raymond Hawley rf, 1.

In the afternoon a close and exciting game was played between the Junior team of Littleton and Camp Lowell, result—Littleton 8, Camp Lowell 7. Carl Dunning was scorer, while M. C. Corcoran filled the trying position of umpire and gave general satisfaction. The teams, positions and runs:

The camp paper has been named The Knocker, and in the Saturday issue not a single person escaped a crack, while some received a great many more. The paper is proving a popular feature and the reading of the same is eagerly looked forward to by all, for no one knows what may be said about him. Mr. Yarnold's slosh—he calls it poetry—in the last issue, created considerable amusement and was greatly enjoyed.

For filling in odd moments whip tag is a popular game, the playing of which furnishes considerable amusement for the participants and spectators.

The Sunday afternoon service was addressed by Rev. A. E. Kenyon, who had an audience of 39. The reverend gentleman read Ecclesiastes 12 for a Scripture lesson and took the same for the basis of his remarks. At the conclusion of the meeting the boys testified to their appreciation of Mr. Kenyon's words of advice and encouragement by a standing vote of thanks.

DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes:

"About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

Free Public Baths a Necessity

There is a great opportunity for some philanthropist to win the everlasting gratitude of this community by contributing a sum sufficient to establish a free system of public baths in Lowell.

Nearly two-thirds of our population do not possess the luxury of a bath tub in their homes and these are the people who toil the hardest, perspire most and consequently need the bath tub most.

To meet this public necessity a system of public baths could be constructed for use in summer at least for a very moderate sum but somehow nobody seems to take sufficient interest in the matter to start the movement.

With two noble rivers joining their waters near the centre of our city, with a superb system of canals; with a system of waterworks excelled by none of equal size, yet the toilers and even the boys of our city must risk their lives or take the chances of arrest when they attempt to take a bath either in river or canal.

What is the result? An average of five drownings every summer with such spectacles as were witnessed quite recently when an officer walked off with the clothes of a few young men who were enjoying a swim in the river.

The chief obstacle to the establishment of public baths is the lack of the necessary funds. For a moderate sum a large swimming place can be maintained every summer above Pawtucket bridge; and it would not be very expensive to establish winter baths at a central point in the city.

This would prevent the drownings; it would improve the public health and at the same time the public morals while affording the toilers a privilege that would increase their comfort and happiness—one that they would appreciate far more than public parks, free concerts, or anything else we can offer them. Where is the public benefactor who will establish a free system of public baths?

Let us hope the strike of the coal teamsters will be of short duration. The strikers might have selected a more inconvenient time for the dealers.

Let us hope the Kaiser gave the Czar some good advice. The latter needs wise counsel at the present time, but seems deaf to those who counsel wisdom.

So Premier Balfour will not resign despite the fact that he was defeated in a division forced by the Irish leader, John Redmond. He is a law unto himself.

We have now the word of Attorney General Moody that the beef trust suit will be pressed with all due haste. Wonder if that means its termination in less than ten years.

A Nashua Universalist preacher so far offends against the creed of the sect as to say that there is a class of people in Nashua who ought to go to hell. Wonder if they'll take the hint.

The disaster on the Bennington by which 60 men lost their lives and many more were seriously wounded will be investigated but in all probability the cause of the explosion will never be known.

The Shah of Persia is now in France and is reported to be coming to the United States. He is accounted the most troublesome royal guest on the other side the Atlantic, but if he comes here he may get over his fussiness before he goes home. He will have to keep his jewels and his suite well in hand or he may lose both.

COTTON CULTURE IN EUROPEAN COLONIES.

The expected has happened. When American cotton growers resorted to the torch to get rid of a surplus crop it was natural that foreign nations would endeavor to find some other source of supply.

Accordingly the International Cotton Congress in session at Manchester, England, adopted resolutions urging the other European nations to take immediate steps to promote cotton growing in their colonies. Germany, England and France had already been making experiments on these very lines with more or less success.

So deeply interested is Emperor Wilhelm in the experiments in West Africa that through Booker Washington he had several graduates of the Tuskegee Institution go to West Africa to instruct the natives in the cultivation of cotton. Their success was very limited. The Americans report that the labor is poor and that there are other difficulties which it would take time and money to overcome.

England's chief colonial cotton field is in India, while an effort is being made to boom cotton culture in South Africa, Rhodesia, Central Africa, Egypt and the Soudan as well as in Australia.

The French are carrying on extensive experiments in cotton growing in the upper Niger and Algeria with very fair success. The Dutch are trying to grow cotton in Java and the Dutch East Indies.

Thus in the end the Southern planters may discover that in their effort to limit the supply and keep up the price of cotton they have lost the greater part of the foreign market.

It is true that the South is by far the greatest cotton growing region in the world, but there are others which, if developed, may affect the trade of the South even more than an abundant crop. It does not always pay to be too greedy

SEEN AND HEARD

There was a large gathering in one of the municipal courts a few mornings ago awaiting the opening of business. Just before 9 o'clock the clerk of the court received a message from the justice stating that he was too ill to leave his home and that court must be adjourned unless some other justice could be found to preside.

The clerk telephoned in every direction, and, finding that he could not get another justice, decided to adjourn the court. So he mounted to the justice's desk and, after securing silence by rapping with the gavel, made the following announcement:

"No justice here! Courts adjourned."

"True enough," said one disgruntled lawyer amid general laughter.

The hot spell was responsible for much prickly heat, and one former resident of the West Indies made himself solid with his friends by advocating burnt flour as a palliative.

The flour is simply stirred in a saucepan over the fire until it is a light brown, and then is applied to the body through a bit of muslin. It is far more effective than ointments, talcum powder and similar remedies and has, moreover, the virtue of simplicity to commend it.

The following letter of sympathy, received at this office a few days ago is self explanatory:

Norfolk, Va., July 13, 1905.

Editor of Lowell Sun:

Sir:—Imagine our surprise this morning when we read in your paper of the death of Police Officer Chester Ryder, who but a few days ago entertained my wife and her friend, Mrs. Joseph C. West while in Lowell. It has been our pleasure to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ryder twice while in Norfolk in the past few years, and it would be hard to find a couple more endowed with all the blessings of good nature than Mr. and Mrs. Ryder. I am sure they came as near being perfect as 'tis possible for man and wife to be. It seems too bad that two as happy as they should be separated. But such is the way of the Master. We want to take this method of expressing our deep sympathy to Mrs. Ches Ryder, in this the saddest moment of her life. We cannot find words to express our deep sorrow.

With our kindest love and best wishes,

MR. ANR MRS. JOHN G. HILL.

Wages of sin—The burglar's loot.

If a juryman was always governed by the evidence it would rarely ever agree.

Two heads may be better than one, but some people act as if they need a dozen.

Lots of people get rich attending to other people's business.

It must be a rather monotonous life when the family doesn't kick up a scrap occasionally.

THE MAN WHO WAITS.

Everything comes to the man who goes after the things some other fellow is waiting for.

Everything may be coming to the man who waits, but it's seldom that anything arrives.

Everything comes to him who waits the least.

Nothing that comes to the man who waits is worth waiting for.

Something that should come to the man who waits is a good strong push.

Some men seem to think that a chance in life is a capital prize destiny will award them for being patient waiters.

The fellow who always waits for something to happen, happens to have to wait always.

Everything comes to him who lets the other fellow do the waiting.

A man and a woman were eating luncheon in a downtown restaurant. It was late in the afternoon. There were, by actual count, thirty-five tables in the room, thirty of which were empty.

A man came in. He passed by the thirty unoccupied tables and took the end seat at the one where the man and woman sat. The couple were deep in a conversation, apparently tender as well as interesting, and they were visibly annoyed by the interruption.

They ceased talking and glared at the man. He appeared oblivious to their wrath. The days of his own romance, if he had any, were over. He had stony blue eyes, a stubby gray mustache and no hair. He ordered fried eggs, apple pie and milk.

"Is there no remedy?" wailed the young woman in despair.

"I am afraid not," said her companion.

She glared still more fiercely.

"I know now," she said, "how people feel when they commit murder."

"Are you guilty of some crime?" she asked presently. "Are we being spotted? Is this a detective? What is his motive?"

"He has none," said the man. "He is simply a born fool."

The intruder never flinched. For thirty minutes he pegged away at his meal as though performing a painful but necessary duty. Finally, he went away, followed by scathing comments from everybody in the restaurant.

Capt. Harry Graham, whose engagement to Ethel Barrymore is announced, dedicated to her his book, "Misrepresentative Men." The frontispiece is a portrait of Miss Barrymore and the dedicatory verses end thus:

"Accept these verses then I pray,
Disarming press and public, too;
For what can hostile critics say?
What else is left for them to do,
Because of you.
But view with kindness this collection,
Which bears the seal of Your Protection?"

Capt. Graham gets his American soubriquet, "Col. D. Streamer," from his regiment, the Coldstream Guards.

His hair was red, his stature short,
His freckles far from dim;
The neighbors all remarked "Good land!
What could she see in him?"

Yet this is how it came about—
She went to Cupid's shop
And told exactly what she wished
Without a single stop;

"A man of fully six feet two,
With hair of raven wave,
A noble brow, a Samson's strength,
The bravest of the brave."

The gracious clerk then shook his head
As every salesman should,
"All out of that," he said, "but here
Is something just as good."

The little chap was sent next day;
The neighbors cry with vim:—
"Now what on earth do you suppose
She ever saw in him?"

YELLOW FEVER

Causes Six Deaths in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 25.—Mayor Behrman, in view of the presence of yellow fever in New Orleans, issued a proclamation last night to the people of New Orleans, urging them to heed the advices of the health authorities relative to the sanitation of their premises, and calling special attention to the necessity of screening houses and placing nets over all water which might breed mosquitoes.

This proclamation was also signed by the president of the state board of health, by the president of the city health board, by Surgeon White of the Marine hospital service, and by the advisory committee of the New Orleans parish medical society.

Up to date there have been 17 cases of fever in New Orleans and six deaths of yellow fever.

The quarantine regulations suggested by the meeting of citizens requiring six days' detention for all vessels from ports subject to yellow fever were adopted after a heated discussion.

Notification was received at noon from Dr. Hunter of the Mississippi board that he had proclaimed quarantine against the whole state of Louisiana, because Louisiana had not quarantined against New Orleans. This question was discussed and it was decided not to quarantine the state against the city.

THE HOUSE FELL

Four Children Narrowly Escaped Death

LYNN, July 25.—Four small children narrowly escaped death in the collapse of a three-story apartment house in process of erection in Pleasant street last evening. The children were playing in the second story. They are Edward Hartford, Arthur Drew, George Ford and Grace Langford.

The wooden supports in the basement gave way, both floors falling simultaneously. The centre of the first floor landed in the basement, the second floor landing on the floor below. All save young Hartford, 9 years old, heard the crash coming in time to get to the windows from which they subsequently jumped to the ground. Hartford was carried to the basement, landing upon a pile of debris. He was taken out more frightened than hurt. The others were uninjured. The collapse made a terrific noise and attracted a big crowd.

The building is being constructed for H. Goodman by Contractor Goodwin.

Mr. Goodwin says the cause of the collapse was the weakness of the supports in the basement timbers 2x4 inches. The specifications called for iron supports, that did not arrive until yesterday. Mr. Goodwin says he had not seen the building inspector at the house at any time.

The house will practically have to be reconstructed.

FELL DEAD

DOCTOR HAD JUST PRONOUNCED MAN IN PERFECT HEALTH.

NEW YORK, July 25—With a physician in the act of pronouncing him physically perfect, after the rigid government examination, George W. Hennessey, for seven years keeper of the U. S. life-saving station at Spring Lake, N. J., dropped dead yesterday.

Hennessey was taking his annual examination. Dr. Wood, of the U. S. Marine hospital had already finished this examination and was saying: "I wish I were as sure of a long lease of life as you are."

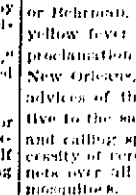

Hennessey proudly expanded his chest, and that act was his last. He fell to the floor with blood running from his mouth and was dead in less than five minutes. Hemorrhage of the lungs was the physician's verdict on the cause of death.

DEBTS OF YOUNG CROKER AMOUNTED TO ABOUT $130,000.

NEW YORK, July 25.—An appraisal has just been made of the estate of the late Frank H. Croker, son of Richard Croker, who was killed by the overturning of his automobile at Ormonde Beach, Fla., last January.

The report submitted to surrogate Fitzgerald yesterday morning for the purpose of having determined the amount of tax which the state shall levy, shows that Frank Croker left a personal estate the gross amount of which is placed at $635,178.60. His debts amounted to $130,353.

TENEMENT FIRE

Twenty Families Were Hemmed In

NEW YORK, July 24.—Tenants in a five-story double brick tenement, occupied by twenty families, at No. 22 Cook street, Williamsburg, had a race with death in a fire last night.

The flames were discovered in the apartment of Jacob Shapiro on the fourth floor. He was in his rooms alone, according to tenants, who found him there when the smoke was filling the hall. The police communicated the fact to the fire marshal.

Samuel Kanter, who, with his wife and four children, live on the top floor, discovered the fire. He called to M. Teitelbaum, who lives on the same floor with his wife and six children, and they ran down to warn Samuel Kaplan, his wife and two children, who live opposite Shapiro's rooms.

Kanter and Teitelbaum ran to Shapiro's room, out of which smoke was pouring, and rapped at the door with all their might, but got no response. They were beginning to kick in the door when, they declare, Shapiro opened it and dashed past them to the street, yelling "Fire!" The two men say the room was all ablaze.

Kanter and Teitelbaum ran up to get their families, but found themselves cut off by the flames. They had to climb over an adjoining roof.

Tenants in the rear were cut off and had to flee to rear fire escapes, where they were rescued after many were injured by smoke. The Kaplan family were among them. Policeman Carroll, of the Stagg street station, with Policeman Rosenfeld, took many from their dangerous perch.

The fire spread to the adjoining tenement and the two buildings were gutted at the top.

Shapiro told the police he was asleep when the two men awakened him.

WRESTLING NOTES

That a rest will work wonders with an athlete is seen in the case of Frank Gotch, the wrestler. Gotch has done nothing to speak of on the mat since his last match with Tom Jenkins at Madison Square Garden. The other night Gotch faced Alec Samuelson at Minneapolis in a mixed style bout and beat his man in such decisive fashion that Gotch's friends think that he has recovered his old time form. Samuelson is a Swede of large proportions and rated as exceptionally clever, but against Gotch he did not appear to be in it, the American taking two straight falls. The first fall was at catch-as-catch-can. Gotch winning in 13 minutes 30 seconds, and the next at Graeco-Roman. Gotch throwing the foreigner in 25 minutes. This style was supposed to be in favor of Samuelson.

Gotch assumed the aggressive at the call of time and never gave his man a chance to get on top. Gotch utilized every conceivable hold and seemed to have the match clinched several times. However, just when it looked as if Samuelson would go down the Swede would wriggle to safe quarters and land flat on his stomach. Finally Gotch secured a bar hold and quickly forced Samuelson to his back. The latter pluckily went into a bridge, but Gotch was on top of him like a flash and went for a hammer lock. He got it all right, and combined it with a scissors hold, bringing Samuelson down.

After a rest of ten minutes the contest was resumed. The style, Graeco-Roman, did not puzzle Gotch any. He went after Samuelson as if he understood the rules thoroughly. Gotch chased Samuelson all over the mat and finally capsized him with a waist lock. The Swede slipped away from this hold and looked to have a chance until Gotch applied a hammer. He got this grasp in fine fashion and rolled Samuelson on his back. Samuelson made a Spartan effort to land on his stomach, but the hold had done its work. Samuelson flopped flat and groaned with pain. After Gotch had been declared the winner, it was found that one of the ligaments of Samuelson's shoulder had been torn loose. This accident, Samuelson declared, had rendered him helpless. Gotch now declares that he will not rest satisfied unless he secures a match with Tom Jenkins. He adds, though, that he will not meet Jenkins in the East, as he fears that he will not get a fair show in New York. He is satisfied to meet Jenkins at either Minneapolis or Cleveland for a side bet and purse. Gotch has gone to Portland, Ore., on a pleasure trip. He says that he will not do any wrestling there unless one of the clubs come forward with an enticing offer.

George Haskenschmidt has hit upon a unique scheme to make all ambitious wrestlers come to time when they challenge him. The noted Russian lion now insists that when a defi is hurled at him the offer for a match must be accompanied by $5000 cash, not necessarily for a side bet, but as an evidence of good faith.

"I do not wish to appear as an arrogant man," said the Russian recently, "but I had to take this step in order to protect myself. Since I returned to England from my trip around the world I have received no less than a dozen challenges a week from anxious rivals. Some of them are from men I have never heard about, while others come from wrestlers who never had any standing and who never will. In order to be accommodating I thought that I would notice them. So I went to the newspapers that published the defis and answered them in person. I did this sort of thing for weeks, but nothing came of it. When it came to the arrangement of a match my rivals were not ready to do business. It seemed to me that they were simply bluffing and trying to belittle me. I lost a lot of time paying attention to the challenges until it got very monotonous. Finally I concluded that the only way to test whether my competitors were really in earnest was to make them put up their money.

"I want to give everybody a chance, but if they think they are good enough they should not hesitate about posting $5000, half of which should go as a forfeit and the remainder for a side stake. It took me many years to make a reputation, and as long as I think I have the ability to win I ought to get all the spoils if there are any in sight. I will not ignore anybody who will put up his money. Although I have enough engagements to keep me busy on the mat for a period of years. I will not hesitate about taking a night or week off to go into a match whereby I think I have a chance to make a certain amount of money. But I will not pay any attention to challengers unless they do this. What is the use, anyway?"

WITH HAT PIN

WOMAN ATTEMPTED TO STAB HERSELF.

LYNN, July 25.—Annie Donovan, a young woman living at 32 Spring street, was arrested at an early hour last evening by Patrolman Hall on the charge of being drunk and creating a disturbance, and as he was about putting her in a cell in the central police station she pulled a hatpin from her hair and attempted to stab herself in the neck.

The officer, after a struggle, succeeded in getting the pin, which was broken in two pieces, before the woman had a chance to harm herself.

Miss Donovan and a woman named Mary Wheeler, according to the story of the police, had some trouble in their room and during the row the Wheeler woman received a number of bad scratches on the arms and face. Everything was in a mixup when the officer reached the place and there was great excitement until the women had been taken to the police station. Mrs. Wheeler was allowed to go after her companion had been locked up.

HE WILL NOT RUN

Douglas Says His Decision is Final

HOME CLAIMS AND BUSINESS

Principal Cause of Stand He Took

BOSTON, July 25.—Governor Douglas' "No" stands.

All the combined eloquence of Josiah Quincy, John R. Thayer, Congressman John A. Keliher, Col. William A. Gaston, Col. A. C. Drinkwater, and a half-dozen more of the specially chosen representatives of the democratic state committee failed to sway the governor in his determination to retire to his delightful home life at the close of his present term, and to relinquish the opportunity to try again for the gubernatorial chair to another standard bearer of his party.

For nearly an hour and a half they pleaded with him, yesterday afternoon, but without avail. At the conclusion Gov. Douglas thanked them for the appreciation they had expressed, but said he felt "compelled to adhere to his original determination not again to be a candidate for the position" he now holds.

On whom the mantle may fall no one of the eleven who emerged from the executive chamber after the conference was prepared or cared to say. There might be some significance in the fact that ex-Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester left the state house with Col. William A. Gaston, and that they spent half an hour together behind the colonel's fast closed door in his office down in State street. But Mr. Thayer was non-committal and so was Col. Gaston. Neither of them wished to talk, and the former congressman departed on a late afternoon train for his home in Worcester.

It was by appointment that the delegation from democratic state headquarters met in the governor's reception room at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Quincy was the spokesman of the party. He read to the governor the resolutions adopted by the democratic state committee on July 12. These Mr. Quincy supplemented by an earnest a plea as he could make, that for the interest of the state and party the governor should reconsider his previously expressed determination to retire from office and from politics at the close of his term and not to permit his renomination by his loyal democratic constituents.

Ex-Congressman Thayer followed in a strong address, urging Gov. Douglas to be a candidate for a second term. So did Congressman Keliher, Col. Gaston, Col. Drinkwater and most of the others on the committee.

When the committee, led by Col. Gaston and John R. Thayer, emerged from the inner sanctum into the outer reception room Col. Gaston's smile was enigmatical. There were more reporters than there were committeemen.

"Nothing to say," remarked the colonel.

"Are you going to run for next governor, Congressman?" Mr. Thayer was asked.

"Oh, I can't talk," replied the man who trimmed the "Grey Eagle" in hardfought battles. "See Mr. Quincy; he will tell you all there is to say for ourselves and the governor."

So the reporters waited. Mr. Quincy did not come forth for at least six minutes more, and when he did he told the story succinctly as stated.

"But what reasons did he give?" asked the reporters.

"He explained his grounds even more fully than he did in his original letter published some time ago," said Mr. Quincy, "but the governor gave his reasons for the committee and not for the press," added the speaker, very decidedly. "We did all we could, but he told us he was compelled to adhere to his previous determination."

BOLD ROBBERY

FOUR BOYS STOLE $220 FROM CASHIER.

WORCESTER, July 25.—The robbery for which Samuel Groloski, George Hickory, John Leighton and Michael Friedman were arrested by the Boston police yesterday at the request of Worcester officials, was the most daring committed here for a long while.

It happened Saturday night in the Worcester market on Main street, while the place was crowded with customers. The four boys entered the store about 8 o'clock and one of them purchased 10 cents' worth of apples. He presented his check at the cashier's desk on which there was a big pile of money, and while the cashier was reaching for his change, the boys made a grab at the pile of greenbacks and silver.

Before the cashier could give an alarm, the three other lads crowded in behind the youngsters who had the money and rushed him through the crowd of customers into Main street, where the quartet was lost in the crowd before the clerks could get from behind their counters through the crowd to the street.

A balance of the store accounts Saturday night showed that the boys had got away with about $220, of which $200 was in bills. After leaving the market, the lads crossed the common to Front street where they jumped into a carriage of Walter D. Ross in front of his store and drove out Main street at a rapid gait. They eluded the police and left horse and carriage near Thomas Flynn's stable on Green street, where it was recovered yesterday, but several bundles, one of which contained a $45 suit of clothes, were gone.

DEALERS FINED

For Violating Law in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, July 25.—The cases of Michael McDonough and Joseph Millington & Co., charged with maintaining liquor nuisances at their saloons since June 1, were heard in police court yesterday before Judge Mahoney. A large number of witnesses were sworn for the prosecution, including the three members of the license board. The dealers paid $2500 each for a license May 1. About the middle of June the members of the license board visited both places and found back doors being used, and in the case of Millington & Co. it was alleged that minors were served liquor in his rear room.

Chairman William J. Bradley of the license board, and a leading attorney, told of finding an open back door at each of the places, and stated that at Millington's he saw liquor served to three girls and two men in the rear room June 24. He took the names and ages of the five. He said McDonough was warned about keeping the back door open, but said nothing when his attention was called to it. Millington did not say to him that he didn't know he was obliged to keep his back door closed. In McDonough's place two women came in while the witness was there by the back door.

James A. Coughlin and B. F. Mitchell, the other two members of the license board, took the stand, but offered no additional testimony.

Lena Smith, Annie and Nora Arnold, aged 22, 18 and 21 respectively, testified to being in Millington's rear room when the licensing board called. Lena Smith testified to drinking two glasses of ale. One of the men with them bought the drinks, but she didn't know his name. The Arnold girls claimed they had soft drinks served to them.

Col. Sweeney and John J. Donovan, counsel for the defendants, argued that inasmuch as the licenses were not filled in with the number of entrances their clients could not be found guilty for maintaining a rear door.

Judge Mahoney read from the statute which says in substance that when a door other than one on a public thoroughfare is opened, the license of the saloon becomes void. The back doors of these places, the judge stated, are on an alley, and he found both defendants guilty. They were fined $75 each. An appeal was taken and sureties of $300 furnished for their appearance in high court.

NECK BROKEN

MAN JUMPED FROM CAR AND WAS INSTANTLY KILLED.

BOSTON, July 25.—On the 8 o'clock car from East Weymouth to Quincy last evening a man, as yet not entirely identified, but who is believed to be E. M. Bond, a chauffeur, jumped from the front seat and was instantly killed, near the high school building in Middle street, Weymouth.

The man, it is said, gave no warning that he wished to leave the car. His neck was broken at the base of the skull and his right hand bruised. He also sustained a bad gash upon the back of his head.

THE STATE BOARD

Of Agriculture Met in Lowell

HELD SESSION AT AMERICAN HOUSE

Officials of Middlesex No. Society Attend

The state board of agriculture held a meeting at the New American house last evening. Reports for the last six months were read, and the report of the chief of the cattle bureau, Austin Peters, was read and accepted. The report was quite an interesting one. That part of the report of most interest to Lowell read as follows:

The principal new feature of the work for the first half of the year has been the unusual prevalence of rabies. There has been very little hydrophobia occurring among dogs in Massachusetts for the last few years, until last winter and spring. The chief outbreak has been at Lowell, where quite a number of cases have occurred. Twenty-four cases have been reported from Lowell, many of them positive. There has also been a case in Somerville, one in Auburndale which came from Pennsylvania, and one in Milton. In Lowell a dog bit two members of one family, a man and his daughter. Both went to New York to take the Pasteur treatment furnished by the New York city board of health, but since returning home first the woman and then the man died of the rabies, having been so badly bitten that the Pasteur preventive treatment was not sufficient to save their lives.

The Lowell police have been very active this spring in killing all stray-ownerless and unlicensed dogs. They have killed several hundred of such animals, and their efforts have undoubtedly contributed to the suppression of the disease.

The last of March the situation in Lowell seemed to be so threatening that a notice was sent to the inspectors of animals in Lowell and surrounding towns and posted in prominent places.

As a result of the efforts of the police authorities and the inspectors of animals in these towns there has been a decrease in the number of cases reported, and as the cattle bureau has not been notified of any new cases in Lowell or vicinity for the seven weeks ending July 24, it is hoped that the outbreak here has been suppressed.

The members of the board present at the meeting were: Warren C. Jewett, Worcester; J. Lewis Ellsworth, secretary of the board; Austin Peters, M. R. C. V. S., chief of the cattle bureau; Alfred Akerman, state Forester; J. J. Mason, Amesbury; William A. Lane, Norton; E. P. Williams, Ashfield; O. E. Bradway, Monson; John M. Danforth, Lynnfield; John S. Anderson, Shelburne; Henry E. Paige, Amherst; J. F. Burt, Easthampton; Henry S. Pease, Middlefield; Ralph M. Porter, Cummington; Charles H. Shaylor, Lee; Henry A. Turner, Norwell; H. S. Perham, Chelmsford; H. G. Worth, Nantucket; W. M. Wellington, Oxford; Augustus Pratt, North Middleborough; Albert H. Nye, Blandford; Quincy L. Reed, South Weymouth; Walter D. Ross, Worcester; W. A. Kilbourn, South Lancaster; Albert Ellsworth, Athol; C. D. Richardson, West Brookfield.

Among others present were Prof. Waugh and Prof. Brooks of the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst; Prof. Wheeler, of the Rhode Island Agricultural College; Prof. W. H. Caldwell, secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle club, Peterboro, N. H.; C. I. Hood, Julian Hood, and A. H. Cluer, J. A. Weinbeck and Andrew Liddell, president, treasurer and secretary of the Middlesex North Agricultural society.

NARROW ESCAPE

OF BOY WHO FELL FROM BUILDING.

George Lavallee, aged five years and living in a tenement block in Aiken street, had a narrow escape from being killed yesterday afternoon. He fell from the third story of the building in which he lives and miraculously escaped with his life.

At the time of the accident the boy was trying to climb from the window to the roof of the building when he slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of nearly thirty feet. The most serious result was a sprained ankle.

Late yesterday afternoon the ambulance was called to the Merrimack Piano Stool Co. where John Johnson, an employes, had caught his hand in a planing machine. He was removed to the Emergency hospital where it was found necessary to remove one of the fingers.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A well attended meeting of Gen. Adelbert Ames command, Spanish War Veterans, was held last night in Memorial hall. The trip to Taunton next month was discussed at some length and it is probable that another meeting will be held before the command decides to go. The next regular meeting will be held in September.

Phoenix, No. 4, O. S. B., held a short business session, after which an ice cream party was held at the home of Lady Campos. There was a good attendance and quite a sum was raised. The committee in charge is to be congratulated on the success of the first social of this new lodge.

BILLERICA

Miss Hattie P. Truell, who has been a teacher at the Howe school, has successfully undergone an operation for appendicitis at the Worcester Memorial hospital. She has resigned her position at the Howe school and will study during the coming year in the women's training department of the Hartford theological seminary.

Miss Truell's successor will be Miss Florence Waddington of Cambridge. She has received the degrees of A. B. and A. M. from Radcliffe college, and during the past two years has taught in the Somerville evening schools.

BUTLER WEDDING

Paul Butler Married at Lucerne, Switzerland

PAUL BUTLER

Bride's Uncle Speaks of the Event--Bride Made Money in Mining -- Tinge of Romance Over the Affair

Cards were mailed last night by Gen. and Mrs. Adelbert Ames, announcing the marriage at Lucerne, Switzerland, Friday, the 21st, of Miss Joanna Handy Barstow to their brother, Paul Butler of this city.

The home of the bride is at Mattapoisett. Mr. Butler is treasurer of the United States Cartridge company, and is interested in the United States Bunting company of this city and numerous other business concerns, being the oldest son of the late Gen. Butler.

While the announcement made last night has been the occasion of great surprise to friends of the Butler family in this city, it was neither sudden nor secret within the membership of the latter. The acquaintanceship of the couple has extended over many years and the engagement several months. The selection of the place for marriage was, however, characteristic, it is said, of both, with the view of avoiding the elaborate arrangements that might necessarily attend a wedding at the home of either.

The wedding, it is understood, was originally planned to take place in Paris, but the location was changed by reason of incompatible requirements of the French marriage laws, chiefly in point of length of residence required.

The family of the groom and all his friends express themselves as delighted.

Since the death of his father, a dozen years ago, the house in Andover street has been the home also of Gen. Adelbert Ames and Mrs. Blanche (Butler) Ames, the sister of Mr. Butler, and their children. Three of the daughters of Gen. and Mrs. Ames—Mrs. Brooks Stevens of Lowell, Mrs. Spencer Borden of Fall River and Mrs. Oakes Ames of Easton—have left the family circle, and during the congressional season the remainder of the family has been in Washington with the Hon. Butler Ames, member of congress from the 5th district. Mr. Butler has thus been left much alone in the fine old house, and the prospect of a new mistress there is one of pleasurable anticipation to his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will, it is understood, remain in Europe during August and return to Lowell early in September.

GROOM IS WEALTHY.

Paul Butler is the only surviving son of the late Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, and, though 50 years of age, had not married. He is largely interested in the United States Cartridge company, and to a less extent in other manufacturing industries. While a sportsman and a man well travelled, he has had a busy life.

Though now more of a retired gentleman of wealth, given to travelling much, he has been widely known as a champion canoeist and a promoter of sport in canoes. He was of delicate physique as a boy and was kept much in the open air, finally confining his attention to canoe, and particularly to the sailing types. Among other things he invented the sliding seat for sailing canoes. He built his own canoes, experimenting much with models.

In 1875, the year of his graduation from Harvard, he, with his brother Ben, built the Vesper Boat Club house of this city, for many years a centre of aquatic sport. He won about 50 races, many of them championship events.

All outdoor sports were his field more or less, and the series of sportsman's shows in the Mechanics' building owed their success very largely to Mr. Butler's interest and support.

After Gen. Butler's death, the famous yacht America fell to the sons of the general, and Paul was the one who made the most use of the craft. He used it mostly for cruising, but entered in some races.

HONOR TO FAMILY.

Hon. Butler Ames was seen last night at his summer home at the old Gen. B. F. Butler house, Bay View, relative to the marriage of Paul Butler and Miss Annie Barstow of Mattapoisett at Lucerne.

The congressman was asked if he had known of Mr. Butler's matrimonial intentions. He replied that he had. When asked relative to the difficulties in Paris which Mr. Butler encountered regarding his marriage Mr. Ames replied:

"He intended to be married in Paris, but owing to the peculiarity of the French law in regard to the marriage of foreigners they found marriage to be impossible in the French capital. You know that Chauncey Depew attempted to be married in Paris and had to go to Switzerland."

"How old is Mr. Butler?"

"Mr. Butler is about 50 years old."

"Have you ever met Miss Barstow?"

"Yes, I have met her."

"How old would you judge her to be?"

"She is a very charming lady," replied the congressman, "but I would never venture to make any statement relative to a lady's age."

Continuing he said: "We knew that Mr. Butler and Miss Barstow were to be married, because we had telegraphic information on the subject. They were married on the 21st of this month, and we sent out cards. We expect them home some time next month."

Mr. Ames says Mr. Butler announced his approaching marriage about a month ago to the family, when both sailed for Europe on different steamers. Miss Barstow went under the chaperonage of a lady whose name he could not recall. He was unable to furnish any particulars of her family, nor had he any extended acquaintance with the bride.

SURPRISE FELT

IN MATTAPOISETT, THE HOME OF BRIDE.

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—A marriage abroad with a tinge of romance to it, the news of which reached Mattapoisett yesterday afternoon, furnished a subject of discussion for the many society people of the large cities summering here.

The news that Paul Butler, son of Gen. B. F. Butler, a prominent member of several of the large yacht clubs of the country and an authority on yachting matters, as well as a man of inventive genius, had married in Lucerne, Switzerland, Miss Anna H. Barstow of Mattapoisett.

Miss Barstow has not lived in Mattapoisett for about 20 years. The story of her career is best told in the words of her uncle, Abraham L. Palme of Mattapoisett, who was seen yesterday afternoon.

"Didn't know Anna was married. She went away abroad about Memorial day, accompanied by my wife, and the last I heard from them they were in Paris about two weeks ago, where Mrs. Palme was ill.

"She went to Boston, took a suite in a fashionable quarter of the city and enjoyed life. I have visited her at her Boston home and she entertained in a lavish manner. She visited her mother in Mattapoisett once a year, generally about Memorial day, spending only several days with her, and then she would be off to some of the fashionable seashore resorts. Prepossessing looking, and a stylish dresser, Anna had no trouble making friends wherever she went.

"Anna didn't come to Mattapoisett this year, but just before Memorial day she sent word down to my wife that she would like to have her make a trip abroad, and my wife hurried and got ready, and went.

"I heard nothing of Paul Butler being with Anna. Possibly she met him abroad. I know nothing about this part of the trip.

"Anna must be about 39 years old. I always thought she would get along all right. From Boston she went to Philadelphia, where she was for some years housekeeper for an immensely rich Philadelphian, who, when he died, left Anna a big bunch of money. Anna invested the money in some kind of a mine, and in a short time the investment returned her three or four times the original amount and made her independent.

"Surprised? Yes, I am, but I have heard Anna say that if she ever married she thought she would have that young Butler, because she liked him. But she has frequently told me that she didn't think she would ever marry.

"Anna, or she was first named Johanna Handy Barstow, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Hammond and the late James H. Barstow. The father was a sea faring man and followed the whaling business for a great many years, and finally gave up the sea to reside in Mattapoisett to take charge of a large estate here. His daughter Anna, after receiving a grammar school education, went to Nantasket beach, where she worked in a hotel, and from there to Boston.

"Anna was a lively and vivacious girl and dressed well. She was stylish even in her younger days, and Mrs. Barstow was left some money by her husband and she boarded with Mrs. Shaw on North street."

AT THE SHRINE

Bay State Pilgrims Begin Devotions

STE ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que., July 25.—Three hundred pilgrims from Boston and Somerville, under the personal direction of Rev. E. F. Saunders, curate of St. Ann's church, Somerville, arrived here yesterday morning at 11 by special train.

The pilgrims are on a three days' visit of devotion to the famous shrine of Ste Anne. They had a very pleasant trip, thanks to the able management of Fr. Saunders, assisted by Edward Monaghan and Neil Ahearn.

Immediately on arriving the party left the train in which they had sat for 12 hours and walked to the recently erected basilica, built in honor of the Mother of the Blessed Virgin, and heard mass.

They next were escorted to their lodging places. After dinner the pilgrims performed acts of devotion until 4 o'clock, when they congregated in the old memorial chapel for prayer, followed by an interesting sermon by Rev. Fr. Daly, C.SS.R., of the Redemptorist fathers in charge of the shrine.

In the evening the pilgrims congregated in the basilica, where they again listened to an interesting sermon on the life and virtues of Ste Anne and the duty of Catholics toward the Lord.

Those of the women visitors housed in the convent are comfortably situated and the sisters are indefatigable in their efforts to make them happy.

One of the attractions at the convent is an exhibition of needle work and embroidery, all done by the sisters included in the display are a number of church vestments, worked in white silk and gold, for the above Boston and San Francisco, which are marvels of delicate workmanship.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

The opera "Boccaccio" was presented at the Lakeview theatre last night before a small but very appreciative audience. The inclement weather kept a number away from the theatre, but the presentation was all that could be expected and is by far the best offering of the season.

The management of the theatre during Sunday had a portion of the sides taken down, making it an open-air theatre, a departure which will be welcomed by the large number of patrons. The work, however, is not completed at the present time, but by next week it is expected that both sides and back will be taken out.

TURKISH PLOT

WAS ATTEMPTED ON LIFE OF THE CZAR.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 25.—The mission which has been inquiring into the attempt on the life of the Sultan last summer is believed to have information indicating that the assassination was the result of a Turkish plot, but as this would be admitted even if proved, the authorities are industriously creating the impression that the bomb outrage was the work of European anarchists.

BURNED TO DEATH

Children Perished in a Fire in Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—Two dead, two fatally burned, and three seriously injured, is the result of an explosion of a gasolene stove early today, at the home of Levi Titus, a Kosher butcher, No. 7225 Wood Alley, Braddock.

The dead:—
HARRY TITUS, aged 7 years.
MEYER TITUS, aged 7 years.

Fatally burned:—
MRS. SARAH TITUS, the mother.
ELSIE TITUS, aged 3 years.

Seriously injured:—
LEVI TITUS, the father.
GOLDIE TITUS, aged 15 years.
RAY TITUS, aged 16 years.

The dead children were twins.

The explosion was caused by the overturning of a gasolene stove on which Mrs. Titus was preparing breakfast. The burning fluid was scattered over the room, enveloping Mrs. Titus and igniting a five gallon can of oil, standing on the rear porch near the door.

A second explosion followed and in a few minutes the entire house was in flames. The twins were suffocated on the second floor, where with the other children, they were asleep. The father rescued the other three children and as he assisted the last one to the window he fell to the floor overcome by smoke. He was taken out unconscious by the firemen, who also rescued Mrs. Titus after she had been terribly burned.

AT OLD ORCHARD

Fire in Hotel Threatened Ten Lives

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 25.—Ten female employes of the Old Orchard house were placed in a perilous position today and given a bad fright by an inconsequential fire in the hotel annex, originating from a defective chimney. The only exit from the second story in which they were at the time, was cut off by dense smoke and they were nearly in a panic before the blaze was extinguished and the smoke cleared away. Clothing and other personal effects were thrown from the windows, ladders were hurried to the scene to remove the employes, but it did not become necessary to use them. No one was injured and the damage was only $500.

HAVE FEVER

SEVERAL OF NORWEGIAN STEAMER'S CREW HELD UP.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Norwegian sugar laden steamer Avona which arrived last night at quarantine from Carlbarien, Cuba, was inspected and disinfected before being released by the health officer today. The Avona had called at Colon before proceeding to Carlbarien, Cuba. Consequently on reaching quarantine her crew, was mustered and closely inspected. Three members of the crew, a fireman, sailor and the ship's cook were removed to Hoffman island for observation suffering from malarial fever. Two others, who showed high temperature, also were transferred to the island. The steamer then was released.

QUIET DAY

NO OFFICIAL VISITORS TO SAGAMORE HILL.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 25.—This was one of the quietest days President Roosevelt has had since his arrival at Sagamore Hill for the summer. Comparatively little executive business was brought to his attention and no official visitors at all were received.

Although Secretary Root is not in Washington the affairs of the department of state are now under his direction, and all matters relating to that department are being referred by the president to him. These include the arrangements for the formal reception for the Russian and Japanese peace envoys. When the details of these arrangements shall have been worked out by the state department, in connection with the navy department they will be communicated to the president for his approval.

The president practically has finished the preparations for the addresses he expects to deliver at Wilkesbarre, Pa., and Chautauqua, N. Y., on the tenth and eleventh of August respectively.

SEVERE TRIP

THE WOOD PILE RAN INTO ROUGH WEATHER.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 25.—The log of the motor boat Wood Pile, which was the fifth o fthose in the race from New York to this port to arrive, shows that, like the other boats, she had a severe experience. The Wood Pile was compelled to stop on Sunday on account of the dirt in her engine. Resuming, she got as far as Cuttyhunk, where, finding the sea too rough for her progress, Mr. Lincoln, her captain, signalled the lightship and with his crew was taken aboard, where the night was passed. They started again at 7.30 Monday morning. During the forenoon they put in at Cottage City for gasolene and the further run was made to this port without unusual incident. The Wood Pile arrived here at 2.45 a. m. Her elapsed time was 62 hours and 45 minutes. With her time allowance of six hours 20 minutes 11 seconds, her corrected time was 56 hours 27 minutes 49 seconds.

BARON KOMURA

Japanese Peace Envoy in New York

BAND PLAYED NATIONAL AIR

Was Greeted by Japanese Merchants

NEW YORK, July 25.—Baron Komura, the Japanese peace plenipotentiary, arrived on the fast train from Chicago, over the Pennsylvania road at 9.25 today. At the Jersey City station, to greet him, were about forty Japanese merchants. There was no demonstration at Jersey City, but when the ferry boat reached the foot of Twenty-third street, a hundred or more Japanese in the city greeted the baron and his suite with cheers while a brass band played the Japanese national air.

There were no banzais, but the plain American cheer as the baron with Consul General Dehida and two of his suite entered a carriage and were driven to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

H. Denuison, an American, who is attached to the Japanese foreign office and has been in Japan for 35 years, is with the party. Mr. Denuison says he has no official capacity with the peace delegation. The party was met at Philadelphia by Consul General Dehida. Minister Takahira remained in this city. Mr. Sato, who is the chief of staff, said to an Associated Press representative that there was no program prepared for the baron and he did not know what would be done from day to day until he had met Minister Takahira. Mr. Sato said it would not be necessary for any of the party to go to Washington, since the president is at Oyster Bay and that they would await the president's pleasure as to their plans.

"The baron will rest a few days," said Mr. Sato, "his journey having been quite an extended one. He is in good health but needs a little rest after travelling so far. We have travelled every day since he landed in this country, arriving in cities early in the day and getting out in the evening. We stopped not longer than six hours at any one place.

LIVED IN TRUNK

Police Discover Unusual Case of Poverty

WHEREIN A SIX YEAR OLD LAD

Was Left to Shift for Himself

NEW YORK, July 25.—An unusual case of poverty and neglect, has been uncovered by a policeman on duty in Tenth avenue. The blue-coat rescued six-year-old John Mulqueen after the lad had made his home for two months in a trunk and subsisted largely on scraps snatched from garbage cans. The little fellow was thrill as a bird after his pitiful struggle with the world.

Mrs. Mulqueen, died six months ago and the boy's father disappeared, leaving John in the care of a neighbor. The building where the latter lived, was condemned two months ago and she moved away leaving the child behind. He sought out the house where his mother died and found an old trunk in the alley in which he formerly had played.

Neighbors saw the youngster crawling in and out but he fled when they approached. They placed food near the trunk and the boy ate it. The story finally reached the police and the young outcast was found nestling in a pile of old clothing and broken toys which he had gathered in the alleys.

NOT SURPRISED

Patrick Says He Expected a Stay

NEW YORK, July 25.—The notice of a stay of execution of the death penalty on the order granted by Judge O'Brien yesterday to Albert Patrick, under sentence of death for the murder of the aged millionaire William Marsh Rice, was not served until today on the lawyer who was waiting in prison ready to die in a few weeks. Mr. Patrick laughed when the news was given him and said:

"I knew it would come. It is only what I expected."

He expressed confidence that in a short time more he would secure a new trial and ultimately his freedom. Patrick himself drew up the papers, which were so timely in saving his life. The stay granted him is until October 2, to allow time for a motion for a re-argument of the case. Ex-Senator David B. Hill is Patrick's counsel.

WOUND IN HEAD

Prominent Broker Was Found Dead

NEW YORK, July 25.—Otto Bernheimer, a member of Bernheimer and Walter, cotton brokers of this city, and reputed to be wealthy, died today in his apartments in the Hotel Nevillia. Bernheimer was found in his apartments lying in front of a full length mirror and expiring from a bullet wound in the temple.

Apparently the shot had just been fired, but no one could be found in the fashionable hotel who heard the report. The suicide left no explanation of his act and his three brothers say that he had every reason to wish to live, so far as they know. Bernheimer was 35 years old.

KILLED HERSELF

Wife of Wall Street Broker a Suicide

NEW YORK, July 25.—Within five minutes from the time that Charles Marshall, a Wall street banker, left his wife apparent sleeping soundly in bed today, the woman wrote her husband a note telling him not to let the world blame him for what was going to happen and shot herself. She was unconscious before Mr. Marshall could reach her bedside from another room and she died in a short time.

Mrs. Marshall was formerly Miss Grace Starr and is highly connected in local circles. No cause for her act has been discovered. The tragedy occurred in the Raleigh, a fashionable family apartment hotel overlooking Central Park.

YELLOW FEVER

MANY MORE CASES SUSPECTED IN NEW ORLEANS.

WASHINGTON, July 25—A report received here today from Surgeon White, of the public health and marine hospital service, who is stationed at New Orleans and who under instructions of the acting surgeon general is engaged in an effort to determine yellow fever conditions in that city, says that the city authorities concede 12 cases and eight deaths, but he adds that there probably are many more cases. Those so far observed are of a virulent type. Surgeon Wasdin, stationed at Memphis, who rendered signal service during the epidemic at Ocean Springs in 1897, has entered upon a careful inspection of conditions along the Gulf coast, from Mobile to Pass Christian, Miss., and Assistant Surgeon Young, has been ordered from Chicago to Jackson, Miss., to confer with the Mississippi health authorities relative to train inspection.

SOLDIERS WORK

TO PREVENT RIVER FROM OVERFLOWING ITS BANKS.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 25—Flood conditions had improved at Valdez according to despatches received yesterday at the local cable office, but the emergency occasioned by the high water still exists and an entire company of infantry was at work, repairing breaks in the dams and keeping the swollen Valdez river from overflowing the business section of the city.

On Sunday night there was a noticeable improvement but yesterday, the water started rising again and was breaking through the dam at various points. It was only by the utmost exertions that a general flood was prevented. At last reports the water was not getting any closer to the town and it was expected that the stream would be under control by this evening.

THE RICKSDAG

Hears Report of Special Committee

TO DEAL WITH SWEDISH CRISIS

Terms of Dissolution Recommended

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 25.—The special committee appointed by the Ricksdag to deal with the crisis which created the revolution in Norway today delivered its report. The committee declares unanimously that the government bill cannot be adopted in the form in which it was presented to the Ricksdag and proposes that the Ricksdag shall signify its willingness to negotiate with Norway for a dissolution of the union, if the newly elected Storthing requests a repeal of the act of union and a dissolution of the union or if such request is received from Norway after the Norwegian people by a plebiscite have declared in favor of a dissolution of the union.

The committee recommends that in the event of a dissolution of the union, Sweden should insist on the following terms:

First, the establishment of a zone on each side of the frontier, separating the kingdoms within which the existing fortifications shall be raised and new fortifications may not be erected.

Second, the right of pasturing reindeer belonging to Swedish Laplanders in North Norway.

Third, that the transit trade through both countries shall be secured against unjustifiable obstruction.

Fourth—that the status of Sweden in respect to foreign powers as established by treaty shall be clearly defined so that Sweeden shall be completely freed from responsibility for Norway to other states.

The committee also regards an arbitration convention between Sweden and Norway desirable although it does not consider it an essential condition for the dissolution of the union.

The committee further proposes to authorize the government to raise a loan of $25,000,000 which can by a resolution of the Ricksdag be made available for such readjustments and arrangements as may be necessitated by the new conditions.

Regarding eventual negotiations with Norway the committee declares:

"Whatever demands be made for the welfare and dignity of Sweden as a condition of the repeal of the act of union on the part of Sweden and of the recognition of Norway must be claimed and adhered to with rigor and determination.

LIFE BOAT

CRUISED ABOUT TO FIND BODY OF MAN.

NEW YORK, July 25.—When the steamer Grosser Kurfurst, which sailed today for Bremen, was passing the quarantine station, she came to a stop suddenly, and a life boat was quickly lowered. The life boat cruised around for some time in the path through which the steamer had passed. If they were searching for a man who had jumped or fallen from the steamer, however, the quest was vain. An object, apparently a life buoy, was the only thing taken from the sea by the crew of the life boat before the little craft returned to the steamer.

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Lowell People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Lowell cures are the proof.

Mrs. Margaret Monahan, of 38 West Fifth street, Lowell, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills were first used in our family about seven years ago when I got a box at a drug store and the use of this remedy quickly relieved a case of kidney trouble which had caused much suffering and annoyance. I told of this particular case in a statement for publication given in 1898, and many people who read it called on me and asked if it were true. I have always confidently recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and kidney trouble, and know of many who have been greatly benefited by their use."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Friday July 28, 1905, at 2 o'clock, P. M.
AT NO. 45 MARKET ST., LOWELL, MASS.

I will sell, at public auction, the stock and fixtures of the fruit and produce store of Walter Booth.

Having consolidated my business with the M. Donovan & Co., I have instructed Mr. Farrell to sell my 6 horses, 6 wagons, 6 harnesses, 6 horse covers, blankets, etc., and the entire stock of produce now on hand.

The 6 horses are young, sound and kind, and range from 1000 lbs. to 1250 lbs. each and have been used in the business but two years, and are the best lot of business horses offered for sale for some time. The wagons are in first class condition, as I had 3 heavy wholesale 3-spring wagons built to order, one by the Sawyer Carriage Co. The 3 light 3-spring market wagons are in good condition, newly painted and would make a good delivery wagon; 6 sets collar and hames harnesses, all custom made; also 1 safe, 1 office desk, platform scales, trucks and the stock of produce left unsold at the time of sale. As Mr. Booth did not turn his stock and teams to the new firm, he will positively sell everything to the highest bidder, as he is to make the change on August 1. Sale rain or shine.
Per order WALTER BOOTH.

A DARING ACT

"Mike" McDonough Stops a Runaway

By Striking Horse With a Broom—Exciting and Dangerous Runaway on Market St.

Michael McDonough, the Market street sweeper who has a fine record for stopping runaway horses made a most daring stop in Market street this noon.

Undoubtedly his act saved both life and property for the frenzied animal having broken off a stone post in its flight was making for the sidewalk.

The horse was one of a double hitch attached to one of the big ice carts of the Crystal Lake Ice company and it was left standing in front of Cahill's blacksmith shop while its mate was being shod.

The animal suddenly becoming frightened started down the street at a mad gallop and when at a point in front of Donovan's harness shop the wagon collided with a stone post with such force as to break off the post.

The horse then rushed along and was about to crash into E. A. McQuade's delivery wagon when Mr. McDonough, running in front of the animal struck it over the head with his big broom.

The force of the blow staggered the animal for a moment but before it could recover Mr. McDonough had dropped the broom and grabbed the bridle bringing the animal to a standstill. If he had missed his blow, it certainly would have been the finish of brave Michael, but he had a good eye and steady nerve and another good capture has been added to his record.

WHO WANTS IT?

Franchise For the Debts Owed

CHANCE TO OWN A BALL TEAM

It Will Cost You About $1500

The directors of the New England league met this noon at the American House, in this city for the purpose of discussing the local baseball situation. The meeting was behind closed doors and was quite brief.

There were present Sec. Morse, Fred Doe of New Bedford, Manager Ray of Concord, N. H. and Former Manager Mack and Manager Burns of the Lowell team. Manager Freeman of the Lawrence team was unable to be present but sent word authorizing Mr. Doe to act for him.

After the meeting Secretary Morse said to the reporters: "The directors simply discussed the situation without taking any action for action was deferred until next Saturday. The franchise is open for any local party who wishes to take it by paying off the present debts which amount to about $1500. I think it is a good opportunity for some one to get the franchise in this manner. Another city wants the franchise in case no Lowell parties take it but the league directors would rather see it remain here."

At the meeting Mr. Doe said that Captain Connors of the Lowell team had informed him that he had a man who would take the team for the remainder of the season but he would not assume the debts.

COLORED PRIEST

A Distinguished Clergyman Visiting in Lowell

REV. CHARLES RANDOLPH UNCLES.

Rev. Charles Randolph Uncles the First Colored Priest Ordained in America is the Guest of Dr. Frank McAvinnue—His Father Fought Under General Butler

Rev. Charles Randolph Uncles, the first colored priest of the Roman Catholic church to be ordained in America and vieing with that other distinguished colored man, Booker T. Washington, as the leader of his race, arrived in Lowell last evening to pay a brief visit to his old friend of college days, Dr. Frank McAvinnue, of Mammoth road, Pawtucketville.

Fr. Uncles is accompanied by Rev. Fr. Wrenn, of North Brookfield, Mass., another college chum, and the trio for the next 24 hours will revive old memories of St. Hyacinthe's college at Quebec where they prepared for their professional careers.

Fr. Uncles is at present a professor of Latin, Greek and French at the Epiphany college, Walbrook, Baltimore, Md., conducted by the Josephite Fathers whose life is devoted to missionary work among the colored people and Indians, of which order he is a distinguished member. He is now on vacation and will leave tomorrow for Montreal and Quebec.

A reporter of The Sun called at Dr. McAvinnue's home in Pawtucketville this morning and was introduced to the distinguished visitor. Fr. Uncles possesses a most charming personality and is certainly a revelation to those who are prone to judge an entire race by a few of its types. Although 45 years of age he doesn't look it by 10 years; he is tall, standing six feet, two inches, well proportioned and erect and in college days was an all round athlete. His thin black hair, slightly curly, he wears parted on one side and brushed back showing a high intellectual forehead. His skin is rather light and he has a bright and kindly eye. His voice, soft and musical, is most attractive and he speaks with the soft accent of the south though not with the pronounced dialect of the southern darkey.

Fr. Uncles was born in Baltimore where his parents still reside. His father is a machinist while his mother is a seamstress. He says that he has more than an ordinary interest in Lowell for his father served in the civil war under General Benjamin F. Butler of this city. He received his early education in St. Francis Xavier's parochial school and afterward in the public schools of his native city. He took the normal course and taught in the public schools of Baltimore for three years. Then deciding to enter the priesthood he went to St. Hyacinthe's college, at Quebec, where Dr. McAvinnue afterward informed the writer he astonished teachers and pupils alike with his brilliant attainments. He took full classical course at St. Hyacinthe's after which, in 1888, he entered the Sulpician seminary in Baltimore where he was ordained by Cardinal Gibbons, personally in 1891, the first colored Catholic priest in America. Even today there is only one other colored priest in America, Rev. Fr. Dorsey, who was ordained two years ago and is missioned at Pine Bluff, Ark. Having joined the Josephite order and showing marked ability as a professor he has since been connected with the Epiphany college though he expects in the near future to be sent through the South on missionary work. He is an eloquent speaker and preaches in both English and French.

AMONG THE COLORED CATHOLICS

Speaking of his life's work Fr. Uncles said: "Catholicity is not a new faith among the colored people of America for there were colored Catholics long before emancipation was dreamed of. But the Josephites are giving exclusive attention to evangelical work among the colored race and I assure you that the future dawns brightly not only for the spiritual but the temporal welfare of the colored man. There are 40 priests in America engaged in evangelical work among the colored people and of these 31 are members of the Josephite order. In Baltimore the order conducts the Epiphany college with which I am connected and St. Joseph's seminary. Both institutions educate and prepare priests for this particular work. The young men are tutored as far as philosophy and they make their theology in St. Joseph's. We have 53 at Epiphany and 30 at St. Joseph's. We have three colored Catholic churches in Baltimore and a Catholic population among the colored people of about 10,000. In Washington there are two churches and schools and there are also colored Catholic churches in Norfolk, Richmond, Lynchburg, and other small places in Virginia, Savannah, New Orleans, Nashville, Charleston, Leavenworth, St. Louis, Pine Bluff, Natchez, Mobile, Montgomery and other places in Alabama, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del., New York and one is projected in Boston.

The Josephites began their work in this country in 1871 and have met with most encouraging results. Churches and schools have been established wherever the colored people had communities. We have also established an industrial school on the plan of Tuskegee, at Wilmington, Del. The estimated average number of adult conversions is about 700 annually while more than 5000 children are baptized annually. There are 23 orders working among the colored people and there are three orders of colored nuns in America. The Sisters of St. Francis were established 20 years ago in Savannah by Bishop Becker. The Sisters of the Holy Family date back to slavery days, 1842, for there were some free negroes then even as there were free negroes fighting for the country's independence in Washington's army. This order has houses in New Orleans and other places in the south and maintains a flourishing academy in Pine Bluff, Ark. The third order is the oldest of all, the Oblate Sisters of Providence who were established in Baltimore way back in 1829. They have schools, an orphan asylum and an academy in Baltimore, schools in Washington, Leavenworth, Kan., and an academy at St. Louis. At the present time we have only two colored priests but we have a young colored man in the seminary now who will be ordained in about two years. On June 21 inst. four young priests of our order were ordained and one of them Rev. Fr. Dube comes from your neighboring city of Nashua. My northern trip this year gives me especial pleasure as it has afforded me an opportunity to visit my old college friend, Dr. McAvinnue and Fr. Dube whom we will visit by Nashua tomorrow."

Before leaving Lowell Fr. Uncles and Wrenn will visit the rooms and country club of the Knights of Columbus of which Dr. McAvinnue is a popular member.

COAL TEAMSTERS

No Change Reported in Situation

LEATHER WORKERS ENDORSE STRIKE

Dealers Say Margin on Coal is Too Small

There is little or no change in the coal teamsters' and helpers' strike this morning. The strikers claim that they will stay out until their demands are granted and while some of the employers would willingly grant the demands if the rest would, the majority favors holding out as they claim that the present time is the dull season and the effect of a strike will not be the same as it would be during the cold months when business is rushing.

The Leather Workers' union, at a largely attended meeting last night, endorsed the strike of the coal teamsters, and promised moral and financial support. The members voted to "withhold their patronage from any and all coal dealers who refuse to comply with the request for an increase and to induce their friends to do likewise."

The strikers feel confident that their demand is a just one and that they are paid very small wages for the amount of work done, but on the other hand the employers claim that there is a margin of but 75 cents on a ton of coal and they cannot afford at the present time to grant the demand. Laforest Beals stated yesterday the wholesalers are putting an increase of 10 per cent. on the retail dealers every month.

Some of the dealers have hired "green hands" to unload cars standing on their tracks, E. A. Wilson & Co., having about 15 men who are unloading 20 of their cars.

It was noticed this morning that some of the dealers who had small cash orders sent the coal out in express wagons.

This afternoon the press committee of the teamsters gave out the following statement: "There is no change in the strike situation. We have succeeded in pulling away several green hands from their jobs, and we have the support and sympathy of the state branch of the Federation of Labor and the different local unions. We hold meetings twice each day and receive reports on conditions in the different yards. We succeeded in getting eleven more men to quit work today."

This afternoon shortly after one o'clock several of E. A. Wilson & Co.'s coal teams laden with cement were passing through Broadway when some of the striking teamsters stopped the horses. Whether their mission was a peaceful one or not is not known for in the vicinity at the time was a police officer in citizen's clothes who stepped into the street and warned the men to take their hands off the horses. The men did as they were told.

THE LAST WEEK.

The Bon Marche Dry Goods Co. have introduced quite a new idea in this city in making their studio better known to the public. The firm wishes to make a special offer in that department. About two weeks ago they engaged Mr. F. Lindley of Brooklyn, N. Y., and his demonstrators to introduce here the methods now—being used in the large department stores throughout the country. Mr. Lindsley stands near the main entrance in their store demonstrating their work and selling a ticket for 25c, which entitles the holder to six large size cabinet photos and one 11x14 enlargement for $1.48. No extra charge for groups. All work fully guaranteed by the Bon Marche Dry Goods Co. to give satisfaction to every holder of said ticket. This will be the last week that these tickets can be had, and there is no doubt a great many people will want the offer after it is all over. The work they are giving for $1.73 cost ordinarily about $5.00. The tickets hold good until used and can be had only of Mr. Lindsley or his demonstrators. See the display at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets every evening this week.

EXTRA

WEAVERS ON STRIKE

They Want Increase on New Goods

Went Out From Appleton Mills This Morning—Change on the Looms Caused Trouble

Forty Portuguese weavers at the Appleton Mfg. Co. went on strike this morning because they could not get an increase of two cents a cut on new goods which they were to weave.

This morning there was a change on the looms from colored to plain sheeting such as used for the Chinese trade and when the change was made the weavers were notified that they would get 18 cents per cut, but they demanded 20 cents a cut, and when it was not granted they quit work and left the mill, causing the idleness of about 240 looms.

A representative of The Sun called on Supt. Bowen, and the latter said: "This is the dull season of the year for colored goods and as there were no orders on hand we placed the plain white sheeting such as is made in the southern mills for the Chinese trade on the looms in order to give the weavers work.

"We offered to pay them 18 cents per cut, which is the same as is paid in every mill in the city where this class of goods is woven. The weavers asked for two cents more and in view of the fact that there is very little profit on the goods and also that we were running the goods more for the accommodation of the weavers than anything else, we could not grant the increase."

HUGE TURTLE

WEIGHS 51 POUNDS AND BARKS LIKE A DOG.

NEW YORK, July 25.—A snapping turtle of huge proportions, whose habit, it is related, was to plunge at men who approached it with a grunt resembling the bark of a fierce dog, and whose glance was "most ferocious," gave two men the time of their lives yesterday, when they sought to capture the creature in the Rahway river.

Thomas Hurley and another man, of Millburn, determined to capture the snapper at all hazards. Hurley rigged an iron hook to a four-foot pole and started. When the turtle crawled out on the bank the second man landed him squarely on the neck with his harpoon, and with the assistance of some other men pulled it in. The turtle snapped furiously at everything that was brought near it. Getting the turtle home was now the problem of the men, as it weighed 51 pounds and measured 21 inches across the back. It was strapped on the back of its captorn to shreds and his back lacerated the result that the man's shirt was orn to shreds and his back lacerated. A strip of canvas was procured and bound about the turtle, and the procession started for home. It is the largest turtle ever seen or caught in this vicinity.

Admiral Clark, who was captain of the Oregon during the historic dash around Cape Horn, during the Spanish war, interceded for Totterman and strong pressure was brought to bear in his behalf by the congressional committee on naval affairs and the Swedish minister. To give the governor more time to consider these pleas for clemency the date of his execution had been postponed until August 1.

FOUR MISSING

Police Notified of Four Disappearances

The police have been notified of the disappearance of four men within the past 24 hours.

John D. DeCartaret, a stone contractor of North Chelmsford, has not been seen since July 17. He has friends in Lawrence and Billerica and the police believe he will turn up all right.

Fred Rock, aged 16, of 730 Gorham street, left home on Saturday and has not turned up. He is light complexioned and when last seen wore dark short trousers, a mixed gray coat and cap.

Hermidas A. Lacerte, aged 41 years, was the third missing individual. Hermidas left his home and his wife and three children, at Tucker street, July 11.

He was of a melancholy tendency of mind and frequently talked of committing suicide. His wife believes he may have carried out his threats.

He was five feet, three inches in height and of a stout build. His complexion was dark and he had a black moustache. He wore when last seen a light coat, black trousers and a black stiff hat.

John O'Loughlin, aged 20 years, of 14 Elm street, has not been seen since Saturday, July 15. He returned from his work in the Waterhead mills and gave his pay to his relatives and then went out and has not been seen since. O'Loughlin came to this country from Ireland last August. He had often expressed himself as being dissatisfied with America and many times said he was homesick. He longed for the home land, and his parents believe he may have crossed the ocean on a cattle boat. When last seen he wor a dark blue suit. DIAMOND RING

MAN FOUND, IT IN A FISH.

WARE, July 25—"Polski pio Kaz," yelled Michel Straczkaz, a Water street Polander, when he opened a sucker he had caught in the Ware river yesterday.

In the fish's stomach was a cluster diamond ring containing nine stones, which was later pronounced by an expert to be worth at least $150.

Michel did not know the value of the ring and was showing it to a crowd of people in Nenemereck square, when Charles G. Slater came along.

Mr. Slater belongs in Hartford, Conn., where there are more diamonds than in Ware, and he offered the Pole $15 for the ring.

Straczkaz clutched Slater with one hand and held out the ring with the other, and the trade was made.

Mr. Slater hunted up Paul Satz, a local jeweler, and had him examine the ring. He said it was worth at least $150 and that it probably cost $300 when new.

It is a lady's ring of beautiful design and there is considerable speculation as to where it originally came from.

The local police say there has been no report made for years of any jewelry of that description having been lost and they believe it was probably picked up by the fish somewhere in the Connecticut river, into which the Ware river flows. The ring appears to be none the worse for its stay in the fish's stomach and after being cleaned looked like new.

AFTER 50 YEARS

Brother and Sister Meet in Lowell

MRS. HUGH McDEVITT AND HER BROTHER, JAMES O'NEIL, REUNITED AFTER 53 YEARS.

James O'Neil, a California Miner, Reunited With His Sister, Mrs. McDevitt of Lawrence St.--They Had Not Seen Each Other in 53 Years

Home again, to a strange house in a strange country, yet the home of his heart for years, and his home in fact, henceforth for the remainder of his days, James O'Neil, a veteran of the California gold fields in the halycion days of the "Forty-niners" set foot in Lowell for the first time in his life on Saturday evening, and half an hour later clasped in loving embrace the sister and the brother whom he had not seen since the eventful day in 1852, over half a century ago when he left the family roof in a peaceful parish in County Tyrone, Ireland, to seek his fortune in the new world.

And since his heart has been for many years, while there may be more luxurious homes in Lowell one would indeed find it next to impossible to imagine a happier family circle than in the cosy vine-covered cottage of Mrs. Hugh McDevitt of 228 Lawrence street, where since his arrival the sturdy veteran of the golden west has been kept busy shaking hands with friends whom he has never seen before but whom he has grown to know through the regular correspondence of its faithful and loving sister, Mrs. McDevitt.

When Mr. O'Neil left his home in County Tyrone in 1852 he was only a lad of 19 while Mrs. McDevitt was but "a slip of a girl." On Saturday evening as the old gentleman whose weather-beaten countenance pronounced him a stranger and whose white hair and beard unerringly marked the flight of years, inquired of some young people where Mrs. McDevitt lived a tall and comely young woman with laughing eyes and a face strangely familiar took him by the hand and said: "Right in here, Uncle, we've been waiting for you," and gently led him within the cosy little cottage where with outstretched arms and the tears of joy coursing down her cheeks a sweet-faced, motherly-looking woman whispered, "Welcome home, Brother Jim. Thank God, you've come to see us at last." Beside her stood her other brother, Mr. Bernard O'Neil of Charles street who joined with her in greeting the stranger and thus were reunited after the long lapse of 53 years the three remaining members of the family.

A reporter of The Sun called at the home of Mrs. McDevitt yesterday, and upon making known his mission, was hospitably welcomed and introduced to Mr. O'Neil. The latter is wonderfully well preserved for a man of his years and experience and aside from being slightly hard of hearing is in excellent health and much younger in spirit than most men of his years. His skin is as brown as a berry and his hair as white as snow, and these characteristics ,together with a clear, sharp eye, give his countenance an attractive appearance.

In response to the reporter's queries Mr. O'Neil said: "I left home in County Tyrone in 1852, being 19 years old at the time. I heard of the many opportunities of the new world, and seeing none at home, I decided to seek a living over here. I landed in New York after a long and not very pleasant trip, for they didn't come over as easily in those days. I had heard of the marble quarries of Vermont and went there first, where I worked for two years. Then I got the gold fever and I started for the west, and landed in Senora, Tuolumne county, Columbia, California. There isn't much to tell of my travels after that, for I lived the 50 years in the one county. When I went out there they were doing nothing but placer mining and were finding the gold in the creeks and at the roots of trees. I went placer mining with the rest and worked at it until about 30 years ago, when it was about all done up and the mining for quartz began. The quartz miners went down into the earth 2000 feet after their gold in some cases. I did not like this form of mining and, giving it up, went out on a ranch and did farming. I was with one man for 18 years and would be with him yet but for an accident which killed him and nearly killed me. We were thrown out in a runaway and the poor fellow was killed. Then I went it alone until the last few years I began to realize that I was getting old and would not work forever, and as they had been writing to me for several years to come east, I finally wrote on that I would get ready and bid good by to the west and come to Lowell for the remainder of my days. It was three years ago that I made up my mind to come east, but I didn't get here until Saturday night. It is a great change from the wild country, the miners' camp and the ranchman's life to a comfortable home with loving friends all about, and though I never saw this place before, it's home to me for the remainder of my days."

Mrs. McDevitt's beaming countenance told more eloquently than any words could express her happiness at her brother's presence within her home. "A better boy never crossed the ocean," she whispered to the reporter, adding, "He never forgot his father and mother nor any of the family and he not only wrote regularly to the folks at home but sent home money and brought out to California and gave a start to many young men from our place, and since I came to this country with my husband, 22 years ago, there has never been a break in our correspondence. We always knew he was living but we had really given up hope of ever seeing him again. We had been writing to him to come here but we could never get him to promise to leave the west until lately. Seventeen years ago my poor sister Mary went out to see him in California purposely to bring him back with her but she, poor girl, received a paralytic shock while out there and Jim sent a man all the way back with her to look after her and she died here a few years afterward."

Just then a shadow passed over the kindly face, and Mrs. McDevitt turned slightly and looked for a moment at the picture of a bright-looking young man resting on an easel in the parlor. "If he were only here now," she said, "our happiness would know no bounds. That's the picture of my son. He went out to California with my sister 17 years ago and went to work for him (Mr. O'Neil). He stayed with him only two years when he went to some other part of the state, not liking where he was. That was 15 years ago, and we have never heard from him since. I keep praying that some day we will hear that he is alive while Jim thinks that he will turn up all right some day. But it's a great happiness to have Jim back with us and to know that he is going to remain with us."

While Mrs. McDevitt was speaking to the reporter, the other brother, "Barney," as he is familiarly called, entered the house with an old friend and in a moment the two white haired men were exchanging stories of boyhood days, interspersed with many a hearty slap on the back and dig in the ribs, and the scene of such real happiness was infectious and the reporter was loth to leave the little circle. Mrs. McDevitt's happiness is shared by the neighborhood for she is well beloved by all who know her, and her friends and neighbors rejoice with her husband and daughters that her hope of many years has been realized.

STREET WORK

Committee Recommends a Loan

FOR EXTENSION OF MOODY STREET

Action Taken on Other Improvements

At a meeting of the committee on streets, held last evening, it was voted to recommend to the city council that $22,000 be borrowed, that sum to be used for the paving of Moody street from Tilden street to Spalding street with bituminous tar macadam.

The committee considered a communication from J. A. Speirs relative to the sale of a piece of land required for the extension of Ina street. The strip of land is owned by a Mr. Giles. The communication requested that the owner of the property be exempt from taxation. City Engineer Bowers was instructed to inform the writer of the communication that the committee had no jurisdiction in the matter.

The sub-committee on the extension of Clough avenue reported progress. The report was accepted. It will cost about $500 to extend Clough avenue and it was represented by the committee that it would be a paying investment as the extension would mean new buildings.

The report on the extension of Dummer street was one of progress.

Messrs. Clough, Mahoney and W. J. Hayes were appointed a committee to talk with the abutters of West street relative to the widening of that street which at the present time is but 20 feet wide.

The chairman and the city engineer were instructed to interview the Shaw Stocking company and Mr. Gates relative to the purchase of a strip of land 10 feet wide, on the northerly side of New Fletcher street.

The petition for the macadamizing of Beacon street, from Methuen to Eighteenth streets, was read and a new hearing voted.

The joint order, empowering the mayor and the city council to sell at public auction the "ledge lot," at the corner of Fletcher and Bowers streets, provoked a slight discussion. View and hearing voted.

The petition for the macadamizing of Mammoth road was referred to the superintendent of streets.

The joint order of Councilman Carr to have the names of certain streets of the same name changed, was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion.

Views and hearings were voted on the following petitions: That Gershom, avenue, from Moody street to Genoa avenue be laid out and accepted; that West Forrest street, from Stevens street to Clifford street be accepted; for a sidewalk of edgestones and cinders on both sides of New street; Mt. Washington street from Varney street to Bowers street be macadamized and put to grade and that the grade of sidewalk at the intersection of easterly line of Gorham street with southerly line of Central street be lowered and street at this point widened.

BRYAN FOR FOLK

Favors Him for President in 1908

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—It is stated on unimpeachable political authority that when William J. Bryan was in the city last Thursday he agreed to support Gov. Folk for the presidential nomination in 1908 if the latter was an "available" candidate at that time.

The deal is understood to have carried with it the return of Stone to the United States senate and the election of James M. Seibert as chairman of the state democratic committee, a return to power of the old democratic machine which was so badly shattered by Folk and his friends in the gubernatorial campaign.

The deal is said to have been laid before Gov. Folk last Friday by Col. Moses S. Wetmore and to have been accepted by the governor.

Dissatisfaction with the outcome of his racing venture for the year is said to be the reason for Mr. Smathers' decision. Some of his friends say his racing has cost him this season alone in the neighborhood of $250,000, exclusive of stable expenses.

ASKS $10,000

ALLEGES ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

BOSTON, July 25.—Seeking $10,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Frank H. Byrne of Winthrop has brought suit in the superior court in this county against Ralph P. Chase.

The Byrnes were married Feb. 19, 1902, at Winthrop, and lived there up to the time of the breach in their domestic life. On June 12 Byrne obtained a divorce from his wife on the ground of adultery, the defendant in the present suit, which was entered this month, having been named as co-respondent.

The original libel was filed Feb. 20, but a substitute was filed by leave of court Feb. 25, in order to embrace an allegation of an offence committed subsequent to the bringing of the first action.

WATER BOARD

Honored Memory of August Fels

AT ITS MEETING LAST NIGHT

Testimonial Read by President

At a meeting of the water board held last evening the following tribute of respect to the late August Fels was read by Robert J. Crowley, president of the board:

"The Lowell water board aside from their desire to acknowledge how keenly they feel the personal loss of their late fellow member, August Fels, also deem it a matter of duty to have inscribed on the records of the board a testimonial from them of his worth as a faithful public servant.

"To him was vouchsafed the honor of having served the city in the capacity of a member of the water board a longer time than any other citizen. He became a member of the board in March, 1894, continuing from that date until the time of his lamentable death July 2, 1905. During his long period of service many important improvements had been made in the water works system, the most notable of which was the substitution of driven well water for Merrimack river water.

"The great and lasting benefit which was brought about by this change in the source of our water supply needs no comment excepting that Mr. Fels and collegues, through whose wise judgment and ability this work was accomplished, deserve the gratitude of the people of Lowell. To the consideration of this problem Mr. Fels gave his valuable time freely and unremittingly. In fact, no member of the board was more energetic than he in what was practically a reconstruction of the water works plant.

"The routine work of the department also received his careful attention. He rarely missed a meeting of the board or of any of the sub-committees of which he was a member. His knowledge of the department in all its branches was thorough and complete. Every employe of the department knew, admired and respected him. The water takers had confidence in his integrity and ability.

"A feature of the water works property in which he was specially interested was the system of parks established over the conduit and tunnel in Pawtucketville, and the board believes that one of the parks should be named Fels park in his honor; and they so voted that the lot of land situated on the corner of Sarah avenue and Riverside street be hereafter known as Fels park."

On motion of Frank L. Weaver the board voted unanimously to adopt the testimonial. A copy of the testimonial will be sent to the bereaved family.

The question of extending the water service to that part of Tewksbury known as Atherton was discussed but no action was taken as the board wanted more time to look into the matter. Mr. Edward Cawley, owner of the Atherton property, was on hand to offer any information requested by the board. It was promised, however, that no great delay would be made in the matter.

FREE TRANSFERS

HEARING ON MATTER HELD IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, July 25—The question of permitting the Boston & Northern to limit the present free transfer privileges in Wakefield, Stoneham, Reading, Malden and Melrose was again before the railroad commissioners yesterday afternoon at 20 Beacon street. The main issue before the commission was whether the transfer question could be treated apart from the question of increased rates. It had been suggested that the company intended to raise the fare to Boston from the centers of the towns indicated.

The board did not think the transfer petition should be passed upon without further consideration. Chairman Jackson said the board agreed in part with the policy of the company as outlined in the petition and also believed that the fare from Malden was "extraordinary." But the parties present, such as counsel for the town of Wakefield, were not prepared to go ahead yesterday on the transfer question, alone, without reference to the rate to Boston. The board, therefore, put over the transfer hearing to Sept. 7.

A FIREBUG

PUT SEVERAL LIVES IN PERIL.

BOSTON, July 25—After keeping quiet for several weeks, the Charlestown firebug made his presence known again early this morning by a dastardly attempt to burn the three-story wooden building corner of Water and Gray streets, Charlestown, in which two families were asleep in the upper part of the house.

The building is owned by the P. O'Riordan estate and occupied on the ground floor by James Hume as the White Star lunch room and he, with his wife and two sons, Herbert, aged 4, and Stephen, aged 5, with a boarder by the name of John J. Nolan, occupy the second floor, while the third floor is occupied by a Mrs. Eldridge and her two grown-up sons.

When the fire was discovered these people were all asleep and Patrolman Gould, attracted by cries on the street and seeing the fire burning on the ground floor, seized a stone and threw it through a second story window to arouse the occupants. Then, bursting in the door on the Gray street side, he ran up stairs and awoke the sleepers.

SUMMER MEETING

Of the State Board of Agriculture

At Fair Grounds—Many Interesting Demonstrations — Massachusetts Dairy Bureau Agent Says Some Farmers are Dirty

There was a large attendance of farmers and others interested in agriculture at the summer field meeting of the state board of agriculture at the Fair grounds today. The weather was all that could be desired and great interest was manifested. The speakers were introduced by J. Lewis Ellsworth, secretary of the league.

Prof. F. A. Waugh of the Massachusetts Agricultural college was the first speaker. He gave a demonstration of the preparation of Bordeaux mixtures, and best fruit packages.

The program for the day was a pretty lengthy one and the professor said he would have to skip over his assignment as speedily as possible.

He first spoke of the package and its appearance. The more attractive the package, he said, the greater the sale. He had about 50 samples of packages including boxes, baskets, crates and other such packages as are used for fruits.

He compared the prices of boxes and barrels and said it has been his experience and the experience of others that more money could be obtained for fruit in boxes than in barrels.

The most novel package shown was a paper box that came from the factory as flat as a pancake and when opened up it had a capacity of nearly a bushel of the fruit.

The professor's talk up to this time had been devoted almost entirely to apples and he next turned his attention to peaches, showing the Georgia peach carrier, the Jersey basket and other packages suitable for peaches.

As to the Bordeaux mixture, the professor explained that its mission was to prevent ordinary plant diseases. Some, he said, have the impression that the mixture would kill insects as well as prevent diseases, but such, he said, is not the case.

On the track about midway of the grand stand was a wagon containing all the appliances necessary for making the Bordeaux mixture and a practical demonstration was given. The professor answered many questions relative to the mixture, the expense, manufacture, length of time required to make it, time to apply it, etc. He also answered several questions as to the preparation and use of paris green.

Questions were asked relative to spraying and the best methods. Demonstrations were made with small sprays and the last exhibition included a series of large sprays forced by a gasolene engine.

The next demonstration was that of the Babcock milk test by P. M. Harwood, general agent for the Massachusetts Dairy Bureau. He gave an interesting explanation of the sanitary handling of milk.

DIRTY MILKERS CRITICIZED.

After he had finished with the demonstration Mr. Harwood made a little speech in which he said the price of milk would have to advance in order to assure absolute purity.

He said there were too many farmers and men working on farms who get up in the morning and without washing their faces and hands, go to the barn and milk the cows. He said there are filthy habits among some of the farmers that he was almost ashamed to speak of. "Every farmer and every farm hand should be obliged to wash their faces and hands and clean their finger nails before milking cows or handling the milk," he said. Mr. Harwood also showed and explained a number of sanitary milk pails.

Various other demonstrations followed and the killing and dressing of fowl was left till the afternoon.

Dinner was served in the dining hall at noon by the ladies of Dracut grange. The dinner was one like mother used to cook. The ladies of the Dracut grange have a reputation for "putting up" good dinners and the dinner today was all that could be desired. The speakers were so full of it that they mentioned it, first thing, when introduced.

Mr. P. P. Perham presided at the after-dinner speaking and introduced as the speaker of the afternoon, Hon. N. J. Bachelder, ex-governor of New Hampshire, secretary of New Hampshire state board of agriculture and lecturer of the National grange. Mr. Bachelder spoke upon "Matters of Importance for Rural Betterment." He advised more progressive measures in the pursuit of agriculture and extension of business. He emphasized the necessity for co-operative efforts and the building up of constructive, not destructive, organizations. He argued for education, remarking that it was one of the big avenues to expansion and success that opened itself up to the farmers. He spoke in favor of schools, colleges and legislation. He said that with progress and the extension of farming should go beauty and cleanliness.

At the conclusion of the speech-making the meeting adjourned and the majority of those who attended the dinner visited the Hood farm, leaving the Fair Grounds in special cars about 2 o'clock.

A STRIKE

MAY BE ORDERED BY THE IRON MOULDERS.

PITTSBURG, July 25.—The ultimatum of the iron moulders of Allegheny county was presented to the manufacturers today, giving them until Thursday night to sign the wage scale.

If the scale is rejected a strike will be called Friday morning. The men demand a minimum rate of $3.20 per day, an increase of 20 cents a day over the scale now in force.

PHILIPPINE COINS.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The secretary of treasury has received, through the navy department, a letter from the governor of the island of Guam recommending that Philippine coins be substituted for the Mexican coins now current on the island.

The governor states that since the Mexican coins were demonetized by the Philippine government they have no standing outside of Guam and have become exceedingly scarce. The natives, he says, would accept the Philippine coins without question. The treasury officials are inclined to favor the governor's recommendation.

CRAZED BY DRINK

Man Slashed Three on Train

NEW YORK, July 25.—A terrific battle in a crowded south-bound Third avenue elevated train, in which a drink-crazed man slashed two men and a policeman with a razor, caused intense excitement while the train was crossing the Harlem River last night.

At least one of the men was seriously cut, and the blood from the numerous wounds, combined with the frenzy of the drunken man, caused a number of women, of whom there were many aboard, to faint.

For several minutes the fight raged desperately while the motorman raced his train with all speed to enable the three men to drag their prisoner off at the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street station.

After a struggle the man was forced off, and a double call for a patrol wagon and an ambulance was turned in. Dr. Parmenter, of the Harlem hospital, attended the injuries of the men, while the man who had caused them was bundled off to the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth police station.

He was Alfred Zozone, of No. 347 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street. John Davis, of No. 166 East One Hundred and Ninth street, a guard objected to the manner in which he was frightening every one in the car, and at once the man attacked him with a razor. Davis grappled, despite the manner in which he was gashed, and the cries of women then brought William Simpson, of No. 2118 Second avenue, also a guard, to the aid of his fellow workman.

The man, now furious, sank the blade into Simpson's hand, and the latter, with a cry of pain, fell back.

Patrolman Lewis Shindler, of the West Thirty-seventh street station, who was on the train in citizen's clothes, ran to the assistance of the two guards, and was severely cut on the right hand.

The motorman, warned by excited passengers, put on all speed and the train with its hysterical women and shouting men drew up to the station. Four men were struggling with Zozone out upon the platform when the train dashed over the Harlem. The gate alone saved them all from going into the Harlem River.

Simpson was the worst injured, the blade having slashed an artery.

THE BLACK HAND

Blamed For Stabbing Affray in New York

NEW YORK, July 25.—Tony Salamone's brother and Tom Sullivan, who live at 150 Christopher street, met on Hudson street on Sunday night and Sullivan wouldn't speak to the Italian. The latter walked up to Sullivan and asked why he didn't speak. "I know you, all right," replied Sullivan, "but I don't have to speak to the likes of you."

At that the Italian, according to Sullivan, muttered something about his brother "fixing things", and went away.

Last night Sullivan was near his home, when Tony, who lives at 189 Elizabeth street, came u paud spoke to him. Sullivan says that he responded to the greeting and hurried on. Tony kept alongside, and together the two men went to the corner of Greenwich avenue, where Sullivan crossed the street and turned back. The Italian kept close beside him, and when Sullivan reached his residence he stopped him from going in and asked him to walk along the street a bit further.

They walked on to Washington and Christopher streets, where Tony suggested that they have a drink. Sullivan refused. The Italian attempted to detain him, but he broke away and ran along the street. At that Tony pulled out a razor and gave chase.

Sullivan ran to the door of the parish house of the Church of St. Veronica, where he used to be an altar boy. He rang the bell, but his call was not answered, and almost at once the Italian was at him slashing with the razor until Sullivan sank in a pool of blood on the steps of the house.

None of the bystanders went to Sullivan's aid, but some one ran to tell Sullivan's brother James. James hurried to the parish house and chased the Italian. By this time a large crowd had gathered and nearly 300 joined in the hunt.

At Barrow and Hudson streets James Sullivan caught his man, and the crowd closed in. Had it not been for the arrival of Detective Carmody of the Charles street station Tony might never have needed the services of anything but a coroner's jury. As it was Carmody had a hard fight to land his prisoner in the station house.

Meanwhile Dr. O'Leary of St. Vincent's hospital was doing his best to save Sullivan. At the hospital it was said that Sullivan had small chance to live. He regained consciousness and made a statement in which he said that while working as a private detective he had known the Salamone brothers. He believed, he said, that they belonged to a "black hand" society which he helped to break up and that the attack was planned.

Reports of Grand Officers Made

The seventeenth grand lodge of the Sons of St. George of Massachusetts was opened at Odd Fellows temple in Middlesex street this morning.

Delegates began to arrive on the early morning trains from th edifferent cities and towns in the state, while a number arrived last night. Prior to the opening of the convention there was a renewal of old acquaintances.

At ten o'clock the credential committee got down to work and examined the credentials of the different delegates. There are 43 lodges in the state, each lodge being entitled to a delegate, though many alternates and friends were in attendance.

After the credential committee finished its work Grand President Thomas A. Mort called to order, after which he read his report in which he said:

I regret to report our finances have fallen behind. This is due to the high rate of sickness and death, also extra expenses which are not annual, as may be seen by reference to the grand secretary's report.

All of us have been fully aware of the great suffering existing in Fall River during the great strike of the cotton operatives, the lodges in that city stood nobly to the principles of our order until their funds were exhausted in relieving distressed brothers and their families.

I am pleased to say all our lodges, with two or three exceptions, are in a prosperous condition; a large amount of enthusiasm has been shown by the lodges visited, they all have given ample evidence of their appreciation. From all the evidence at my command I am safe in saying that there is a deep rooted desire on the part of all members to see our order grow and flourish; to rise to nobler and higher usefulness in helping the suffering brothers, as shown in the large amounts voted by some lodges to the Fall River fund.

I have striven hard to merit your great confidence and so far as I know have not left a stone unturned that would advance our order's interests, but brothers there is yet a great work to do, we as an order are not occupying that elevated position we are capable of attaining, many thousands of our countrymen and their descendants are all around us; let us keep our shoulder to the wheel of progress and surely success will reward our united efforts.

At the conclusion of the grand president's report the meeting was declared open, and His Honor, Mayor James B. Casey addressed the convention, welcoming the delegates to the city of spindles and giving them the key of the city.

The grand lodge degree was then exemplified. General routine business was then transacted, included in which were the reports of the secretary and treasurer,

Receipts, $2,799.04. Balance on hand, $782.06.

Fifty-six death claims were paid amounting to $5600.

AN EXPERT

SENT TO ASSIST MAYOR WEAVER.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—To unearth the frauds that Mayor Weaver and his advisers say honeycomb the $25,000,000 filtration plant, which former state insurance and political boss, Israel W. Durham, and the contractors, State Senator James P. McNichol and his brother, D. J. McNichol, were building until the mayor stopped them, the war department has sent Major Cassius E. Gillette, of the army engineer corps, to Philadelphia.

Major Gillette unearthed the Oberlin M. Carter frauds at Savannah and sent that dashing captain to the penitentiary.

Secretary of State Root is behind the appointment of Gillette as Weaver's expert, and Roosevelt is behind Root.

THE BOSTON MARKET.

BOSTON, July 25—The Boston stock market today presented a much better appearance than of late. The activity was almost wholly in the coppers, but the general tone was strong throughout. In the coppers there was every evidence of good buying. Many new buy orders in coppers were in evidence. Osceola was well taken at 99 up ¾. Copper Range was a feature advancing 1⅝ to 74⅝ in the first hour receding fractionally later. Centennial, after advancing ⅜ to 23¼, reacted to 22¼ on profit taking. There was good buying of Bingham, Mohawk, Winona and Atlantic. New York bought steel stocks here.

Today's conference was attended by the members of the leading mercantile associations of Cincinnati, the business men's league of St. Louis, and Chicago shipper's association.

WANTED TO DIE

Russian Girl Tried to Take Her Life

NEW YORK, July [illegible]-year-old Ida Silver, the daughter of a Union Square, a clothing [illegible] Eagle street, Greenpoint, was found unconscious in her room [illegible] from the effects of illuminating gas. With her father and two [illegible] Mollie and Tenchla, she came [illegible] two years ago. Soon after [illegible] and two younger children, intending to send for them when he prospered. While the family was separated they kept up a correspondence. This ceased last January, and Silver was unable to ascertain the cause until about six weeks ago, on the arrival here of a Kiev refugee who knew Silver and who, it is said, told Silver that his wife was among the victims of the massacre in St. Petersburg on Jan. 22, and that his children had gone from the city. Silver communicated with the Russian authorities, and recently the death of his wife was confirmed.

Silver did not tell his daughter Ida of his wife's fate, because the girl had been fretting about the absence of news from her mother. On Sunday she learned of her mother's death. In the afternoon she went to her room, and late at night the odor of escaping gas attracted her sister Mollie and the latter's fiance, Max Reiner. They traced the gas to the girl's room, where Ida was found lying unconscious on her bed. She was removed in an ambulance to the Williamsburg hospital, where the doctors worked over her for three hours before they restored her to consciousness.

When the girl was able to talk she said that on Sunday night she thought she saw her mother appear before her and beckon her to come. The girl added that she had no recollection of what happened later.

SAVES BOY

MOTHER REFUSED TO TESTIFY AGAINST HIM.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Bridget Fitzgerald displayed a mother's devotion in Jefferson market police court yesterday and defied Magistrate Pool's threat of imprisonment.

James Fitzgerald and Joseph Madden had been arrested on a disorderly charge. When searched a $75 pawn ticket for a pair of diamond earrings and $65 in money were found. Detectives discovered that the earrings had been stolen from Mrs. Fitzgerald of 109 East Eighty-fourth street, so the boys were charged with grand larceny.

When the case was called Mrs. Fitzgerald failed to answer. At the second call a frail woman, neatly dressed in black, appeared.

"Why didn't you appear?" Magistrate Pool demanded. "You could be imprisoned."

"For what should I be sent to prison?" was the quiet reply. "Because I won't send my boy to jail? It's the first wrong he has done, and I'll not make a convict of him."

In the face of this decision Magistrate Pool discharged both boys.

The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by the members of the choir. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends and acquaintances. The bearers were Messrs. Edward and Thomas Tiley, John Donohoe, James Doyle, John Lyons and Frank McGovern. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. ACCUSES WIFE

Husband Says She is Cigarette Fiend

NEW YORK, July 25.—William M. Newman, a wealthy silversmith, of No 65 St. Marks avenue, in his suit for absolute divorce from Louise A. Newman, declared yesterday in the supreme court, Brooklyn that his wife was president of a woman's cigarette club, composed of residents of the fashionable Stuyvesant Heights section of Brooklyn.

The members of the club, he said, invariably met at his house and indulged in cigarettes and intoxicants to such an extent that some of them had to be taken home in cabs.

Mr. Newmann testified that he was married in 1885, and that up to June, 1901, when he separated from his wife, she was addicted to the excessive use of liquor. On many occasions, he said, he found her, on his return home, drinking with Edwin W. Hray, a church choirmaster, who occupied apartments in his house.

On May 6 last, he said, his wife was tracked by private detectives hired by him to a hotel at Bedford avenue and Fulton street, where, he declared, she met a companion.

In refutation of these allegations counsel for Mrs. Newman had all the tenants of the third floor of the hotel in court. They stated most emphatically that on May 6 last Mrs. Newman had not entered their apartments, either alone or with a companion. The proprietor of the building, John Holiday, of No. 45 Brevort place, indignantly denied that his place was a hotel. He stated that it was an apartment house, occupied solely by families, and that it would be impossible for any one to have a single room in the building.

Mrs. W. McCarthy, of No. 210 Macon street, testified that Mrs. Newman spent the night of May 6 last at her house.

Justice Newall reserved decision.

WOMAN SC[illegible]A

She is Not Expec[illegible] to Live

NEW YORK, July 25.—In a remarkable runaway in Brooklyn yesterday a child was nearly kicked to death by horses, a woman was frightened so that her life is despaired of, awnings for nearly three blocks were stripped from stores and a policeman risked his life to stop the team.

When the flight of the animals ended it was found that neither the horses nor the wagon had been scratched.

Two magnificent black horses attached to a collecting wagon owned by Gustave Scheer, No. 811 Lexington avenue, and driven by his son, Charles, had stopped in front of a butcher shop at Court and Nelson streets yesterday, when an automobile, making weird noises with its motor, came chugging along.

The horses bolted onto the sidewalk and started to run.

A baby carriage containing Thomas McDonald, 11 months old, was in the way, but the horses kicked the carriage to pieces, injuring the child severely.

The team dashed on through the crowd to Huntington street, where they tore the awning in front of William Jacquus's store, No. 540 Court street, and smashed his show case.

At No. 544 Court street, where Frank Hennessy has a saloon, more awnings were destroyed and windows smashed.

At 540 Court street, the awnings of J. W. Edwards's drug store were torn to bits, and Edwards and a woman customer had a narrow escape.

At 566 Court street, the runaways took to the roadway, and, in doing so, they smashed Gustave Rebenlou's butcher wagon, scattering hams over the street, breaking the horse's legs and creating $200 worth of damage.

A block further on Miss Julia Devine, of No. 46 Garnet street, was crossing the thoroughfare when she saw the runaways bearing down upon her. She stood paralyzed with fear and would have been killed had not William Sullivan, of No. 540 Court street, dragged her to safety. On the sidewalk she became hysterical and it took four men to hold her. Then she lapsed into unconsciousness and was taken to the Long Island College hospital, where it was said last night she might die from the effects of fright.

After being dodged by a trolley car at Hamilton avenue, Policeman William R. Gresham brought the team to a halt, but not before he had been dragged two blocks and had had his uniform torn to ribbons in his work.

FIRE IN TENEMENT HOUSE

Occupants Barely Made Their Escape

NEW YORK, July 25.—In a heroic effort to save his mother and sister who with a score of others were for a time in great peril, from fire, Nathan Newman, 20 years old, today, lost his own life in a burning Brooklyn tenement house. Half a dozen Hebrew families were sleeping in the double deck three story building when the fire started. When the alarm was given the fire had reached practically every floor and the occupants were forced to flee for their lives.

Many were too late to get down the stairways before their escape was cut off by the flames. These sought to escape by the narrow ladder which leads to the roof. Newman got through in safety but was unable to find his mother and sister. He went back into the building, found the women and assisted them through the opening to the roof. When he tried to follow them, however, the ladder was surrounded by flames. He made a rush through the fire but was overcome just as he reached the top and fell back into the burning building to his death. All the other occupants of the house escaped. The loss on the building was $10,000.

GETS A FORTUNE

$1,000,000 Estate Goes to Gorcero

CHICAGO, July 25.—A despatch from San Francisco, Cal., says:

Judge Sawyer, at Lakeport, yesterday handed down a decision giving the entire Floyd estate, worth $1,000,000, to Miles Gorceno, husband of the late Miss Floyd.

Gorceno was a conductor on a street car and his handsome face and polished manner won the rich but eccentric Miss Floyd. She was 15 years older than Gorceno, but despite family opposition, she married him and a year later she died, leaving him all her estate except the house where she lived.

The will was contested by near relatives on the ground of the testator's incompetency.

BOY SUSPECTS

They May be Noted Firebugs

BOSTON, July 25—A 12-year-old boy and his brother, three years his senior, are now being closely watched by the officers from the fire marshal's office, in hopes that the mystery about the recent firebugs scare throughout the city may be cleared up.

The 12-year-old lad has confessed, it is said, to setting fire on March 28 last to the brick building 51 Haverhill street, occupied by the Hub Moulding company.

The lad, whose identity the police are closely guarding, states, so they say, that he set the fire with oil waste stolen from the journal boxes of a freight car, and then, lighted and thrown into the doorway of the building.

A damage of $1000 was done before the fire was extinguished.

Efforts have been made to get the young lad to admit knowledge of the same style fires which cost over $3,000,000 loss at the Hoosac block.

CITY IS SHOCKED

Brockton Has a Police Scandal

BROCKTON, July 25.—This city is shocked as never before in its history as the result of disclosures made at a police hearing yesterday afternoon by Miss Stella Elliott, an 18-year-old girl, who charged, in the presence of Mayor Edward H. Keith, Aldermen Charles C. Eaton, William Lays, Arthur E. Kendrick, Harry L. Thompson, Edward Gilmore, George A. Monk, William H. Clifford and an audience that crowded city hall to the point of suffocation, that Inspector Chester E. Harris of the police force, right-hand man to City Marshal Boyden, betrayed her and then arrested her for street walking.

She charged Harris with the paternity of the female child born to her in a girls' refuge in Providence last December, and that died there in March, and further charged that she revealed to City Marshal Boyden the inspector's share in her shame, and that he concealed the facts rather than dismiss him.

INSPECTOR IS SUSPENDED.

Inspector Harris, a married man, aged 32, and of handsome appearance, was last night suspended by Mayor Keith and the committee on police, pending a formal investigation at which he will have the opportunity to defend himself.

Attorney E. F. O'Neill, her counsel, states that criminal charges will probably be made.

Stella Elliott testified in the presence of the throng, a goodly proportion of which consists of well-known women, that she came here in August, 1903, from South Hanson, where her father is a poor wood chopper, with 11 children. Forced to earn her own living at that early age, she secured employment in a restaurant.

When there but a short time her comely appearance attracted his attention and, she said, he began his improper conduct by snapping a pair of handcuffs on her wrists, in a spirit of fun, and then subjecting her to indignities. She charged that he lured her to the police station about two weeks after.

With childish frankness she continued to tell of their meetings, while the aldermen subjected her to the most searching cross-examination.

"When did you learn that you were to become a mother" she was asked.

WAS IN IGNORANCE.

"In the police station, after Inspector Harris had arrested me for night walking," she said, "I was examined by City Physician E. P. Gleason. Then Mrs. A. P. Alden aided me, and I was sent to Providence, where my child was born."

"And you told the marshal all about it last October, when you were arrested?" asked Alderman Gilmore.

"I did," the girl answered, "He seemed interested, but did nothing about it. My child resembled Mr. Harris. She had dark red hair, the same as his."

Mrs. Jennie Sherman testified to a knowledge of the intimacy between the Elliott girl and the inspector.

BECAME INSANE

Mrs. Jeanette Walsh Wrecked Her Home

WHILE VIOLENTLY INSANE YESTERDAY

She Was Removed to City Hospital

Jeanette Walsh, a former inmate of the Worcester Insane Asylum became suddenly insane again at her home, 17 Sawtelle Place, yesterday afternoon and completely wrecked her home before she was subdued and removed to the police station whence she was taken to the city hospital.

The unfortunate woman who is 49 years of age lived with her mother, at the home of her brother, Fred Seavey and although she had spent two years and a half in the Worcester Asylum four years ago she was considered perfectly rational.

Suddenly yesterday afternoon, without even a moment's warning she grabbed the dishes from the table and threw them in all directions with all the force at her command. Then she ran through the house pushing her fists through every pane of glass within her reach. Her mother tried to stop her and was struck several hard blows. Finally two citizens were attracted by her strange screams and they attempted to hold the infuriated woman. They were scratched and narrowly escaped being bitten. Officer Page who was summoned ordered the patrol wagon and assisted in holding her until its arrival. At the police station she was in a state of frenzy but finally went into a state of exhaustion.

LOWELL MAN

GOT HIMSELF INTO TROUBLE IN LAWRENCE.

The Lawrence Sun says:

Antonio Lapadula, who was arrested Sunday evening about 8.30 o'clock by Officers Vose and Griffin at the lower end of Common street in a very drunken condition and carrying a loaded revolver and a vicious looking dirk with a blade about five inches long, with an edge and point as sharp as a razor was fined $1 for drunkenness and $5 for carrying concealed weapons.

Lapadula, it seems, has a good record as a law abiding citizen and holds a responsible position in Lowell as a foreman of building laborers employed in the construction of a large mill. He said that the gun belonged to a friend and that the knife was used for cutting bread and tobacco during meal hours.

SECRETARY TAFT

Given Hearty Welcome to Japan

YOKOHAMA, July 25.—Secretary of War Taft and party received a demonstrative welcome to Japan, the principal buildings, streets and wharves of the city and the shipping in the harbor being gaily decorated. A noisy display of daylight fireworks along the streets fronting the harbor announced the arrival of the steamer Manchuria at the quarantine grounds at 1 o'clock this morning and continued until the vessel was docked. Lloyd C. Griscom, the American minister, the attaches of the legation and consul general H. B. Miller of New Chwang, together with representatives of the Japanese Imperial household, foreign officers, war department and the Asiatic society, then boarded the Manchuria and extended formal greetings to Secretary Taft and Miss Roosevelt, who held an informal reception upon the deck. The party then was driven to the railroad station through the crowded streets, and, boarding a special train, departed for Tokio at 10 a. m., amid the cheers of the assembled multitude.

Upon their arrival at Tokio, Secretary Taft and his personal staff were taken to Shiba, where a detached palace was provided for their accommodation. Miss Roosevelt accompanied Minister Griscom to the American legation.

The voyage was uneventful and the party arrived well.

A RAGGED GAME

Lowell Allowed Nine Runs at Start

CONCORD, N. H., July 25.—It looked like rain and but few attended the game; it did rain and the game was called in the sixth inning. It was a good thing, too, that the game was called, for the Lowell team put up another of their celebrated exhibitions. Lowell allowed nine runs in the first inning, and yet the players wonder why their salary is overdue. The players took the receipts before the game, as usual.

DIAMOND NOTES.

New Bedford at Lowell.

Huntington is talking of going to Rutland, Vt. He'd better remain where he is and get a little more experience before starting out.

Jack Kerins has received an offer from the American association.

According to the schedule Lowell has home games Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. Here's hoping they give us a little baseball during the four days.

Sullivan is out of the game with a bad finger. It's too bad, for Sully was one of the real working ball players in the team.

BATTING AVERAGES

AS COMPILED BY THE WEBSTER SYSTEM.

This system gives to the batter all the points, or bases, run upon his hit, and all the bases made upon any hit of the batter not an error, by base runners who have preceded him. These are designated batted bases and from them the true record of percentage to the batsman is derived. A sacrifice hit is scored a time at bat, as the player is credited with whatever is accomplished by said hit.

Connors and Grant Go to Boston

Capt. Connors and George Grant were both too ill to go to Concord yesterday, Connors with cramps and Grant with an injured nose. Both recovered sufficiently, however, to go to Boston in the afternoon and confer with J. C. Morse, secretary of the New England league.

While there, according to Capt. Connors, they met President Harry Pulliam of the National league and Secretary Locke of the Pittsburg National team and with them attended the Boston-Pittsburg game.

Upon his return Capt. Connors gave out the following statement:

"As the result of our talk with President Pulliam and Secretary Morse, we are not worrying so much about our salaries. We have a way of getting our money. What it is I do not wish to state at the present time, but it is a fact that we have a remedy.

"We will play with New Bedford at Spalding park this afternon and will not ask for the money received at the gate as we have been doing. President Pulliam informed us that we had no occasion to worry, and he also said that there was no such thing as 15 days' lee way for a manager to meet his financial obligations.

"Looking over the New England league's constitution we found that no reference was made whatever to the question of how long a manager could owe his players after the salaries were due. We will play out the present week, in all probability, and then if we are not paid, there will be something doing."

Sec. Morse is the authority for the 15 days' statement.

BROCKTON TALK

OVER FUTURE OF LOWELL TEAM.

The Brockton Enterprise yesterday had the following:

There was a good chance for the Walkover baseball association to get the Lowell team for the New England league for the rest of the season if they wanted it for Brockton. This would take not only the players but the franchise, and would result in putting the association in a position to have a team and franchise fo. the next season as well as this.

The matter was broached to leading members of the association yesterday by Treasurer M. F. Farrell, who had been told that the Lowell team might perhaps be readily obtained for this city. It was understood that—different from the Manchester scheme—it would not be necessary for the association to put up much if any money to get the team and franchise.

Treasurer Farrell said today that the opinion among those he had seen was that the Walkovers would do better this season to go along with independent ball. The Stoughton series for one thing is going to be a money-maker without doubt, and it is considered by those who were seen by the treasurer that it is best to let well enough alone just now.

President Maguire is out of the city. The Lowells have been reported as on strike for salaries this week, and it is likely that they will soon be transferred to some other city. The team has not run with its usual success this year.

Manager Reardon says that the Walkovers will not go into the New England League this season, but might another season if conditions seemed right. The Walkover management is satisfied with the present outlook for independent ball in this city, and believes the quality and interest of the games that are being played here now is fully equal to that which would be seen here in New England League games. The Lowell team is not a winning proposition anyway. The only New England League ball that will be seen on these grounds this season will be that shown in exhibition games when the New England teams come here.

WOMAN DYING

SHE JUMPED FROM AN ELECTRIC CAR.

SPRINGFIELD, July 25.—Mrs. Amelia Bushey of Indian Orchard was injured, probably fatally, by jumping from a Palmer trolley car in Ludlow yesterday afternoon. She had been visiting in North Wilbraham. She signaled the conductor to stop and without waiting to see whether the car slackened speed stepped to the running board and jumped off.

She was unconscious when assistance reached her and was taken to the house of Mercy in this city. Her skull was fractured at the base of the brain and the surgeons do not believe that she can last through the night.

Mrs. Bushey is but 17 years old and married George Bushey less than a year ago. Mr. Bushey was summoned to the hospital as soon as the identity of his wife became known.

FIGHT FOR CHILD

Cambridge Man Wants His Son

BOSTON, July 25.—Cambridge has at present one of the most sensational cases in years in the fight made by Fleming Arthur McArthur, first for his wife's body and then for the custody of his 5-year-old son.

McArthur's wife committed suicide Saturday last. She had left him and he intended bringing suit for divorce, alleging cruelty.

Mrs. McArthur died at her mother's where she had been since she left her husband, and when he was told he could not get the body he threatened to go into court for an injunction.

To prevent such action, the mother held funeral services at her home yesterday, and then allowed the body of her daughter to be taken by McArthur to his mother's home for a second funeral service today.

Then McArthur took steps to obtain custody of his son Nell, who is with his grandmother, Mrs. Esterbrook.

Mr. McArthur says that he wants the boy to attend the funeral services. He will apply to the court to secure possession of the child and to insure his attendance at the services.

He will also later proceed in court, he says, to secure possession of $200 worth of goods which, he claims, belonged to his wife before her death.

Yesterday afternoon Nelle McArthur, niece of Arthur McArthur, went to the Esterbrook house to secure the child Nlel. The had refused to go to his father.

Later on about 7.15 p.m., Patrolman William Rowe went to the Esterbrook house to get possession of the child. He was in the company of McArthur.

Rowe asked Nell if he wanted to go, and the boy said "No." The patrolman asked him why he didn't want to go. The child said that he was afraid of his father because the latter had kicked him several times. He told a story of one instance of this kind.

Rowe went away without the child.

FOR AN OLD MAID

Y. M. C. A. Boys Defend Her

SAY SHE IS BETTER ON A FARM

Than the Ordinary Old Style Wheelbarrow

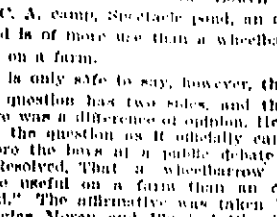

According to the boys who are having a merry mouth at the Lowell Y. M. C. A. camp, Spectacle pond, an old maid is of more use than a wheelbarrow on a farm.

It is only safe to say, however, that the question has two sides, and that there was a difference of opinion. Here was the question as it officially came before the boys at a public debate:

"Resolved, That a wheelbarrow is more useful on a farm than an old maid." The affirmative was taken by Douglas Morey and Physical Director Maxwell, while Chester E. Wheeler and Percy A. Yarnold had the negative. W. G. Mackay was chairman and W. A. Morse, A. L. Kelly and Mrs. McKay acted as judges.

Mr. Maxwell's assertion that an old maid tramped down the farm more than a wheelbarrow because she made two tracks to a barrow's one, was disputed by Mr. Yarnold, who claimed a point in favor of the old maid because unless the barrow could run itself there were three tracks every time it was moved—one made by the wheel and two by the feet of the person pushing. The affirmative stated that the cost of keeping a barrow was much less than an old maid, claiming that $15 a week was about the figure for the latter, but the negative denied the assertion and said if you gave her some water, a few crackers and a cat she would live for a week. Some doubted her ability to digest the cat and also questioned whether it would be possible to get a fresh one every week. The matter was referred to the judges, who reported in favor of the wheelbarrow, but the audience would not stand for it and demanded that a vote be taken, and on a count of hands the champions of the old maid were declared the winners.

Saturday morning the Tigers and Bears played a six inning ball game the result being 16 to 2 in favor of the former, with an inning to spare. W. G. McKay and W. B. Wiggin were umpires and C. E. Wheeler scored. The teams, positions and runs:

Tigers—Holman Waring c, 2; Herbert Draper p, 2; Paul O'Donnell 1b, 1; Warren Howe 2b, 1; Russell Fox 3b, 3; George Hill ss, 2; Ralph Costello lf, 2; Claude Rogers cf, 3; D. Dilts rf, 1.

Bears—Frank Hull c, Carl Taylor p, 2; Fred Gray 1b, 3; Edward Noyes 2b, Lewis Duncan 3b, 1; William Graves ss, 2; Carl McLeod lf, Stanley Crandall cf, Raymond Hawley rf, 1.

In the afternoon a close and exciting game was played between the Junior team of Littleton and Camp Lowell, result—Littleton 8, Camp Lowell 7. Carl Dunning was scorer, while M. C. Corcoran filled the trying position of umpire and gave general satisfaction. The teams, positions and runs:

Littleton—B. Fulton c, H. Canney p, 1; B. H. Fulton 1b, 3; B. G. Smith 2b, L. Prouty ss, A. Godfrey 3b, 1; Gaston lf, R. Godfrey cf, 2; H. Prouty rf, 1.

The camp paper has been named The Knocker, and in the Saturday issue not a single person escaped a crack, while some received a great many more. The paper is proving a popular feature and the reading of the same is eagerly looked forward to by all, for no one knows what may be said about him. Mr. Yarnold's slosh—he calls it poetry—in the last issue, created considerable amusement and was greatly enjoyed.

For filling in odd moments whip ing is a popular game, the playing of which furnishes considerable amusement for the participants and spectators.

The Sunday afternoon service was addressed by Rev. A. E. Kenyon, who had an audience of 30. The reverend gentleman read Ecclesiastes 12 for a Scripture lesson and took the same for the basis of his remarks. At the conclusion of the meeting the boys testified to their appreciation of Mr. Kenyon's words of advice and encouragement by a standing vote of thanks.

Recent visitors: W. H. Hoyt, Cora and Etta Draper, O. A. Draper, E. C. Draper, A. E. and Mrs. Kenyon, C. S. Crandall, M. C. Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Stewart, Clara A. Morse, Hattie K. DRIFTING TOWARDS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Many people who are neglecting symptoms of kidney trouble, hoping "it will wear away," are drifting towards Bright's Disease, which is kidney trouble in one of its worst forms.

stops irregularities, strengthens the urinary organs and builds up the worn-out tissues of the kidneys so they will perform their functions properly. Healthy kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood as it passes through them. Diseased kidneys do not, and the poisonous waste matter is carried by the circulation to every part of the body, causing dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, sluggish liver, irregular heart action, etc.

If you have any signs of Kidney or Bladder Trouble commence taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once, as it will cure a slight disorder in a few days and prevent a fatal malady. It is pleasant to take and benefits the whole system.

How to Find Out.

You can easily determine if your kidneys are out of order by setting aside for 24 hours a bottle of the urine passed upon arising. If upon examination it is cloudy or milky or has a brick-dust sediment or small particles float about in it, your kidneys are diseased, and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE should be taken at once.

G. B. Burhans Testifies After Four Years.

G. B. Burhans of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes:

"About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick-dust sediment and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed, and I am evidently cured to stay cured, and heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble."

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

Free Public Baths a Necessity

There is a great opportunity for some philanthropist to win the everlasting gratitude of this community by contributing a sum sufficient to establish a free system of public baths in Lowell.

Nearly two-thirds of our population do not possess the luxury of a bath tub in their homes and these are the people who toil the hardest, perspire most and consequently need the bath tub most.

To meet this public necessity a system of public baths could be constructed for use in summer at least for a very moderate sum but somehow nobody seems to take sufficient interest in the matter to start the movement.

With two noble rivers joining their waters near the centre of our city, with a superb system of canals; with a system of waterworks excelled by none of equal size, yet the toilers and even the boys of our city must risk their lives or take the chances of arrest when they attempt to take a bath either in river or canal.

What is the result? An average of five drownings every summer with such spectacles as were witnessed quite recently when an officer walked off with the clothes of a few young men who were enjoying a swim in the river.

The chief obstacle to the establishment of public baths is the lack of the necessary funds. For a moderate sum a large swimming place can be maintained every summer above Pawtucket bridge; and it would not be very expensive to establish winter baths at a central point in the city.

This would prevent the drownings; it would improve the public health and at the same time the public morals while affording the toilers a privilege that would increase their comfort and happiness—one that they would appreciate far more than public parks, free concerts, or anything else we can offer them. Where is the public benefactor who will establish a free system of public baths?

Let us hope the strike of the coal teamsters will be of short duration. The strikers might have selected a more inconvenient time for the dealers.

Let us hope the Kaiser gave the Czar some good advice. The latter needs wise counsel at the present time, but seems deaf to those who counsel wisdom.

So Premier Balfour will not resign despite the fact that he was defeated in a division forced by the Irish leader, John Redmond. He is a law unto himself.

We have now the word of Attorney General Moody that the beef trust suit will be pressed with all due haste. Wonder if that means its termination in less than ten years.

A Nashua Universalist preacher so far offends against the creed of the sect as to say that there is a class of people in Nashua who ought to go to hell. Wonder if they'll take the hint.

The disaster on the Bennington by which 60 men lost their lives and many more were seriously wounded will be investigated but in all probability the cause of the explosion will never be known.

The Shah of Persia is now in France and is reported to be coming to the United States. He is accounted the most troublesome royal guest on the other side the Atlantic, but if he comes here he may get over his fussiness before he goes home. He will have to keep his jewels and his suite well in hand or he may lose both.

COTTON CULTURE IN EUROPEAN COLONIES.

The expected has happened. When American cotton growers resorted to the torch to get rid of a surplus crop it was natural that foreign nations would endeavor to find some other source of supply.

Accordingly the International Cotton Congress in session at Manchester, England, adopted resolutions urging the other European nations to take immediate steps to promote cotton growing in their colonies. Germany, England and France had already been making experiments on these very lines with more or less success.

So deeply interested is Emperor Wilhelm in the experiments in West Africa that through Booker Washington he had several graduates of the Tuskegee Institution go to West Africa to instruct the natives in the cultivation of cotton. Their success was very limited. The Americans report that the labor is poor and that there are other difficulties which it would take time and money to overcome.

England's chief colonial cotton field is in India, while an effort is being made to boom cotton culture in South Africa, Rhodesia, Central Africa, Egypt and the Soudan as well as in Australia.

The French are carrying on extensive experiments in cotton growing in the upper Niger and Algeria with very fair success. The Dutch are trying to grow cotton in Java and the Dutch East Indies.

Thus in the end the Southern planters may discover that in their effort to limit the supply and keep up the price of cotton they have lost the greater part of the foreign market.

It is true that the South is by far the greatest cotton growing region in the world, but there are others which, if developed, may affect the trade of the South even more than an abundant crop. It does not always pay to be too greedy.

SEEN AND HEARD

There was a large gathering in one of the municipal courts a few mornings ago awaiting the opening of business. Just before 9 o'clock the clerk of the court received a message from the justice stating that he was too ill to leave his home and that court must be adjourned unless some other justice could be found to preside.

The clerk telephoned in every direction, and, finding that he could not get another justice, decided to adjourn the court. So he mounted to the justice's desk and, after securing silence by rapping with the gavel, made the following announcement:

"No justice here! Courts adjourned."

"True enough," said one disgruntled lawyer amid general laughter.

The hot spell was responsible for much prickly heat, and one former resident of the West Indies made himself solid with his friends by advocating burnt flour as a palliative.

The flour is simply stirred in a saucepan over the fire until it is a light brown, and then is applied to the body through a bit of muslin. It is far more effective than ointments, talcum powder and similar remedies and has, moreover, the virtue of simplicity to commend it.

The following letter of sympathy, received at this office a few days ago is self explanatory:

Norfolk, Va., July 13, 1905.

Editor of Lowell Sun:

Sir:—Imagine our surprise this morning when we read in your paper of the death of Police Officer Chester Ryder, who but a few days ago entertained my wife and her friend, Mrs. Joseph C. West while in Lowell. It has been our pleasure to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ryder twice while in Norfolk in the past few years, and it would be hard to find a couple more endowed with all the blessings of good nature than Mr. and Mrs. Ryder. I am sure they came as near being perfect as 'tis possible for man and wife to be. It seems too bad that two as happy as they should be separated. But such is the way of the Master. We want to take this method of expressing our deep sympathy to Mrs. Chas Ryder, in this the saddest moment of her life. We cannot find words to express our deep sorrow.

With our kindest love and best wishes,

MR. ANR MRS. JOHN G. HILL.

THE MAN WHO WAITS.

Everything comes to the man who goes after the things some other fellow is waiting for.

Everything may be coming to the man who waits, but it's seldom that anything arrives.

Everything comes to him who waits the least.

Nothing that comes to the man who waits is worth waiting for.

Something that should come to the man who waits is a good strong push.

Some men seem to think that a chance in life is a capital prize destiny will award them for being patient waiters.

The fellow who always waits for something to happen, happens to have to wait always.

Everything comes to him who lets the other fellow do the waiting.

A man and a woman were eating luncheon in a downtown restaurant. It was late in the afternoon. There were, by actual count, thirty-five tables in the room, thirty of which were empty. A man came in. He passed by the thirty unoccupied tables and took the end seat at the one where the man and woman sat. The couple were deep in a conversation, apparently tender as well as interesting, and they were visibly annoyed by the interruption.

They ceased talking and glared at the man. He appeared oblivious to their wrath. The days of his own romance, if he had any, were over. He had stony blue eyes, a stubby gray mustache and no hair. He ordered fried eggs, apple pie and milk.

"Is there no remedy?" wailed the young woman in despair.

"I am afraid not," said her companion.

She glared still more fiercely.

"I know now," she said, "how people feel when they commit murder."

"Are you guilty of some crime?" she asked presently. "Are we being spotted? Is this a detective? What is his motive?"

"He has none," said the man. "He is simply a born fool."

The intruder never flinched. For thirty minutes he pegged away at his meal as though performing a painful but necessary duty. Finally, he went away, followed by scathing comments from everybody in the restaurant.

Capt. Harry Graham, whose engagement to Ethel Barrymore is announced, dedicated to her his book, "Misrepresentative Men." The frontispiece is a portrait of Miss Barrymore and the dedicatory verses end thus:

Without a single stop;

"A man of fully six feet two,
With hair of raven wave,
A noble brow, a Samson's strength,
The bravest of the brave."

The gracious clerk then shook his head
As every salesman should.
"All out of that," he said, "but here
Is something just as good."

The little chap was sent next day;
The neighbors cry with vim:—
"Now what on earth do you suppose
She ever saw in him?"

YELLOW FEVER

Causes Six Deaths in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 25.—Mayor Behrman, in view of the presence of yellow fever in New Orleans, issued a proclamation last night to the people of New Orleans, urging them to heed the advice of the health authorities relative to the sanitation of their premises, and calling special attention to the necessity of screening houses and placing nets over all water which might breed mosquitoes.

This proclamation was also signed by the president of the state board of health, by the president of the city health board, by Surgeon White of the Marine hospital service, and by the advisory committee of the New Orleans parish medical society.

Up to date there have been 17 cases of fever in New Orleans and six deaths of yellow fever.

The quarantine regulations suggested by the meeting of citizens requiring six days' detention for all vessels from ports subject to yellow fever were adopted after a heated discussion.

Notification was received at noon from Dr. Hunter of the Mississippi board that he had proclaimed quarantine against the whole state of Louisiana, because Louisiana had not quarantined against New Orleans. This question was discussed and it was decided not to quarantine the state against the city.

THE HOUSE FELL

Four Children Narrowly Escaped Death

LYNN, July 25.—Four small children narrowly escaped death in the collapse of a three-story apartment house in process of erection in Pleasant street last evening. The children were playing in the second story. They are Edward Hartford, Arthur Drew, George Ford and Grace Langford.

The wooden supports in the basement gave way, both floors falling simultaneously. The centre of the first floor landed in the basement, the second floor landing on the floor below. All save young Hartford, 9 years old, heard the crash coming in time to get to the windows from which they subsequently jumped to the ground. Hartford was carried to the basement, landing upon a pile of debris. He was taken out more frightened than hurt. The others were uninjured. The collapse made a terrible noise and attracted a big crowd.

The building is being constructed for H. Goodman by Contractor Goodwin.

Mr. Goodwin says the cause of the collapse was the weakness of the supports in the basement timbers 2x4 inches. The specifications called for iron supports, that did not arrive until yesterday. Mr. Goodwin says he had not seen the building inspector at the house at any time.

The house will practically have to be reconstructed.

FELL DEAD

DOCTOR HAD JUST PRONOUNCED MAN IN PERFECT HEALTH.

NEW YORK, July 25—While a physician in the act of pronouncing him physically perfect, after the rigid government examination, George W. Hennessey, for seven years keeper of the U. S. life-saving station at Spring Lake, N. J., dropped dead yesterday.

Hennessey was taking his annual examination. Dr. Wood, of the U. S. Marine hospital had already finished this examination and was saying: "I wish I were as sure of a long lease of life as you are."

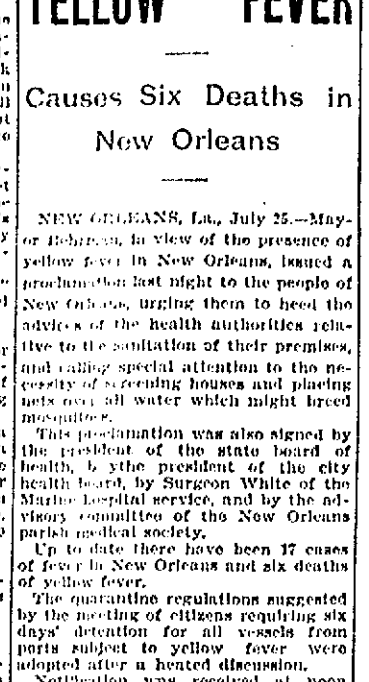

Hennessey proudly expanded his chest, and that act was his last. He fell to the floor with blood running from his mouth and was dead in less than five minutes. Hemorrhage of the lungs was the physician's verdict on the cause of death.

DEBTS OF YOUNG CROKER AMOUNTED TO ABOUT $130,000.

NEW YORK, July 25.—An appraisal has just been made of the estate of the late Frank H. Croker, son of Richard Croker, who was killed by the overturning of his automobile at Ormonde Beach, Fla., last January.

The report submitted to surrogate Fitzgerald yesterday morning for the purpose of having determined the amount of tax which the state shall levy, shows that Frank Croker left a personal estate the gross amount of which is placed at $635,178.60. His debts amounted to $130,353.

TENEMENT FIRE

Twenty Families Were Hemmed In

NEW YORK, July 24.—Tenants in a five-story double brick tenement, occupied by twenty families, at No. 22 Cook street, Williamsburg, had a race with death in a fire last night.

The flames were discovered in the apartment of Jacob Shapiro on the fourth floor. He was in his rooms alone, according to tenants, who found him there when the smoke was filling the hall. The police communicated the fact to the fire marshal.

Samuel Kanter, who, with his wife and four children, live on the top floor, discovered the fire. He called to M. Teitelbaum, who lives on the same floor with his wife and six children, and they ran down to warn Samuel Kaplan, his wife and two children, who live opposite Shapiro's rooms.

Kanter and Teitelbaum ran to Shapiro's room, out of which smoke was pouring, and rapped at the door with all their might, but got no response. They were beginning to kick in the door when, they declare, Shapiro opened it and dashed past them to the street, yelling "Fire!" The two men say the room was all ablaze.

Kanter and Teitelbaum ran up to get their families, but found themselves cut off by the flames. They had to climb over an adjoining roof.

Tenants in the rear were cut off and had to flee to rear fire escapes, where they were rescued after many were injured by smoke. The Kaplan family were among them. Policeman Carroll, of the Stagg street station, with Policeman Rosenfeld, took many from their dangerous perch.

The fire spread to the adjoining tenement and the two buildings were gutted at the top.

Shapiro told the police he was asleep when the two men awakened him.

WRESTLING NOTES

That a rest will work wonders with an athlete is seen in the case of Frank Gotch, the wrestler. Gotch has done nothing to speak of on the mat since his last match with Tom Jenkins at Madison Square Garden. The other night Gotch faced Alec Samuelson at Minneapolis in a mixed style bout and beat his man in such decisive fashion that Gotch's friends think that he has recovered his old time form. Samuelson is a Swede of large proportions and rated as exceptionally clever, but against Gotch he did not appear to be in it, the American taking two straight falls. The first fall was at catch-as-catch-can, Gotch winning in 13 minutes 30 seconds, and the next at Graeco-Roman, Gotch throwing the foreigner in 25 minutes. This style was supposed to be in favor of Samuelson.

Gotch assumed the aggressive at the call of time and never gave his man a chance to get on top. Gotch utilized every conceivable hold and seemed to have the match clinched several times. However, just when it looked as if Samuelson would go down the Swede would wriggle to safe quarters and land flat on his stomach. Finally Gotch secured a bar hold and quickly forced Samuelson to his back. The latter pluckily went into a bridge, but Gotch was on top of him like a flash and went for a hammer lock. He got it all right, and combined it with a scissors hold, bringing Samuelson down.

After a rest of ten minutes the contest was resumed. The style, Graeco-Roman, did not puzzle Gotch any. He went after Samuelson as if he understood the rules thoroughly. Gotch chased Samuelson all over the mat and finally capsized him with a waist lock. The Swede slipped away from this hold and looked to have a chance until Gotch applied a hammer. He got this grasp in fine fashion and rolled Samuelson on his back. Samuelson made a Spartan effort to land on his stomach, but the hold had done its work. Samuelson flopped flat and groaned with pain. After Gotch had been declared the winner, it was found that one of the ligaments of Samuelson's shoulder had been torn loose. This accident, Samuelson declared, had rendered him helpless. Gotch now declares that he will not rest satisfied unless he secures a match with Tom Jenkins. He adds, though, that he will not meet Jenkins in the East, as he fears that he will not get a fair show in New York. He is satisfied to meet Jenkins at either Minneapolis or Cleveland for a side bet and purse. Gotch has gone to Portland, Ore., on a pleasure trip. He says that he will not do any wrestling there unless one of the clubs come forward with an enticing offer.

George Haskenschmidt has hit upon a unique scheme to make all ambitious wrestlers come to time when they challenge him. The noted Russian Jon now insists that when a deft is hurled at him the offer for a match must be accompanied by $5000 cash, not necessarily for a side bet, but as an evidence of good faith.

"I do not wish to appear as an arrogant man," said the Russian recently, "but I had to take this step in order to protect myself. Since I returned to England from my trip around the world I have received no less than a dozen challenges a week from anxious rivals. Some of them are from men I have never heard about, while others come from wrestlers who never had any standing and who never will. In order to be accommodating I thought that I would notice them. So I went to the newspapers that published the dells and answered them in person. I did this sort of thing for weeks, but nothing came of it. When it came to the arrangement of a match my rivals were not ready to do business. It seemed to me that they were simply bluffing and trying to belittle me. I lost a lot of time paying attention to the challenges until it got very monotonous. Finally I concluded that the only way to test whether my competitors were really in earnest was to make them put up their money.

"I want to give everybody a chance, but if they think they are good enough they should not hesitate about posting $5000, half of which should go as a forfeit and the remainder for a side stake. It took me many years to make a reputation, and as long as I think I have the ability to win I ought to get all the spoils if there are any in sight. I will not ignore anybody who will put up his money. Although I have enough engagements to keep me busy on the mat for a period of years. I will not hesitate about taking a night or week off to go into a match whereby I think I have a chance to make a certain amount of money. But I will not pay any attention to challengers unless they do this. What is the use, anyway?"

WITH HAT PIN

WOMAN ATTEMPTED TO STAB HERSELF.

LYNN, July 25.—Annie Donovan, a young woman living at 32 Spring street, was arrested at an early hour last evening by Patrolman Hall on the charge of being drunk and creating a disturbance, and as he was about putting her in a cell in the central police station she pulled a hatpin from her hair and attempted to stab herself in the neck.

The officer, after a struggle, succeeded in getting the pin, which was broken in two pieces, before the woman had a chance to harm herself.

Miss Donovan and a woman named Mary Wheeler, according to the story of the police, had some trouble in their room and during the row the Wheeler woman received a number of bad scratches on the arms and face. Everything was in a mixup when the officer reached the place and there was great excitement until the women had been taken to the police station. Mrs. Wheeler was allowed to go after her companion had been locked up.

WILLIAMSTOWN, July 25—Yesterday David Boyd, aged 22, of North Adams, a farmhand employed by Almon M. Stevens, jumped from a load of hay and struck squarely upon a pitchfork, which was sticking upright in the ground beside the load.

The handle of the fork was driven through the perineum into the bladder, carrying with it parts of the clothing. Boyd was taken at once to the North Adams hospital, where an operation was performed, but it is believed that his injuries will prove fatal.

HE WILL NOT RUN

Douglas Says His Decision is Final

HOME CLAIMS AND BUSINESS

Principal Cause of Stand He Took

BOSTON, July 25.—Governor Douglas' "No" stands.

All the combined eloquence of Josiah Quincy, John R. Thayer, Congressman John A. Keliher, Col. William A. Gaston, Col. A. C. Drinkwater, and a half-dozen more of the specially chosen representatives of the democratic state committee failed to sway the governor in his determination to retire to his delightful home life at the close of his present term, and to relinquish the opportunity to try again for the gubernatorial chair to another standard bearer of his party.

For nearly an hour and a half they pleaded with him, yesterday afternoon, but without avail. At the conclusion Gov. Douglas thanked them for the appreciation they had expressed, but said he felt "compelled to adhere to his original determination not again to be a candidate for the position" he now holds.

On whom the mantle may fall no one of the eleven who emerged from the executive chamber after the conference was prepared or cared to say. There might be some significance in the fact that ex-Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester left the state house with Col. William A. Gaston, and that they spent half an hour together behind the colonel's fast closed door in his office down in State street. But Mr. Thayer was non-committal and so was Col. Gaston. Neither of them wished to talk, and the former congressman departed on a late afternoon train for his home in Worcester.

It was by appointment that the delegation from democratic state headquarters met in the governor's reception room at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Quincy was the spokesman of the party. He read to the governor the resolutions adopted by the democratic state committee on July 12. These Mr. Quincy supplemented by as earnest a plea as he could make, that for the interest of the state and party the governor should reconsider his previously expressed determination to retire from office and from politics at the close of his term and not to permit his renomination by his loyal democratic constituents.

Ex-Congressman Thayer followed in a strong address, urging Gov. Douglas to be a candidate for a second term. So did Congressman Keliher, Col. Gaston, Col. Drinkwater and most of the others on the committee.

When the committee, led by Col. Gaston and John R. Thayer, emerged from the inner sanctum into the outer reception room Col. Gaston's smile was enigmatical. There were more reporters than there were committeemen.

"Nothing to say," remarked the colonel.

"Are you going to run for next governor, Congressman?" Mr. Thayer was asked.

"Oh, I can't talk," replied the man who trimmed the "Grey Eagle" in hardfought battles. "See Mr. Quincy; he will tell you all there is to say for ourselves and the governor."

So the reporters waited. Mr. Quincy did not come forth for at least six minutes more, and when he did he told the story succinctly as stated.

"But what reasons did he give?" asked the reporters.

"He explained his grounds even more fully than he did in his original letter published some time ago," said Mr. Quincy, "but the governor gave his reasons for the committee and not for the press," added the speaker, very decidedly. "We did all we could, but he told us he was compelled to adhere to his previous determination."

BOLD ROBBERY

FOUR BOYS STOLE $220 FROM CASHIER.

WORCESTER, July 25.—The robbery for which Samuel Groloski, George Hickory, John Leighton and Michael Friedman were arrested by the Boston police yesterday at the request of Worcester officials, was the most daring committed here for a long while.

It happened Saturday night in the Worcester market on Main street, while the place was crowded with customers. The four boys entered the store about 8 o'clock and one of them purchased 10 cents' worth of apples. He presented his check at the cashier's desk on which there was a big pile of money, and while the cashier was reaching for his change, the boys made a grab at the pile of greenbacks and silver.

Before the cashier could give an alarm, the three other lads crowded in behind the youngsters who had the money and rushed him through the crowd of customers into Main street, where the quartet was lost in the crowd before the clerks could get from behind their counters through the crowd to the street.

A balance of the store accounts Saturday night showed that the boys had got away with about $220, of which $200 was in bills. After leaving the market, the lads crossed the common to Front street where they jumped into a carriage of Walter D. Ross in front of his store and drove out Main street at a rapid gait. They eluded the police and left horse and carriage near Thomas Flynn's stable on Green street, where it was recovered yesterday, but several bundles, one of which contained a $45 suit of clothes, were gone.

DEALERS FINED

For Violating Law in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, July 25.—The cases of Michael McDonough and Joseph Millington & Co., charged with maintaining liquor nuisances at their saloons since June 1, were heard in police court yesterday before Judge Mahoney. A large number of witnesses were sworn for the prosecution, including the three members of the license board. The dealers paid $2500 each for a license May 1. About the middle of June the members of the license board visited both places and found back doors being used, and in the case of Millington & Co. it was alleged that minors were served liquor in his rear room.

Chairman William J. Bradley of the license board, and a leading attorney, told of finding an open back door at each of the places, and stated that at Millington's he saw liquor served to three girls and two men in the rear room June 24. He took the names and ages of the five. He said McDonough was warned about keeping the back door open, but said nothing when his attention was called to it. Millington did not say to him that he didn't know he was obliged to keep his back door closed. In McDonough's place two women came in while the witness was there by the back door.

James A. Coughlin and B. F. Mitchell, the other two members of the license board, took the stand, but offered no additional testimony.

Lena Smith, Annie and Nora Arnold, aged 22, 18 and 21 respectively, testified to being in Millington's rear room when the licensing board called. Lena Smith testified to drinking two glasses of ale. One of the men with them bought the drinks, but she didn't know his name. The Arnold girls claimed they had soft drinks served to them.

Col. Sweeney and John J. Donovan, counsel for the defendants, argued that inasmuch as the licenses were not filled in with the number of entrances their clients could not be found guilty for maintaining a rear door.

Judge Mahoney read from the statute which says in substance that when a door other than one on a public thoroughfare is opened, the license of the saloon becomes void. The back doors of these places, the judge stated, are on an alley, and he found both defendants guilty. They were fined $75 each. An appeal was taken and sureties of $300 furnished for their appearance in high court.

NECK BROKEN

MAN JUMPED FROM CAR AND WAS INSTANTLY KILLED.

BOSTON, July 25.—On the 8 o'clock car from East Weymouth to Quincy last evening a man, as yet not entirely identified, but who is believed to be E. M. Bond, a chauffeur, jumped from the front seat and was instantly killed, near the high school building in Middle street, Weymouth.

The man, it is said, gave no warning that he wished to leave the car. His neck was broken at the base of the skull and his right hand bruised. He also sustained a bad gash upon the back of his head.

THE STATE BOARD

Officials of Middlesex No. Society Attend

The state board of agriculture held a meeting at the New American house last evening. Reports for the last six months were read, and the report of the chief of the cattle bureau, Austin Peters, was read and accepted. The report was quite an interesting one. That part of the report of most interest to Lowell read as follows:

The principal new feature of the work for the first half of the year has been the unusual prevalence of rabies. There has been very little hydrophobia occurring among dogs in Massachusetts for the last few years, until last winter and spring. The chief outbreak has been at Lowell, where quite a number of cases have occurred. Twenty-four cases have been reported from Lowell, many of them positive. There has also been a case in Somerville, one in Auburndale which came from Pennsylvania, and one in Milton. In Lowell a dog bit two members of one family, a man and his daughter. Both went to New York to take the Pasteur treatment furnished by the New York city board of health, but since returning home first the woman and then the man died of the rabies, having been so badly bitten that the Pasteur preventive treatment was not sufficient to save their lives.

The Lowell police have been very active this spring in killing all stray-ownerless and unlicensed dogs. They have killed several hundred of such animals, and their efforts have undoubtedly contributed to the suppression of the disease.

The last of March the situation in Lowell seemed to be so threatening that a notice was sent to the inspectors of animals in Lowell and surrounding towns and posted in prominent places.

As a result of the efforts of the police authorities and the inspectors of animals in these towns there has been a decrease in the number of cases reported, and as the cattle bureau has not been notified of any new cases in Lowell or vicinity for the seven weeks ending July 24, it is hoped that the outbreak here has been suppressed.

The members of the board present at the meeting were: Warren C. Jewett, Worcester; J. Lewis Ellsworth, secretary of the board; Austin Peters, M. R. C. V. S., chief of the cattle bureau; Alfred Akerman, state Forester; J. J. Mason, Amesbury; William A. Lane, Norton; E. P. Williams, Ashfield; O. E. Bradway, Monson; John M. Danforth, Lynnfield; John S. Anderson, Shelburne; Henry E. Paige, Amherst; J. F. Burt, Easthampton; Henry S. Pease, Middlefield; Ralph M. Porter, Cummington; Charles H. Shaylor, Lee; Henry A. Turner, Norwell; H. S. Perham, Chelmsford; H. G. Worth, Nantucket; W. M. Wellington, Oxford; Augustus Pratt, North Middleborough; Albert H. Nye, Blandford; Quincy L. Reed, South Weymouth; Walter D. Ross, Worcester; W. A. Kilbourn, South Lancaster; Albert Ellsworth, Athol; C. D. Richardson, West Brookfield.

Among others present were Prof. Waugh and Prof. Brooks of the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst; Prof. Wheeler, of the Rhode Island Agricultural College; Prof. W. H. Caldwell, secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle club, Peterboro, N. H.; C. I. Hood, Julian Hood, and A. H. Cluer, J. A. Weinbeck and Andrew Liddell, president, treasurer and secretary of the Middlesex North Agricultural society.

NARROW ESCAPE

OF BOY WHO FELL FROM BUILDING.

George Lavallee, aged five years and living in a tenement block in Aiken street, had a narrow escape from being killed yesterday afternoon. He fell from the third story of the building in which he lives and miraculously escaped with his life.

At the time of the accident the boy was trying to climb from the window to the roof of the building when he slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of nearly thirty feet. The most serious result was a sprained ankle.

Late yesterday afternoon the ambulance was called to the Merrimack Piano Stool Co. where John Johnson, an employee, had caught his hand in a planing machine. He was removed to the Emergency hospital where it was found necessary to remove one of the fingers.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A well attended meeting of Gen. Adelbert Ames command, Spanish War Veterans, was held last night in Memorial hall. The trip to Taunton next month was discussed at some length and it is probable that another meeting will be held before the command decides to go. The next regular meeting will be held in September.

Phoenix, No. 4, O. S. B., held a short business session, after which an ice cream party was held at the home of Lady Campos. There was a good attendance and quite a sum was raised. The committee in charge is to be congratulated on the success of the first social of this new lodge.

BILLERICA

Miss Hattie P. Truell, who has been a teacher at the Howe school, has successfully undergone an operation for appendicitis at the Worcester Memorial hospital. She has resigned her position at the Howe school and will study during the coming year in the women's training department of the Hartford theological seminary.

Miss Truell's successor will be Miss Florence Waddington of Cambridge. She has received the degrees of A. B. and A. M. from Radcliffe college, and during the past two years has taught in the Somerville evening schools.

BUTLER WEDDING

Paul Butler Married at Lucerne, Switzerland

PAUL BUTLER.

Bride's Uncle Speaks of the Event--Bride Made Money in Mining -- Tinge of Romance Over the Affair

Cards were mailed last night by Gen. and Mrs. Adelbert Ames, announcing the marriage at Lucerne, Switzerland, Friday, the 21st, of Miss Joanna Handy Barstow to their brother, Paul Butler of this city.

The home of the bride is at Mattapoisett. Mr. Butler is treasurer of the United States Cartridge company, and is interested in the United States Bunting company of this city and numerous other business concerns, being the oldest son of the late Gen. Butler.

While the announcement made last night has been the occasion of great surprise to friends of the Butler family in this city, it was neither sudden nor secret within the membership of the latter. The acquaintanceship of the couple has extended over many years and the engagement several months. The selection of the place for marriage was, however, characteristic, it is said, of both, with the view of avoiding the elaborate arrangements that might necessarily attend a wedding at the home of either.

The wedding, it is understood, was originally planned to take place in Paris, but the location was changed by reason of incompatible requirements of the French marriage laws, chiefly in point of length of residence required.

The family of the groom and all his friends express themselves as delighted.

Since the death of his father, a dozen years ago, the house in Andover street has been the home also of Gen. Adelbert Ames and Mrs. Blanche (Butler) Ames, the sister of Mr. Butler, and their children. Three of the daughters of Gen. and Mrs. Ames—Mrs. Brooks Stevens of Lowell, Mrs. Spencer Borden of Fall River and Mrs. Oakes Ames of Easton—have left the family circle, and during the congressional session the remainder of the family has been in Washington with the Hon. Butler Ames, member of congress from the 5th district. Mr. Butler has thus been left much alone in the fine old house, and the prospect of a new mistress there is one of pleasurable anticipation to his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will, it is understood, remain in Europe during August and return to Lowell early in September.

GROOM IS WEALTHY.

Paul Butler is the only surviving son of the late Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, and, though 50 years of age, had not married. He is largely interested in the United States Cartridge company, and to a less extent in other manufacturing industries. While a sportsman and a man well travelled, he has had a busy life.

Though now more of a retired gentleman of wealth, given to travelling much, he has been widely known as a champion canoeist and a promoter of sport in canoes. He was of delicate physique as a boy and was kept much in the open air, finally confining his attention to canoes, and particularly to the sailing types. Among other things he invented the sliding seat for sailing canoes. He built his own canoes, experimenting much with models.

In 1885, the year of his graduation from Harvard, he, with his brother Ben, built the Vesper Boat Club house of this city, for many years a centre of aquatic sport. He won about 50 races, many of them championship events.

All outdoor sports were his field more or less, and the series of sportsmen's shows in the Mechanics' building owed their success very largely to Mr. Butler's interest and support.

After Gen. Butler's death, the famous yacht America fell to the sons of the general, and Paul was the one who made the most use of the craft. He used it mostly for cruising, but entered in some races.

HONOR TO FAMILY.

Hon. Butler Ames was seen last night at his summer home at the old Gen. B. F. Butler house, Bay View, relative to the marriage of Paul Butler and Miss Annie Barstow of Mattapoisett at Lucerne.

The congressman was asked if he had known of Mr. Butler's matrimonial intentions. He replied that he had. When asked relative to the difficulties in Paris which Mr. Butler encountered regarding his marriage Mr. Ames replied:

"He intended to be married in Paris, but owing to the peculiarity of the French law in regard to the marriage of foreigners they found marriage to be impossible in the French capital. You knew that Chauncey Depew attempted to be married in Paris and had to go to Switzerland."

"How old is Mr. Butler?"

"Mr. Butler is about 50 years old."

"Have you ever met Miss Barstow?"

"Yes, I have met her."

"How old would you judge her to be?"

"She is a very charming lady," replied the congressman, "but I would never venture to make any statement relative to a lady's age."

Continuing he said: "We knew that Mr. Butler and Miss Barstow were to be married, because we had telegraphic information on the subject. They were married on the 21st of this month, and we sent out cards. We expect them home some time next month."

Mr. Ames says Mr. Butler announced his approaching marriage about a month ago to the family, when both sailed for Europe on different steamers. Miss Barstow went under the chaperonage of a lady whose name he could not recall. He was unable to furnish any particulars of her family, nor had he any extended acquaintance with the bride.

SURPRISE FELT

IN MATTAPOISETT, THE HOME OF BRIDE.

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—A marriage abroad with a tinge of romance to it, the news of which reached Mattapoisett yesterday afternoon, furnished a subject of discussion for the many society people of the large cities summering here.

The news that Paul Butler, son of Gen. B. F. Butler, a prominent member of several of the large yacht clubs of the country and an authority on yachting matters, as well as a man of inventive genius, had married in Lucerne, Switzerland, Miss Anna H. Barstow of Mattapoisett.

Miss Barstow has not lived in Mattapoisett for about 20 years. The story of her career is best told in the words of her uncle, Abraham L. Paine of Mattapoisett, who was seen yesterday afternoon.

"Didn't know Anna was married. She went away abroad about Memorial day, accompanied by my wife, and the last I heard from them they were in Paris about two weeks ago, where Mrs. Paine was ill.

"She went to Boston, took a suite in a fashionable quarter of the city and enjoyed life. I have visited her at her Boston home and she entertained in a lavish manner. She visited her mother in Mattapoisett once a year, generally about Memorial day, spending only several days with her, and then she would be off to some of the fashionable seashore resorts. Prepossessing looking, and a stylish dresser, Anna had no trouble making friends wherever she went.

"Anna didn't come to Mattapoisett this year, but just before Memorial day she sent word down to my wife that she would like to have her make a trip abroad, and my wife hurried and got ready, and went.

"I heard nothing of Paul Butler being with Anna. Possibly she met him abroad. I know nothing of that part of the trip.

"Anna must be about 35 years old. I always thought she would get along all right. From Boston she went to Philadelphia, where she was for years housekeeper for an unmarried rich Philadelphian, who, when he died, left Anna a big bunch of money. As he invested the money in some kind of mine, and in a short time the investment returned her three or four times the original amount and made her independent.

"Surprised? Yes, I am, but I have heard Anna say that if she ever married she thought she would have that young Butler, because she liked him. But she has frequently told me that she didn't think she would ever marry.

"Anna, or she was first named Johanna Handy Barstow, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Hammond and the late James H. Barstow. The father was a sea faring man and followed the whaling business for a great many years, and finally gave up the sea to reside in Mattapoisett to take charge of a large estate here. His daughter Anna, after receiving a grammar school education, went to Nantasket beach, where she worked in a hotel, and from there to Boston.

"Anna was a lively and vivacious girl and dressed well. She was stylish even in her younger days, and Mrs. Barstow was left some money by her husband and she boarded with Mrs. Shaw on North street."

AT THE SHRINE

Bay State Pilgrims Begin Devotions

STE ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que., July 25—Three hundred pilgrims from Boston and Somerville, under the personal direction of Rev. E. F. Saunders, curate of St. Ann's church, Somerville, arrived here yesterday morning at 11 by special train.

The pilgrims are on a three days' visit of devotion to the famous shrine of Ste Anne. They had a very pleasant trip, thanks to the able management of Fr. Saunders, assisted by Edward Monaghan and Neil Ahearn.

Immediately on arriving the party left the train in which they had sat for 22 hours and walked to the recently erected basilica, built in honor of the Mother of the Blessed Virgin, and heard mass.

They next were escorted to their lodging places. After dinner the pilgrims performed acts of devotion until 4 o'clock, when they congregated in the old memorial chapel for prayer, followed by an interesting sermon by Rev. Fr. Daly, CSSR, of the Redemptorist fathers in charge of the shrine.

In the evening the pilgrims congregated in the basilica, where they again listened to an interesting sermon on the life and virtues of Ste Anne and the duty of Catholics toward the Lord.

Those of the women visitors who are housed in the convent are very comfortably situated, and the sisters in charge are indefatigable in their efforts to make them happy.

One of the attractions at the convent is an exhibition of needle work and lace embroidery, all done by the sisters. Included in the display are a number of church vestments, worken in white and red silk and gold, for the dioceses of Boston and San Francisco, which are marvels of delicate workmanship.

On behalf of the Lowell club Elmer E. Reed, who captured first prize, was presented with a fancy cigar cutter.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

The opera "Boccaccio" was presented at the Lakeview theatre last night before a small but very appreciative audience. The inclement weather kept a number away from the theatre, but the presentation was all that could be expected and is by far the best offering of the season.

The management of the theatre during Sunday had a portion of the sides taken down, making it an open-air theatre, a departure which will be welcomed by the large number of patrons. The work, however, is not completed at the present time, but by next week it is expected that both sides and back will be taken out.

BURNED TO DEATH

Children Perished in a Fire in Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—Two dead, two fatally burned, and three seriously injured, is the result of an explosion of a gasolene stove early today, at the home of Levi Titus, a Kosher butcher, No. 2225 Wood Alley, Braddock.

The dead:—
HARRY TITUS, aged 7 years.
MEYER TITUS, aged 7 years.
Fatally burned:—
MRS. SARAH TITUS, the mother.
ELSIE TITUS, aged 3 years.
Seriously injured:—
LEVI TITUS, the father.
GOLDIE TITUS, aged 18 years.
RAY TITUS, aged 16 years.
The dead children were twins.

The explosion was caused by the overturning of a gasolene stove on which Mrs. Titus was preparing breakfast. The burning fluid was scattered over the room, enveloping Mrs. Titus and igniting a five gallon can of oil, standing on the rear porch near the door.

A second explosion followed and in a few minutes the entire house was in flames. The twins were suffocated on the second floor, where with the other children, they were asleep. The father rescued the other three children and as he assisted the last one to the window he fell to the floor overcome by smoke. He was taken out unconscious by the firemen, who also rescued Mrs. Titus after she had been terribly burned.

AT OLD ORCHARD

Fire in Hotel Threatened Ten Lives

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 25.—Ten female employes of the Old Orchard house were placed in a perilous position today and given a bad fright by an inconsequential fire in the hotel annex, originating from a defective chimney. The only exit from the second story in which they were at the time, was cut off by dense smoke and they were nearly in a panic before the blaze was extinguished and the smoke cleared away. Clothing and other personal effects were thrown from the windows, ladders were hurried to the scene to remove the employes, but it did not become necessary to use them. No one was injured and the damage was only $500.

HAVE FEVER

SEVERAL OF NORWEGIAN STEAMER'S CREW HELD UP.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Norwegian sugar laden steamer Avona which arrived last night at quarantine from Caibarien, Cuba, was inspected and disinfected before being released by the health officer today. The Avona had called at Colon before proceeding to Caibarien, Cuba. Consequently on reaching quarantine her crew was mustered and closely inspected. Three members of the crew, a fireman, sailor and the ship's cook were removed to Hoffman Island for observation suffering from malarial fever. Two others, who showed high temperature, also were transferred to the island. The steamer then was released.

QUIET DAY

NO OFFICIAL VISITORS TO SAGAMORE HILL.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 25.—This was one of the quietest days President Roosevelt has had since his arrival at Sagamore Hill for the summer. Comparatively little executive business was brought to his attention and no official visitors at all were received.

Although Secretary Root is not in Washington the affairs of the department of state are now under his direction, and all matters relating to that department are being referred by the president to him. These include the arrangements for the formal reception for the Russian and Japanese peace envoys. When the details of these arrangements shall have been worked out by the state department, in connection with the navy department they will be communicated to the president for his approval.

The president practically has finished the preparations for the addresses he expects to deliver at Wilkesbarre, Pa., and Chautauqua, N. Y., on the tenth and eleventh of August respectively.

SEVERE TRIP

THE WOOD PILE RAN INTO ROUGH WEATHER.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 25.—The log of the motor boat Wood Pile, which was the fifth o fthose in the race from New York to this port to arrive, shows that, like the other boats, she had a severe experience. The Wood Pile was compelled to stop on Sunday on account of the dirt in her engine. Resuming, she got as far as Cuttyhunk, where, finding the sea too rough for her progress, Mr. Lincoln, her captain, signalled the lightship and with his crew was taken aboard, where the night was passed. They started again at 7.30 Monday morning. During the forenoon they put in at Cottage City for gasolene and the further run was made to this port without unusual incident. The Wood Pile arrived here at 2.48 a. m. Her elapsed time was 62 hours and 48 minutes. With her time allowance of six hours 20 minutes 11 seconds, her corrected time was 56 hours 27 minutes 49 seconds.

BARON KOMURA

Japanese Peace Envoy in New York

BAND PLAYED NATIONAL AIR

Was Greeted by Japanese Merchants

NEW YORK, July 25.—Baron Komura, the Japanese peace plenipotentiary, arrived on the fast train from Chicago, over the Pennsylvania road at 9.25 today. At the Jersey City station, to greet him, were about forty Japanese merchants. There was no demonstration at Jersey City, but when the ferry boat reached the foot of Twenty-third street, a hundred or more Japanese in the city greeted the baron and his suite with cheers while a brass band played the Japanese national air.

There were no banzais, but the plain American cheer as the baron with Consul General Uchida and two of his suite entered a carriage and were driven to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

H. Denuison, an American, who is attached to the Japanese foreign office and has been in Japan for 35 years, is with the party. Mr. Denuison says he has no official capacity with the peace delegation. The party was met at Philadelphia by Consul General Uchida. Minister Takahira remained in this city. Mr. Sato, who is the chief of staff, said to an Associated Press representative that there was no program prepared for the baron and he did not know what would be done from day to day until he had met Minister Takahira. Mr. Sato said it would not be necessary for any of the party to go to Washington, since the president is at Oyster Bay and that they would await the president's pleasure as to their plans.

"The baron will rest a few days," said Mr. Sato, "his journey having been quite an extended one. He is in good health but needs a little rest after travelling so far. We have travelled every day since he landed in this country, arriving in cities early in the day and getting out in the evening. We stopped not longer than six hours at any one place.

LIVED IN TRUNK

Police Discover Unusual Case of Poverty

WHEREIN A SIX YEAR OLD LAD

Was Left to Shift for Himself

NEW YORK, July 25—An unusual case of poverty and neglect, has been uncovered by a policeman on duty in Tenth avenue. The blue-coat rescued six-year-old John Mulqueen after the lad had made his home for two months in a trunk and subsisted largely on scraps snatched from garbage cans. The little fellow was timid as a bird after his pitiful struggle with the world.

Mrs. Mulqueen, died six months ago and the boy's father disappeared, leaving John to the care of a neighbor. The building where the latter lived, was condemned two months ago and she moved away leaving the child behind. He sought out the house where his mother died and found an old trunk in the alley in which he formerly had played.

Neighbors saw the youngster crawling in and out but he fled when they approached. They placed food near the trunk and the boy ate it. The story finally reached the police and the young outcast was found nestling in a pile of old clothing and broken toys which he had gathered in the alleys.

NOT SURPRISED

Patrick Says He Expected a Stay

NEW YORK, July 25.—The notice of a stay of execution of the death penalty on the order granted by Judge O'Brien yesterday to Albert Patrick, under sentence of death for the murder of the aged millionaire William Marsh Rice, was not served until today on the lawyer who was waiting in prison ready to die in a few weeks. Mr. Patrick laughed when the news was given him and said:

"I knew it would come. It is only what I expected."

He expressed confidence that in a short time more he would secure a new trial and ultimately his freedom. Patrick himself drew up the papers, which were so timely in saving his life. The stay granted him is until October 2, to allow time for a motion for a re-argument of the case. Ex-Senator David B. Hill is Patrick's counsel.

WOUND IN HEAD

Prominent Broker Was Found Dead

NEW YORK, July 25.—Otto Bernheimer, a member of Bernheimer and Walter, cotton brokers of this city, and reputed to be wealthy, died today in his apartments in the Hotel Seville. Bernheimer was found in his apartments lying in front of a full length mirror and expiring from a bullet wound in the temple.

Apparently the shot had just been fired, but no one could be found in the fashionable hotel who heard the report. The suicide left no explanation of his act and his three brothers say that he had every reason to wish to live, so far as they know. Bernheimer was 35 years old.

KILLED HERSELF

Wife of Wall Street Broker a Suicide

NEW YORK, July 25.—Within five minutes from the time that Charles Marshall, a Wall street banker, left his wife apparently sleeping soundly in bed today, the woman wrote her husband a note telling him not to let the world blame him for what was going to happen and shot herself. She was unconscious before Mr. Marshall could reach her bedside from another room and she died in a short time.

Mrs. Marshall was formerly Miss Grace Sturr and is highly connected in local circles. No cause for her act has been discovered. The tragedy occurred in the Raleigh, a fashionable family apartment hotel overlooking Central Park.

YELLOW FEVER

MANY MORE CASES SUSPECTED IN NEW ORLEANS.

WASHINGTON, July 25—A report received here today from Surgeon White, of the public health and marine hospital service, who is stationed at New Orleans and who under instructions of the acting surgeon general is engaged in an effort to determine yellow fever conditions in that city, says that the city authorities concede 12 cases and eight deaths, but he adds that there probably are many more cases. Those so far observed are of a virulent type. Surgeon Wasdin, stationed at Memphis, who rendered signal service during the epidemic at Ocean Springs in 1897, has entered upon a careful inspection of conditions along the Gulf coast, from Mobile to Pass Christian, Miss., and Assistant Surgeon Young, has been ordered from Chicago to Jackson, Miss., to confer with the Mississippi health authorities relative to train inspection.

SOLDIERS WORK

TO PREVENT RIVER FROM OVERFLOWING ITS BANKS.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 25—Flood conditions had improved at Valdez according to despatches received yesterday at the local cable office, but the emergency occasioned by the high water still exists and an entire company of infantry was at work, repairing breaks in the dams and keeping the swollen Valdez river from overflowing the business section of the city.

On Sunday night there was a noticeable improvement but yesterday, the water started rising again and was breaking through the dam at various points. It was only by the utmost exertions that a general flood was prevented. At last reports the water was not getting any closer to the town and it was expected that the stream would be under control by this evening.

THE RICKSDAG

Hears Report of Special Committee

Terms of Dissolution Recommended

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 25.—The special committee appointed by the Ricksdag to deal with the crisis which created the revolution in Norway today delivered its report. The committee declares unanimously that the government bill cannot be adopted in the form in which it was presented to the Ricksdag and proposes that the Ricksdag shall signify its willingness to negotiate with Norway for a dissolution of the union, if the newly elected Storthing requests a repeal of the act of union and a dissolution of the union or if such request is received from Norway after the Norwegian people by a plebiscite have declared in favor of a dissolution of the union.

The committee recommends that in the event of a dissolution of the union, Sweden should insist on the following terms:

First, the establishment of a zone on each side of the frontier, separating the kingdoms within which the existing fortifications shall be raised and new fortifications may not be erected.

Second, the right of pasturing reindeer belonging to Swedish Lapplanders in North Norway.

Third, that the transit trade through both countries shall be secured against unjustifiable obstruction.

Fourth—that the status of Sweden in respect to foreign powers as established by treaty shall be clearly defined so that Sweden shall be completely freed from responsibility for Norway to other states.

The committee also regards an arbitration convention between Sweden and Norway desirable although it does not consider it an essential condition for the dissolution of the union.

The committee further proposes to authorize the government to raise a loan of $25,000,000 which can by a resolution of the Ricksdag be made available for such readjustments and arrangements as may be necessitated by the new conditions.

Regarding eventual negotiations with Norway the committee declares:

"Whatever demands be made for the welfare and dignity of Sweden as a condition of the repeal of the act of union on the part of Sweden and of the recognition of Norway must be claimed and adhered to with rigor and determination."

LIFE BOAT

CRUISED ABOUT TO FIND BODY OF MAN.

NEW YORK, July 25.—When the steamer Grosser Kurfurst, which sailed today for Bremen, was passing the quarantine station, she came to a stop suddenly, and a life boat was quickly lowered. The life boat cruised around for some time in the path through which the steamer had passed. If they were searching for a man who had jumped or fallen from the steamer, however, the quest was vain. An object, apparently a life buoy, was the only thing taken from the sea by the crew of the life boat before the little craft returned to the steamer.

SHIP BUILDING PLANT.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 25—It is reported that the Armstrongs of England are planning to erect a ship building plant at Riga on the Gulf of Riga, Russia.

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies
Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Lowell People.
As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.
Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.
Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.
Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Lowell cures are the proof.

A DARING ACT

Michael McDonough, the Market street sweeper who has a fine record for stopping runaway horses made a most daring stop in Market street this noon.

Undoubtedly his act saved both life and property for the frenzied animal having broken off a stone post in its flight was making for the sidewalk.

The horse was one of a double hitch attached to one of the big ice carts of the Crystal Lake ice company and it was left standing in front of Cahill's blacksmith shop while its mate was being shod.

The animal suddenly becoming frightened started down the street at a mad gallop and when at a point in front of Donovan's harness shop the wagon collided with a stone post with such force as to break off the post.

The horse then rushed along and was about to crash into E. A. McQuade's delivery wagon when Mr. McDonough, running in front of the animal struck it over the head with his big broom.

The force of the blow staggered the animal for a moment but before it could recover Mr. McDonough had dropped the broom and grabbed the bridle bringing the animal to a standstill. If he had missed his blow, it certainly would have been the finish of brave Michael, but he had a good eye and steady nerve and another good capture has been added to his record.

COAL TEAMSTERS

No Change Reported in Situation

LEATHER WORKERS ENDORSE STRIKE

Dealers Say Margin on Coal is Too Small

There is little or no change in the coal teamsters' and helpers' strike this morning. The strikers claim that they will stay out until their demands are granted and while some of the employers would willingly grant the demands if the rest would, the majority favors holding out as they claim that the present time is the dull season and the effect of a strike will not be the same as it would be during the cold months when business is rushing.

The Leather Workers' union, at a largely attended meeting last night, endorsed the strike of the coal teamsters, and promised moral and financial support. The members voted to "withhold their patronage from any and all coal dealers who refuse to comply with the request for an increase and to induce their friends to do likewise."

The strikers feel confident that their demand is a just one and that they are paid very small wages for the amount of work done, but on the other hand the employers claim that there is a margin of but 75 cents on a ton of coal and they cannot afford at the present time to grant the demand. Laforest Beals stated yesterday the wholesalers are putting an increase of 10 per cent. on the retail dealers every month.

Some of the dealers have hired "green hands" to unload cars standing on their tracks, E. A. Wilson & Co., having about 15 men who are unloading 20 of their cars.

It was noticed this morning that some of the dealers who had small rush orders sent the coal out in express wagons.

This afternoon the press committee of the teamsters gave out the following statement: "There is no change in the strike situation. We have succeeded in pulling away several green hands from their jobs, and we have the support and sympathy of the state branch of the Federation of Labor and the different local unions. We hold meetings twice each day and receive reports on conditions in the different yards. We succeeded in getting eleven more men to quit work today."

This afternoon shortly after one o'clock several of E. A. Wilson & Co.'s coal teams, laden with cement were passing through Broadway when some of the striking teamsters stopped the horses. Whether their mission was a peaceful one or not is not known for in the vicinity at the time was a police officer in citizen's clothes who stepped into the street and warned the men to take their hands off the horses. The men did as they were told.

WHO WANTS IT?

Franchise For the Debts Owed

CHANCE TO OWN A BALL TEAM

It Will Cost You About $1500

The directors of the New England league met this noon at the American House, in this city for the purpose of discussing the local baseball situation. The meeting was behind closed doors and was quite brief.

There were present Sec. Morse, Fred Doe of New Bedford, Manager Ray of Concord, N. H. and Former Manager Mack and Manager Burns of the Lowell team. Manager Freeman of the Lawrence team was unable to be present but sent word authorizing Mr. Doe to act for him.

After the meeting Secretary Morse said to the reporters: "The directors simply discussed the situation without taking any action for action was deferred until next Saturday. The franchise is open for any local party who wishes to take it by paying off the present debts which amount to about $1500. I think it is a good opportunity for some one to get the franchise in this manner. Another city wants the franchise in case no Lowell parties take it but the league directors would rather see it remain here."

At the meeting Mr. Doe said that Captain Connors of the Lowell team had informed him that he had a man who would take the team for the remainder of the season but he would not assume the debts.

THE LAST WEEK.

The Bon Marche Dry Goods Co. have introduced quite a new idea in this city in making their studio better known to the public. The firm wishes to make a special offer in that department. About two weeks ago they engaged Mr. F. Lindsley of Brooklyn, N. Y., and his demonstrators to introduce here the methods now being used in the large department stores throughout the country. Mr. Lindsley stands near the main entrance in their store demonstrating their work and selling a ticket for 25c, which entitles the holder to six large size cabinet photos and one 11x14 enlargement for $1.48. No extra charge for groups. All work fully guaranteed by the Bon Marche Dry Goods Co. to give satisfaction to every holder of said ticket. This will be the last week that these tickets can be had, and there is no doubt a great many people will want the offer after it is all over. The work they are giving for $1.73 cost ordinarily about $5.00. The tickets hold good until used and can be had only of Mr. Lindsley or his demonstrators. See the display at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets every evening this week.

INNINGS 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

N. Bedford 0 0 0 1 2 0 1 0 2 -- 6

The Lowell team took a new lease of baseball life today and with "Billy" Connors at the head of the team and clothed with full power faced the doughty Doeites of New Bedford. After the meeting of the directors of the New England league in this city this noon "Billy" Connors was given control of the team as he had informed the directors that he had a man who stands ready to handle the team and who is able to meet financial obligations.

The players were perfectly satisfied with the arrangement and they have full confidence in Connors. Sullivan was unable to play owing to the injury to his finger and Grant played first. Bennett, a new man from the Wellingtons, was sent in at shortstop for Lowell. Doe had Varney, the old Nashua pitcher, in the box for the Whalers, and he made a good showing. Umpire O'Brien handled the indicator and called the game at 3.15.

FIRST INNING.

Coveney flied out to Tierney and Kavanaugh struck out. Mullaney hit to left field for two bases but Valdois closed the inning by striking out.

Lowell drew a blank. Tierney was out on a fly to Kavanaugh and "Billy" Connors sent an easy fly to Murphy. Murphy took care of Bigbie's grounder throwing him out at first.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 0.

SECOND INNING.

Burrill sent up a high fly that O. Jackson took care of. "Billy" Connors speeded after Kehoe's fly ball and nailed it and Bigbie retired the side by making a pretty catch off Murphy's long drive.

Lowell also failed to score in this inning.

J. Jackson was a victim of Varney's curves, and O. Jackson turned out a slow one by second base that was good for a single. Houghton fanned and Grant foul flied to Coveney.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 0.

THIRD INNING.

For New Bedford Dwyer got a life on a hot grounder towards first base. Varney tried hard to advance him but was unable to fathom Bushey's curves and was out on strikes.

Coveney hit a hot one to Connors who made a pretty pick-up and sent the ball to Grant in time to catch the runner.

Kavanaugh was third out on a hot grounder to Grant.

For Lowell, Bennett sent a fly to deep left field that Mullaney nailed after a hard run. Bushey could do nothing with Varney's delivery and a "K" was registered opposite his name.

Tierney drove a hot one by Varney that was classed as a single and Manager Connors sent him to third with a beauty drive to right field. On the first pitched ball Connors stole second. It was up to Bigbie to do something and though he tried hard the best he could do was a drive to Murphy which the latter fielded to first in time to catch the speedy Lowell man.

Score—Lowell 0, New Bedford 0.

FOURTH INNING.

For New Bedford Mullaney walked to first after he had failed to dodge one of Bushey's swift ones that caught him in the ribs. A moment later he took second on Valdois' neat sacrifice. Burrill drove a hot one through short stop. Bennett and Mullaney trotted home with the first tally of the game. Kehoe popped a fly that landed in Connors' mitt.

Burrill got gay and tried to steal march on O. Jackson. When he started to purloin the second bag the Lowell catcher nailed him so neatly that J. Jackson could have put handcuffs and twisters on him before he reached the canvas.

For Lowell J. Jackson hit a ball that struck a few feet in front of the plate and rolled to one side. Burrill snapped it to first and Jackson was called out.

O. Jackson drove a slinger to right that no one could reach and he was safe at the first corner. Varney kept a sharp eye on Jackson and finally caught him off first. The visiting pitcher tossed the ball to Burrill and Jackson seeing he could not get back to first started for second. He was run down between the bases and finally tagged out.

Houghton struck out and Lowell took to the field once more.

Score—New Bedford 1, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Murphy hit to Bennett who made a fine stop but threw bad to first and Murphy was safe. Murphy then made a start for second and O. Jackson made a pretty throw to Bennett who was covering the base. Bennett had Murphy caught by a mile but he dropped the ball. Dwyer sacrificed and Murphy went to third. Varney was given a free pass and then Coveney faced Bushey. The Lowell pitcher had the visitor in the box for two strikes and then sent an easy one over the plate that Coveney lambasted for a single and Murphy scored. Kavanaugh drove a hard one to left for a single and the bases were filled. Mullaney drove a liner at Grant that the latter could not avoid. It struck his glove and turned him completely around. By clever fielding he managed to catch the runner. Varney scored on the play. Valdois drove a high fly to left that Tierney took care of.

In Lowell's half Grant flied out to Dwyer, and Bennett duplicated to Burrill. Valdois made a mess of Bushey's hit. He tried to make a one hand pick-up and the ball got away from him. Bushey was safe at first. Tierney sent him to third with a pretty drive to right field that was good for two bases. The fans called for Connors to send the men over the plate but the best he could do was a fly to Murphy at short and once more Lowell had two men left on bases.

Score—New Bedford 3, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

O. Jackson made a difficult running catch of Burrill's high foul fly and won the applause of the spectators. Kehoe drove a daudy to right field that was good for two bases. Murphy struck out and Bennett handled Dwyer's grounder in clever style and threw him out at first.

In Lowell's half pitcher Varney could not fool Bigbie and the Lowell man trotted to first on a free pass.

Varney's twisters puzzled J. Jackson and he was out on strikes. O. Jackson hit a slow one to Valdois forcing Bigbie at second. Houghton was a patient waiter and walked to first when four bad balls were called. Grant was the third out on a fly to Kavanaugh.

Score—New Bedford 3, Lowell 0.

SEVENTH INNING.

Varney opened the seventh with a fly to left that Bigbie corralled. Coveney picked out one to his liking and sent it hiking to the left field fence with a two-base tag on it. Coveney trotted home a moment later on Kavanaugh's single to right. Mullaney also placed a safe one in the right garden. Valdois drove one over Grant's head that had all the earmarks of a single. Grant jumped for the ball, got it in his gloved hand and put out the runner. Burrill sent a grounder to J. Jackson and was easily thrown out at first.

In Lowell's half Bennett caught one of Varney's high shoots and drove it over second for a single. Bushey placed another safe one in the same place. Both men were advanced by a wild pitch. Tierney drove one at Murphy who made a nice return of the ball to the plate in time to catch Bennett. Bushey went to third on the play and Tierney stole second on the first ball pitched. Connors after hitting out a number of fouls, "fanned." Bigbie flied out to Mullaney, leaving Bushey and Tierney on third and second respectively.

Score—New Bedford 4, Lowell 0.

EIGHTH INNING.

Kehoe foul flied to Connors. Murphy's grounder was cared for by Bennett, who retired the runner at first. Dwyer sent up a fly to J. Jackson that the latter captured.

Valdois made a bad throw after picking up J. Jackson's grounder and the latter was safe at first. O. Jackson singled over second base. Houghton foul flied out to Coveney. Grant struck out. Bennett flied out.

Score—New Bedford 4, Lowell 0.

NINTH INNING.

Varney opened the ninth by striking out. Coveney drove a liner to left field and reached second. Kavanaugh caught one of Bushney's inshoots on the neck and walked to first. Mullaney hit to J. Jackson forcing Kavanaugh at second. Mullaney then stole second. Coveney and Mullaney then scored on Valdois' single.

Valdois then tried to steal second and was thrown out.

Bushey singled to centre field. Tierney flied out to Valdois. Connors singled to center field. Bigbie drove a two bagger to right field and Bushey scored. J. Jackson was out on a foul fly. O. Jackson hit to Valdois and was out at first.

BURNED TO GROUND

House and Barn Destroyed in North Tewksbury

One of the worst fires in the history of the town of Tewksbury occurred this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock and an hour later the house, barn and outbuildings of the Fuller estate in North Tewksbury, near the church, were nothing but a smouldering pile of ruins. The exact loss could not be learned at the time of going to press, but it is estimated that it will be in the vicinity of $10,000.

The estate is owned by Mrs. Lorenzo Fuller and is occupied by J. T. Fuller and family, and is on the main road leading through North Tewksbury and situated close to the Baptist church.

The house was a very large and roomy one, two and one-half stories high and had all of the modern improvements, it being one of the best houses in that section of the town. The barn in the rear of the house was a very large one and was connected to the house by means of a shed. The fact that the buildings were connected was without doubt the cause of the disastrous result.

Shortly after three o'clock a fire broke out in the shed and communicated to the main house and the barn. Several extinguishers were on hand but the flames had gained such headway that it was impossible to stay their progress with the extinguishers. Word was immediately telephoned to the central fire station in this city and Chief Hosmer despatched his assistant, Mr. Norton, and the chemical from the central fire station to the scene, but when they arrived there was no chance to save any of the buildings. Several hose wagons would have been sent from this city but for the fact that there was no chance to draw water and it would have been a needless run for the horses.

Owing to the age of the house and the dryness of the timbers both the house and barn proved easy prey for the flames.

Neighbors in the vicinity did all in their power to assist in the removing of furniture from the house and succeeded in removing the greater part of it. They also did good work in releasing the several horses in the stable and succeeded in getting out a number of the carriages and wagons.

There were however large quantities of hay and other things in the barn which were destroyed and a portion of the furniture in the house was burned. About 200 pigeons were burned.

When the chemical arrived on the scene it was found that little or nothing could be done, and while the stream was directed on the house the fire had burned so long that the chemical had little or no effect.

At the time of going to press the cause of the fire had not been learned.

WEAVERS ON STRIKE

Forty Portuguese weavers at the Appleton Mfg. Co. went on strike this morning because they could not get an increase of two cents a cut on new goods which they were to weave.

This morning there was a change on the looms from colored to plain sheeting such as used for the Chinese trade and when the change was made the weavers were notified that they would get 18 cents per cut, but they demanded 20 cents a cut, and when it was not granted they quit work and left the mill, causing the idleness of about 240 looms.

A representative of The Sun called on Supt. Bowen, and the latter said: "This is the dull season of the year for colored goods and as there were no orders on hand we placed the plain white sheeting such as is made in the southern mills for the Chinese trade on the looms in order to give the weavers work.

"We offered to pay them 18 cents per cut, which is the same as is paid in every mill in the city where this class of goods is woven. The weavers asked for two cents more and in view of the fact that there is very little profit on the goods and also that we were running the goods more for the accommodation of the weavers than anything else, we could not grant the increase."

A SAD ACCIDENT

Former Lowell Man Fell to His Death

The simple despatch in yesterday's Sun to the effect that James Gallagher had been killed by the breaking of a plank which he was using, with the assistance of two workmen, as a pry to shove along a pile driver at Flushing, Long Island, yesterday, failed to state that the deceased was a former well known and highly respected resident of this city, who, of late years, had resided with his family in Lawrence.

The deceased was well known in this city and the sad news of his untimely death came as a sudden shock to his relatives and many friends.

As a result of the accident, Mr. Gallagher was precipitated over an embankment down upon a bed rock 20 feet below and sustained injuries which caused his death a few hours later. His companions were both seriously injured and were removed to the Long Island hospital, where they are now in a critical condition.

Mr. Gallagher was 39 years of age and was a stone mason by trade, and during his residence in this city was employed by William H. Ward, Luther Kittredge and Son and other big contractors. He moved to Lawrence two years ago, where he continued to work at his trade. About three weeks ago he engaged with Contractor P. Cassidy of this city to superintend the construction of a new stone bridge at Flushing, and he went to that place immediately.

He leaves a widow and five children in Lawrence, a widowed mother, three sisters and three brothers in Lowell. Thomas J. Gallagher of the J. C. Ayer Co., who has been identified with ward six democratic politics for several years is one of the three brothers, also Charles and Patrick.

Mr. Gallagher wired to Contractor Cassidy yesterday afternoon, as soon as he was apprised of his brother's death, for details of the accident. He learned that his brother did not die until two hours after the accident, and that the last rites of the Catholic church were administered to him before death.

The body will be forwarded from Flushing today to Lawrence where the funeral will take place.

Admiral Clark, who was captain of the Oregon during the historic dash around Cape Horn, during the Spanish war, interceded for Totterman and strong pressure was brought to bear in his behalf by the congressional committee on naval affairs and the Swedish minister. Hermidas A. Laverie, aged 41 years, was the third missing individual. Hermidas left his home and his wife and three children, at Tucker street, July 14.

He was of a melancholy tendency of mind and frequently talked of committing suicide. His wife believes he may have carried out his threats.

He was five feet, three inches in height and of a stout build. His complexion was dark and he had a black moustache. He wore when last seen a light coat, black trousers and a black stiff hat.

John O'Loughlin, aged 20 years, of 14 Elm street, has not been seen since Saturday, July 15. He returned from his work in the Waterhead mills and gave his pay to his relatives and then went out and has not been seen since. O'Loughlin came to this country from Ireland last August. He had often expressed himself as being dissatisfied with America and many times said he was home sick. He longed for the home land, and his parents believe he may have crossed the ocean on a cattle boat. When last seen he wor a dark blue suit. He was about 5 feet and 6 inches in height and weighed 150 pounds. He was dark complexioned.

DIAMOND RING

MAN FOUND IT IN A FISH.

WARE, July 25—"Polski ple Kaz," yelled Michel Straczkaz, a Water street Polander, when he opened a sucker he had caught in the Ware river yesterday.

In the fish's stomach was a cluster diamond ring containing nine stones, which was later pronounced by an expert to be worth at least $150.

Michel did not know the value of the ring and was showing it to a crowd of people in Nenemereck square, when Charles G. Slater came along.

Mr. Slater belongs in Hartford, Conn., where there are more diamonds than in Ware, and he offered the Pole $15 for the ring.

Straczkaz clutched Slater with one hand and held out the ring with the other, and the trade was made.

Mr. Slater hunted up Paul Satz, a local jeweler, and had him examine the ring. He said it was worth at least $150 and that it probably cost $200 when new.

It is a lady's ring of beautiful design and there is considerable speculation as to where it originally came from.

The local police say there has been no report made for years of any jewelry of that description having been lost and they believe it was probably picked up by the fish somewhere in the Connecticut river, into which the Ware river flows. The ring appears to be none the worse for its stay in the fish's stomach and after being cleaned looked like new.

AFTER 50 YEARS

Brother and Sister Meet in Lowell

MRS. HUGH McDEVITT AND HER BROTHER, JAMES O'NEIL, REUNITED AFTER 53 YEARS.

James O'Neil, a California Miner, Reunited With His Sister, Mrs. McDevitt of Lawrence St.--They Had Not Seen Each Other in 53 Years

Home again, to a strange house in a strange country, yet the home of his heart for years, and his home in fact, henceforth for the remainder of his days, James O'Neil, a veteran of the California gold fields in the halycion days of the "Forty-niners" set foot in Lowell for the first time in his life on Saturday evening, and half an hour later clasped in loving embrace the sistor and the brother whom he had not seen since the eventful day in 1852, over half a century ago when he left the family roof in a peaceful parish in County Tyrone, Ireland, to seek his fortune in the new world.

And since his return, for it is a return, to where his heart has been for many years, while there may be more luxurious homes in Lowell one would indeed find it next to impossible to imagine a happier family circle than in the cosy vine-covered cottage of Mrs. Hugh McDevitt of 228 Lawrence street, where since his arrival the sturdy veteran of the golden west has been kept busy shaking hands with friends whom he has never seen before but whom he has grown to know through the regular correspondence of his faithful and loving sister, Mrs. McDevitt.

When Mr. O'Neil left his home in County Tyrone in 1852 he was only a lad of 19 while Mrs. McDevitt was but "a slip of a girl." On Saturday evening as the old gentleman whose weather-beaten countenance pronounced him a stranger and whose white hair and beard unerringly marked the flight of years, inquired of some young people where Mrs. McDevitt lived a tall and comely young woman with laughing eyes and a face strangely familiar took him by the hand and said: "Right in here, Uncle, we've been waiting for you," and gently led him within the cosy little cottage where with outstretched arms and the tears of joy coursing down her cheeks a sweet-faced, motherly-looking woman whispered, "Welcome home, Brother Jim. Thank God, you've come to see us at last." Beside her stood her other brother, Mr. Bernard O'Neil of Charles street who joined with her in greeting the stranger and thus were reunited after the long lapse of 53 years the three remaining members of the family.

A reporter of The Sun called at the home of Mrs. McDevitt yesterday, and upon making known his mission, was hospitably welcomed and introduced to Mr. O'Neil. The latter is wonderfully well preserved for a man of his years and experience and aside from being slightly hard of hearing is in excellent health and much younger in spirit than most men of his years. His skin is as brown as a berry and his hair as white as snow, and these characteristics ,together with a clear, sharp eye, give his countenance an attractive appearance.

In response to the reporter's queries Mr. O'Neil said: "I left home in County Tyrone in 1852, being 19 years old at the time. I heard of the many opportunities of the new world, and seeing none at home, I decided to seek a living over here. I landed in New York after a long and not very pleasant trip, for they didn't come over as easily in those days. I had heard of the marble quarries of Vermont and went there first, where I worked for two years. Then I got the gold fever and I started for the west, and landed in Senora, Tuolumne county, Columbia, California. There isn't much to tell of my travels after that, for I lived the 50 years in the one county. When I went out there they were doing nothing but placer mining and were finding the gold in the creeks and at the roots of trees. I went placer miping with the rest and worked at it until about 30 years ago, when it was about all done up and the mining for quartz begun. The quartz miners went down into the earth 2000 feet after their gold in some cases. I did not like this form of mining and, giving it up, went out on a ranch and did farming. I was with one man for 18 years and would be with him yet but for an accident which killed him and nearly killed me. We were thrown out in a runaway and the poor fellow was killed. Then I went it alone until the last few years I began to realize that I was getting old and could not work forever, and as they had been writing to me for several years to come east, I finally worte on that I would get ready and bid good by to the west and come to Lowell for the remainder of my days. It was three years ago that I made up my mind to come east, but I didn't get here until Saturday night. It is a great change from the wild country, the miners' camp and the ranchman's life to a comfortable home with loving friends all about, and though I never saw this place before, it's home to me for the remainder of my days."

Mrs. McDevitt's beaming countenance told more eloquently than any words could express her happiness at her brother's presence within her home. "A better boy never crossed the ocean," she whispered to the reporter, adding, "He never forgot his father and mother nor any of the family and he not only wrote regularly to the folks at home but sent home money and brought out to California and gave a start to many young men from our place, and since I came to this country with my husband, 22 years ago, there has never been a break in our correspondence. We always knew he was living but we had really given up hope of ever seeing him again. We had been writing to him to come here but we could never get him to promise to leave the west until lately. Seventeen years ago my poor sister Mary went out to see him in California purposely to bring him back with her but she, poor girl, received a paralytic shock while out there and Jim sent a man all the way back with her to look after her and she died here a few years afterward."

Just then a shadow passed over the kindly face, and Mrs. McDevitt turned slightly and looked for a moment at the picture of a bright-looking young man resting on an easel in the parlor. "If he were only here now," she said, "our happiness would know no bounds. That's the picture of my son. He went out to California with my sister 17 years ago and went to work for him (Mr. O'Neil). He stayed with him only two years when he went to some other part of the state, not liking where he was. That was 15 years ago, and we have never heard from him since. I keep praying that some day we will hear that he is alive while Jim thinks that he will turn up all right some day. But it's a great happiness to have Jim back with us and to know that he is going to remain with us."

While Mrs. McDevitt was speaking to the reporter, the other brother, "Barney," as he is familiarly called, entered the house with an old friend and in a moment the two white haired men were exchanging stories of boyhood days, interspersed with many a hearty slap on the back and dig in the ribs, and the scene of such real happiness was infectious and the reporter was loth to leave the little circle. Mrs. McDevitt's happiness is shared by the neighborhood for she is well beloved by all who know her, and her friends and neighbors rejoice with her husband and daughters that her hope of many years has been realized.

STREET WORK

Committee Recommends a Loan

FOR EXTENSION OF MOODY STREET

Action Taken on Other Improvements

At a meeting of the committee on streets, held last evening, it was voted to recommend to the city council that $22,000 be borrowed, that sum to be used for the paving of Moody street from Tilden street to Spalding street with bituminous tar macadam.

The committee considered a communication from J. A. Speirs relative to the sale of a piece of land required for the extension of Ina street. The strip of land is owned by a Mr. Giles. The communication requested that the owner of the property be exempt from taxation. City Engineer Bowers was instructed to inform the writer of the communication that the committee had no jurisdiction in the matter.

The sub-committee on the extension of Clough avenue reported progress. The report was accepted. It will cost about $500 to extend Clough avenue and it was represented by the committee that it would be a paying investment as the extension would mean new buildings.

The report on the extension of Dummer street was one of progress.

Messrs. Clough, Mahoney and W. J. Hayes were appointed a committee to talk with the abutters of West street relative to the widening of that street which at the present time is but 20 feet wide.

The chairman and the city engineer were instructed to interview the Shaw Stocking company and Mr. Gates relative to the purchase of a strip of land 10 feet wide, on the northerly side of New Fletcher street.

The petition for the macadamizing of Beacon street, from Methuen to Eighteenth streets, was read and a new hearing voted.

The joint order, empowering the mayor and the city council to sell at public auction the "ledge lot," at the corner of Fletcher and Bowers streets, provoked a slight discussion. View and hearing voted.

The petition for the macadamizing of Mammoth road was referred to the superintendent of streets.

The joint order of Councilman Carr to have the names of certain streets of the same name changed, was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion.

Views and hearings were voted on the following petitions: That Gershom avenue, from Moody street to Genoa avenue be laid out and accepted; that West Forrest street, from Stevens street to Clifford street be accepted; for a sidewalk of edgestones and cinders on both sides of New street; Mt. Washington street from Varney street to Bowers street be macadamized and put to grade and that the grade of sidewalk at the intersection of easterly line of Gorham street with southerly line of Central street be lowered and street at this point widened.

BRYAN FOR FOLK

Favors Him for President in 1908

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 25.—It is stated on unimpeachable political authority that when William J. Bryan was in the city last Thursday he agreed to support Gov. Folk for the presidential nomination in 1908 if the latter was an "available" candidate at that time.

The deal is understood to have carried with it the return of Stone to the United States senate and the election of James M. Seibert as chairman of the state democratic committee, a return to power of the old democratic machine which was so badly shattered by Folk and his friends in the gubernatorial campaign.

The deal is said to have been laid before Gov. Folk last Friday by Col. Moses S. Wetmore and to have been accepted by the governor.

Dissatisfaction with the outcome of his racing venture for the year is said to be the reason for Mr. Smathers' decision. Some of his friends say his racing has cost him this season alone in the neighborhood of $250,000, exclusive of stable expenses.

ASKS $10,000

ALLEGES ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

BOSTON, July 25.—Seeking $10,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, Frank H. Byrne of Winthrop has brought suit in the superior court in this county against Ralph P. Chase.

The Byrnes were married Feb. 19, 1902, at Winthrop, and lived there up to the time of the breach in their domestic life. On June 12 Byrne obtained a divorce from his wife on the ground of adultery, the defendant in the present suit, which was entered this month, having been named as corespondent.

The original libel was filed Feb. 20, but a substitute was filed by leave of court Feb. 25, in order to embrace an allegation of an offence committed subsequent to the bringing of the first action.

WATER BOARD

Honored Memory of August Fels

AT ITS MEETING LAST NIGHT

Testimonial Read by President

At a meeting of the water board held last evening the following tribute of respect to the late August Fels was read by Robert J. Crowley, president of the board:

"The Lowell water board aside from their desire to acknowledge how keenly they feel the personal loss of their late fellow member, August Fels, also deem it a matter of duty to have inscribed on the records of the board a testimonial from them of his worth as a faithful public servant.

"To him was vouchsafed the honor of having served the city in the capacity of a member of the water board a longer time than any other citizen. He became a member of the board in March, 1894, continuing from that date until the time of his lamentable death July 2, 1905. During his long period of service many important improvements had been made in the water works system, the most notable of which was the substitution of driven well water for Merrimack river water.

"The great and lasting benefit which was brought about by this change in the source of our water supply needs no comment excepting that Mr. Fels and colleagues, through whose wise judgment and ability this work was accomplished, deserve the gratitude of the people of Lowell. To the consideration of this problem Mr. Fels gave his valuable time freely and unremittingly. In fact, no member of the board was more energetic than he in what was practically a reconstruction of the water works plant.

"The routine work of the department also received his careful attention. He rarely missed a meeting of the board or of any of the sub-committees of which he was a member. His knowledge of the department in all its branches was thorough and complete. Every employe of the department knew, admired and respected him. The water takers had confidence in his integrity and ability.

"A feature of the water works property in which he was specially interested was the system of parks established over the conduit and tunnel in Pawtucketville, and the board believes that one of the parks should be named Fels park in his honor; and they so voted that the lot of land situated on the corner of Sarah avenue and Riverside street be hereafter known as Fels park."

On motion of Frank L. Weaver the board voted unanimously to adopt the testimonial. A copy of the testimonial will be sent to the bereaved family.

The question of extending the water service to that part of Tewksbury known as Atherton was discussed but no action was taken as the board wanted more time to look into the matter. Mr. Edward Cawley, owner of the Atherton property, was on hand to offer any information requested by the board. It was promised, however, that no great delay would be made in the matter.

FREE TRANSFERS

HEARING ON MATTER HELD IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, July 25—The question of permitting the Boston & Northern to limit the present free transfer privileges in Wakefield, Stoneham, Reading, Malden and Melrose was again before the railroad commissioners yesterday afternoon at 20 Beacon street. The main issue before the commission was whether the transfer question could be treated apart from the question of increased rates. It had been suggested that the company intended to raise the fare to Boston from the centers of the towns indicated.

The board did not think the transfer petition should be passed upon without further consideration. Chairman Jackson said the board agreed in part with the policy of the company as outlined in the petition and also believed that the fare from Malden was "extraordinary." But the parties present, such as counsel for the town of Wakefield, were not prepared to go ahead yesterday on the transfer question, alone, without reference to the rate to Boston. The board, therefore, put over the transfer hearing to Sept. 7.

A FIREBUG

PUT SEVERAL LIVES IN PERIL.

BOSTON, July 25—After keeping quiet for several weeks, the Charlestown firebug made his presence known again early this morning by a dastardly attempt to burn the three-story wooden building corner of Water and Gray streets, Charlestown, in which two families were asleep in the upper part of the house.

The building is owned by the P. O'Riordan estate and occupied on the ground floor by James Hume as the White Star lunch room and he, with his wife and two sons, Herbert, aged 4, and Stephen, aged 5, with a boarder by the name of John J. Nolan, occupy the second floor, while the third floor is occupied by a Mrs. Eldridge and her two grown-up sons.

When the fire was discovered these people were all asleep and Patrolman Gould, attracted by cries on the street and seeing the fire burning on the ground floor, seized a stone and threw it through a second story window to arouse the occupants. Then, bursting in the door on the Gray street side, he ran up stairs and awoke the sleepers.

SUMMER MEETING

Of the State Board of Agriculture

At Fair Grounds—Many Interesting Demonstrations — Massachusetts Dairy Bureau Agent Says Some Farmers are Dirty

There was a large attendance of farmers and others interested in agriculture at the summer field meeting of the state board of agriculture at the Fair grounds today. The weather was all that could be desired and great interest was manifested. The speakers were introduced by J. Lewis Ellsworth, secretary of the league.

Prof. F. A. Waugh of the Massachusetts Agricultural college was the first speaker. He gave a demonstration of the preparation of Bordeaux mixtures, and best fruit packages.

The program for the day was a pretty lengthy one and the professor said he would have to skip over his assignment as speedily as possible.

He first spoke of the package and its appearance. The more attractive the package, he said, the greater the sale. He had about 50 samples of packages including boxes, baskets, crates and other such packages as are used for fruits.

He compared the prices of boxes and barrels and said it has been his experience and the experience of others that more money could be obtained for fruit in boxes than in barrels.

The most novel package shown was a paper box that came from the factory as flat as a pancake and when opened up it had a capacity of nearly a bushel of the fruit.

The professor's talk up to this time had been devoted almost entirely to apples and he next turned his attention to peaches, showing the Georgia peach carrier, the Jersey basket and other packages suitable for peaches.

As to the Bordeaux mixture, the professor explained that its mission was to prevent ordinary plant diseases. Some, he said, have the impression that the mixture would kill insects as well as prevent diseases, but such, he said, is not the case.

On the track about midway of the grand stand was a wagon containing all the appliances necessary for making the Bordeaux mixture and a practical demonstration was given. The professor answered many questions relative to the mixture, the expense, manufacture, length of time required to make it, time to apply it, etc. He also answered several questions as to the preparation and use of paris green.

Questions were asked relative to spraying and the best methods. Demonstrations were made with small sprays and the last exhibition included a series of large sprays forced by a gasolene engine.

The next demonstration was that of the Babcock milk test by P. M. Harwood, general agent for the Massachusetts Dairy Bureau. He gave an interesting explanation of the sanitary handling of milk.

DIRTY MILKERS CRITICIZED.

After he had finished with the demonstration Mr. Harwood made a little speech in which he said the price of milk would have to advance in order to assure absolute purity.

He said there were too many farmers and men working on farms who get up in the morning and without washing their faces and hands, go to the barn and milk the cows. He said there are filthy habits among some of the farmers that he was almost ashamed to speak of. "Every farmer and every farm hand should be obliged to wash their faces and hands and clean their finger nails before milking cows or handling the milk," he said. Mr. Harwood also showed and explained a number of sanitary milk pails.

Various other demonstrations followed and the killing and dressing of fowl was left till the afternoon.

Dinner was served in the dining hall at noon by the ladies of Dracut grange.

The dinner was one like mother used to cook. The ladies of the Dracut grange have a reputation for "putting up" good dinners and the dinner today was all that could be desired. The speakers were so full of it that they mentioned it, first thing, when introduced.

Mr. P. P. Perham presided at the after-dinner speaking and introduced as the speaker of the afternoon, Hon. N. J. Bachelder, ex-governor of New Hampshire, secretary of New Hampshire state board of agriculture and lecturer of the National grange. Mr. Bachelder spoke upon "Matters of Importance for Rural Betterment." He advised more progressive measures in the pursuit of agriculture and extension of business. He emphasized the necessity for co-operative efforts and the building up of constructive, not destructive, organizations. He argued for education, remarking that it was one of the big avenues to expansion and success that opened itself up to the farmers. He spoke in favor of schools, colleges and legislation. He said that with progress and the extension of farming should go beauty and cleanliness.

At the conclusion of the speech-making the meeting adjourned and the majority of those who attended the dinner visited the Hood farm, leaving the Fair Grounds in special cars about 2 o'clock.

A STRIKE

MAY BE ORDERED BY THE IRON MOULDERS.

PITTSBURG, July 25.—The ultimatum of the iron moulders of Allegheny county was presented to the manufacturers today, giving them until Thursday night to sign the wage scale.

If the scale is rejected a strike will be called Friday morning. The men demand a minimum rate of $3.20 per day, an increase of 20 cents a day over the scale now in force.

PHILIPPINE COINS.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The secretary of treasury has received, through the navy department, a letter from the governor of the island of Guam recommending that Philippine coins be substituted for the Mexican coins now current on the island.

The governor states that since the Mexican coins were demonetized by the Philippine government they have no standing outside of Guam and have become exceedingly scarce. The natives, he says, would accept the Philippine coins without question. The treasury officials are inclined to favor the governor's recommendation.

I am bound to dispose of my real estate holdings and have authorized C. H. Hanson & Co. to absolutely sell them without reserve or limit at above time and place. The three houses situated on the northerly side of Saratoga street, are one minute's walk to Gorham street; they are thoroughly built as I built them by day work and overlooked every detail myself. Each house is of modern design, has six large and well appointed rooms beside bath, has gas and sewer connections and has always found ready rental at $11 and $12 each per month. Each house has 4000 feet or more of land.

This property always rents for $11 and $12 each, and with this new industry, The Mawhinney Shoe Company, already under contract to build a large factory employing 600 hands, will make these four properties worth much more than they will bring, as they are all within eight minutes' walk of the new factory.

CRAZED BY DRINK

Man Slashed Three on Train

NEW YORK, July 25.—A terrific battle in a crowded south-bound Third avenue elevated train, in which a drink-crazed man slashed two men and a policeman with a razor, caused intense excitement while the train was crossing the Harlem River last night.

At least one of the men was seriously cut, and the blood from the numerous wounds, combined with the frenzy of the drunken man, caused a number of women, of whom there were many aboard, to faint.

For several minutes the fight raged desperately while the motorman raced his train with all speed to enable the three men to drag their prisoner off at the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street station.

After a struggle the man was forced off, and a double call for a patrol wagon and an ambulance was turned in. Dr. Parmenter, of the Harlem hospital, attended the injuries of the men, while the man who had caused them was bundled off to the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth police station.

He was Alfred Zozone, of No. 347 East One Hundred and Fourteenth street. John Davis, of No. 106 East One Hundred and Ninth street, a guard objected to the manner in which he was frightening every one in the car, and at once the man attacked him with a razor. Davis grappled, despite the manner in which he was gashed, and the cries of women then brought William Simpson, of No. 2148 Second avenue, also a guard, to the aid of his fellow workman.

The man, now furious, sank the blade into Simpson's hand, and the latter, with a cry of pain, fell back.

Patrolman Lewis Shindler, of the West Thirty-seventh street station, who was on the train in citizen's clothes, ran to the assistance of the two guards, and was severely cut on the right hand.

The motorman, warned by excited passengers, put on all speed and the train with its hysterical women and shouting men drew up to the station. Four men were struggling with Zozone out upon the platform when the train dashed over the Harlem. The gate alone saved them all from going into the Harlem River.

Simpson was the worst injured, the blade having slashed an artery.

THE BLACK HAND

Blamed For Stabbing Affray in New York

NEW YORK, July 25.—Tony Salamone's brother and Tom Sullivan, who live at 150 Christopher street, met on Hudson street on Sunday night and Sullivan wouldn't speak to the Italian. The latter walked up to Sullivan and asked why he didn't speak. "I know you, all right," replied Sullivan, "but I don't have to speak to the likes of you."

At that the Italian, according to Sullivan, muttered something about his brother "fixing things", and went away.

Last night Sullivan was near his home, when Tony, who lives at 189 Elizabeth street, came u pand spoke to him. Sullivan says that he responded to the greeting and hurried on. Tony kept alongside, and together the two men went to the corner of Greenwich avenue, where Sullivan crossed the street and turned back. The Italian kept close beside him, and when Sullivan reached his residence he stopped him from going in and asked him to walk along the street a bit further.

They walked on to Washington and Christopher streets, where Tony suggested that they have a drink. Sullivan refused. The Italian attempted to detain him, but he broke away and ran along the street. At that Tony pulled out a razor and gave chase.

Sullivan ran to the door of the parish house of the Church of St. Veronica, where he used to be an altar boy. He rang the bell, but his call was not answered, and almost at once the Italian was at him slashing with the razor until Sullivan sank in a pool of blood on the steps of the house.

None of the bystanders went to Sullivan's aid, but some one ran to tell Sullivan's brother James. James hurried to the parish house and chased the Italian. By this time a large crowd had gathered and nearly 300 joined in the hunt.

At Barrow and Hudson streets James Sullivan caught his man, and the crowd closed in. Had it not been for the arrival of Detective Carmody of the Charles street station Tony might never have needed the services of anything but a coroner's jury. As it was Carmody had a hard fight to land his prisoner in the station house.

Meanwhile Dr. O'Leary of St. Vincent's hospital was doing his best to save Sullivan. At the hospital it was said that Sullivan had small chance to live. He regained consciousness and made a statement in which he said that while working as a private detective he had known the Salamone brothers. He believed, he said, that they belonged to a "black hand" society which he helped to break up and that the attack was planned.

IN CONVENTION

Sons of St. George Grand Lodge

SESSION AT ODD FELLOWS TEMPLE

Reports of Grand Officers Made

The seventeenth grand lodge of the Sons of St. George of Massachusetts was opened at Odd Fellows temple in Middlesex street this morning.

Delegates began to arrive on the early morning trains from th different cities and towns in the state, while a number arrived last night. Prior to the opening of the convention there was a renewal of old acquaintances.

At ten o'clock the credential committee got down to work and examined the credentials of the different delegates. There are 43 lodges in the state, each lodge being entitled to a delegate, though many alternates and friends were in attendance.

After the credential committee finished its work Grand President Thomas A. Mott called to order, after which he read his report in which he said:

I regret to report our finances have fallen behind. This is due to the high rate of sickness and death, also extra expenses which are not annual, as may be seen by reference to the grand secretary's report.

All of us have been fully aware of the great suffering existing in Fall River during the great strike of the cotton operatives, the lodges in that city stood nobly to the principles of our order until their funds were exhausted in relieving distressed brothers and their families.

I am pleased to say all our lodges, with two or three exceptions, are in a prosperous condition; a large amount of enthusiasm has been shown by the lodges visited, they all have given ample evidence of their appreciation. From all the evidence at my command I am safe in saying that there is a deep rooted desire on the part of all members to see our order grow and flourish; to rise to nobler and higher usefulness in helping the suffering brothers, as shown in the large amounts voted by some lodges to the Fall River fund.

I have striven hard to merit your great confidence and so far as I know have not left a stone unturned that would advance our order's interests, but brothers there is yet a great work to do, we as an order are not occupying that elevated position we are capable of attaining, many thousands of our countrymen and their descendants are all around us; let us keep our shoulder to the wheel of progress and surely success will reward our united efforts.

At the conclusion of the grand president's report the meeting was declared open, and His Honor, Mayor James H. Casey addressed the convention, welcoming the delegates to the city of spindles and giving them the key of the city.

The grand lodge degree was then exemplified. General routine business was then transacted, included in which were the reports of the secretary and treasurer.

Receipts, $2,793.91. Balance on hand, $782.06.

Fifty-six death claims were paid amounting to $5600.

AN EXPERT

SENT TO ASSIST MAYOR WEAVER.

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—To unearth the frauds that Mayor Weaver and his advisers say honeycomb the $25,000,000 filtration plant, which former state insurance and political boss, Israel W. Durham, and the contractors, State Senator James P. McNichol and his brother, D. J. McNichol, were building until the mayor stopped them, the war department has sent Major Cassius E. Gillette, of the army engineer corps, to Philadelphia.

Major Gillette unearthed the Oberlin M. Carter frauds at Savannah and sent that dashing captain to the penitentiary.

Secretary of State Root is behind the appointment of Gillette as Weaver's expert, and Roosevelt is behind Root.

THE BOSTON MARKET.

BOSTON, July 25—The Boston stock market today presented a much better appearance than of late. The activity was almost wholly in the coppers, but the general tone was strong throughout. Copper Range was a feature advancing 1¾ to 74¾ in the first hour receding fractionally later. Centennial, after advancing ½ to 23¼, reacted to 22½ on profit taking. There was good buying of Bingham; Mohawk, Winona and Atlantic. New York bought steel stocks here.

WANTED TO DIE

Russian Girl Tried to Take Her Life

NEW YORK, July 25.—Miss [illegible] Silver, the daughter of [illegible] Silver, a clothing [illegible] Eagle street, Greenpoint, was found unconscious in her room on Friday night from the effects of illuminating gas. With her father and two [illegible], Mollie and Teachia, she came from Russia two years ago. Solomon left behind his wife and two younger children, promising to send for them when he prospered. While the family was separated they kept up a correspondence. The [illegible] last January, and Silver was unable to ascertain the cause until about six weeks ago, on the arrival here of a Russian refugee who knew Silver, and who, it is said, told Silver that his wife was among the victims of the massacre in St. Petersburg on Jan. 22, and that his children had gone from the city. Silver communicated with the Russian authorities, and recently the death of his wife was confirmed.

Silver did not tell his daughter Ida of his wife's fate, because the girl had been fretting about the absence of news from her mother. On Sunday she learned of her mother's death. In the afternoon she went to her room, and late at night the odor of escaping gas attracted her sister Mollie and the latter's fiance, Max Reiner. They traced the gas to the girl's room, where Ida was found lying unconscious on her bed. She was removed in an ambulance to the Williamsburg hospital, where the doctors worked over her for three hours before they restored her to consciousness.

When the girl was able to talk she said that on Sunday night she thought she saw her mother appear before her and beckon her to come. The girl added that she had no recollection of what happened later.

SAVES BOY

MOTHER REFUSED TO TESTIFY AGAINST HIM.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Bridget Fitzgerald displayed a mother's devotion in Jefferson market police court yesterday and defied Magistrate Pool's threat of imprisonment.

James Fitzgerald and Joseph Madden had been arrested on a disorderly charge. When searched a $75 pawn ticket for a pair of diamond earrings and $65 in money were found. Detectives discovered that the earrings had been stolen from Mrs. Fitzgerald of 160 East Eighty-fourth street, so the boys were charged with grand larceny.

When the case was called Mrs. Fitzgerald failed to answer. At the second call a frail woman, neatly dressed in black, appeared.

"Why didn't you appear?" Magistrate Pool demanded. "You could be imprisoned."

"For what should I be sent to prison?" was the quiet reply. "Because I won't send my boy to jail? It's the first wrong he has done, and I'll not make a convict of him."

In the face of this decision Magistrate Pool discharged both boys.

The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by the members of the choir. There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by her many friends and acquaintances. The bearers were Messrs. Edward and Thomas Tiley, John Donohoe, James Doyle, John Lyons and Frank McGovern. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. ACCUSES WIFE

Husband Says She is Cigarette Fiend

NEW YORK, July 25—William M. Newman, a wealthy silversmith, of No. 63 St. Marks avenue, in his suit for absolute divorce from Louise A. Newman, declared yesterday in the supreme court, Brooklyn that his wife was president of a woman's cigarette club, composed of residents of the fashionable Stuyvesant Heights section of Brooklyn.

The members of the club, he said, invariably met at his house and indulged in cigarettes and intoxicants to such an extent that some of them had to be taken home in cabs.

Mr. Newman testified that he was married in 1888, and that up to June, 1901, when he separated from his wife, she was addicted to the excessive use of liquor. On many occasions, he said, he found her, on his return home, drinking with Edwin W. Bray, a church choirmaster, who occupied apartments in his house.

On May 6 last, he said, his wife was tracked by private detectives hired by him to a hotel at Bedford avenue and Fulton street, where, he declared, she met a companion.

In refutation of these allegations counsel for Mrs. Newman had all the tenants of the third floor of the hotel in court. They stated most emphatically that on May 6 last Mrs. Newman had not entered their apartments, either alone or with a companion. The proprietor of the building, John Holliday, of No. 45 Brevort place, indignantly denied that his place was a hotel. He stated that it was an apartment house, occupied solely by families, and that it would be impossible for any one to have a single room in the building.

Mrs. W. McCarthy, of No. 210 Macon street, testified that Mrs. Newman spent the night of May 6 last at her house.

Justice Bowall reserved decision.

WOMAN SCARED

She is Not Expected to Live

NEW YORK, July 25.—In a remarkable runaway in Brooklyn yesterday a child was nearly kicked to death by horses, a woman was frightened so that her life is despaired of, awnings for nearly three blocks were stripped from stores and a policeman risked his life to stop the team.

When the flight of the animals ended it was found that neither the horses nor the wagon had been scratched.

Two magnificent black horses attached to a collecting wagon owned by Gustave Rebenlow, No. 816 Lexington avenue, and driven by his son, Charles, had stopped in front of a butcher shop at Court and Nelson streets yesterday, when an automobile, making weird noises with its motor, came chugging along.

The horses bolted onto the sidewalk and started to run.

A baby carriage containing Thomas McDonald, 11 months old, was in the way, but the horses kicked the carriage to pieces, injuring the child severely.

The team dashed on through the crowd to Huntington street, where they tore the awning in front of William Jacques's store, No. 840 Court street, and smashed his show case.

At No. 816 Court street, where Frank Hennessy has a saloon, more awnings were destroyed and windows smashed.

At 816 Court street, the awnings of J. W. Edwards's drug store were torn to bits, and Edwards and a woman customer had a narrow escape.

At 866 Court street, the runaways took to the roadway, and, in doing so, they smashed Gustave Rebenlow's butcher wagon, scattering hams over the street, breaking the horse's legs and creating $200 worth of damage.

A block further on Miss Julia Devine, of No. 45 Garnet street, was crossing the thoroughfare when she saw the runaways bearing down upon her. She stood paralyzed with fear and would have been killed had not William Sullivan, of No. 849 Court street, dragged her to safety. On the sidewalk she became hysterical and it took four men to hold her. Then she lapsed into unconsciousness and was taken to the Long Island College hospital, where it was said last night she might die from the effects of fright.

After being dodged by a trolley car at Hamilton avenue, Policeman William R. Gresham brought the team to a halt, but not before he had been dragged two blocks and had had his uniform torn to ribbons in his work.

LOST HIS LIFE

Young Man Saved Mother and Sister

Occupants Barely Made Their Escape

NEW YORK, July 25.—In a heroic effort to save his mother and sister who with a score of others were for a time in great peril, from fire, Nathan Newman, 20 years old, today, lost his own life in a burning Brooklyn tenement house. Half a dozen Hebrew families were sleeping in the double deck three story building when the fire started. When the alarm was given the fire had reached practically every floor and the occupants were forced to flee for their lives.

Many were too late to get down the stairways before their escape was cut off by the flames. These sought to escape by the narrow ladder which leads to the roof. Newman got through in safety but was unable to find his mother and sister. He went back into the building, found the women and assisted them through the opening to the roof. When he tried to follow them, however, the ladder was surrounded by flames. He made a rush through the fire but was overcome just as he reached the top and fell back into the burning building to his death. All the other occupants of the house escaped. The loss on the building was $10,000.

$1,000,000 Estate Goes to Gorcero

CHICAGO, July 25.—A despatch from San Francisco, Cal., says:

Gorceno was a conductor on a street car and his handsome face and polished manner won the rich but eccentric Miss Floyd. She was 15 years older than Gorceno, but despite family opposition, she married him and a year later she died, leaving him all her estate except the house where she lived.

The will was contested by near relatives on the ground of the testator's incompetency.

BOY SUSPECTS

They May be Noted Firebugs

BOSTON, July 25.—A 12-year-old boy and his brother, three years his senior, are now being closely watched by the officers from the fire marshal's office, in hopes that the mystery about the recent firebugs scare throughout the city may be cleared up.

The 12-year-old lad has confessed, it is said, to setting fire on March 28 last to the brick building 53 Haverhill street, occupied by the Hub Moulding company.

The lad, whose identity the police are closely guarding, states, so they say, that he set the fire with oil waste stolen from the journal boxes of a freight car, and then, lighted and thrown into the doorway of the building.

A damage of $1000 was done before the fire was extinguished.

Efforts have been made to get the young lad to admit knowledge of the same style fires which cost over $3,000,000 loss at the Hoosac block.

CITY IS SHOCKED

Brockton Has a Police Scandal

BROCKTON, July 25.—This city is shocked as never before in its history as the result of disclosures made at a police hearing yesterday afternoon by Miss Stella Elliott, an 18-year-old girl, who charged, in the presence of Mayor Edward H. Keith, Aldermen Charles C. Eaton, William Lays, Arthur E. Kendrick, Harry L. Thompson, Edward Gilmore, George A. Monk, William H. Clifford and an audience that crowded city hall to the point of suffocation, that Inspector Chester E. Harris of the police force, right-hand man to City Marshal Boyden, betrayed her and then arrested her for street walking.

She charged Harris with the paternity of the female child born to her in a girls' refuge in Providence last December, and that died there in March, and further charged that she revealed to City Marshal Boyden the inspector's share in her shame, and that he concealed the facts rather than dismiss him.

INSPECTOR IS SUSPENDED.

Inspector Harris, a married man, aged 32, and of handsome appearance, was last night suspended by Mayor Keith and the committee on police, pending a formal investigation at which he will have the opportunity to defend himself.

Attorney E. F. O'Neill, her counsel, states that criminal charges will probably be made.

Stella Elliott testified in the presence of the throng, a goodly proportion of which consists of well-known women, that she came here in August, 1903, from South Hanson, where her father is a poor wood chopper, with 11 children. Forced to earn her own living at that early age, she secured employment in a restaurant.

When there but a short time her comely appearance attracted his attention and, she said, he began his improper conduct by snapping a pair of handcuffs on her wrists, in a spirit of fun, and then subjecting her to indignities. She charged that he lured her to the police station about two weeks after.

With childish frankness she continued to tell of their meetings, while the aldermen subjected her to the most searching cross-examination.

"When did you learn that you were to become a mother" she was asked.

WAS IN IGNORANCE.

"In the police station, after Inspector Harris had arrested me for night walking," she said, "I was examined by City Physician E. P. Gleason. Then Mrs. A. P. Alden aided me, and I was sent to Providence, where my child was born."

"And you told the marshal all about it last October, when you were arrested?" asked Alderman Gilmore.

"I did," the girl answered. "He seemed interested, but did nothing about it. My child resembled Mr. Harris. She had dark red hair, the same as his."

Mrs. Jennie Sherman testified to a knowledge of the intimacy between the Elliott girl and the inspector.

Rupert O. Hatch, Seigfred Anderson, Miss Octavia Gilbert and others contributed more sensational testimony. The city is much excited over the affair.

BECAME INSANE

Mrs. Jeanette Walsh Wrecked Her Home

WHILE VIOLENTLY INSANE YESTERDAY

She Was Removed to City Hospital

Jeanette Walsh, a former inmate of the Worcester Insane Asylum became suddenly insane again at her home, 17 Sawtelle Place, yesterday afternoon and completely wrecked her home before she was subdued and removed to the police station whence she was taken to the city hospital.

The unfortunate woman who is 40 years of age lived with her mother, at the home of her brother, Fred Seavey and although she had spent two years and a half in the Worcester Asylum four years ago she was considered perfectly rational.

Suddenly yesterday afternoon, without even a moment's warning she grabbed the dishes from the table and threw them in all directions with all the force at her command. Then she ran through the house pushing her fists through every pane of glass within her reach. Her mother tried to stop her and was struck several hard blows. Finally two citizens were attracted by her strange screams and they attempted to hold the infuriated woman. They were scratched and narrowly escaped being bitten. Officer Page who was summoned ordered the patrol wagon and assisted in holding her until its arrival. At the police station she was in a state of frenzy but finally went into a state of exhaustion.

LOWELL MAN

GOT HIMSELF INTO TROUBLE IN LAWRENCE.

The Lawrence Sun says:

Antonio Lapadula, who was arrested Sunday evening about 8.30 o'clock by Officers Vose and Griffin at the lower end of Common street in a very drunken condition and carrying a loaded revolver and a vicious looking dirk with a blade about five inches long, with an edge and point as sharp as a razor was fined $1 for drunkenness and $5 for carrying concealed weapons.

Lapadula, it seems, has a good record as a law abiding citizen and holds a responsible position in Lowell as a foreman of building laborers employed in the construction of a large mill. He said that the gun belonged to a friend and that the knife was used for cutting bread and tobacco during meal hours.

SECRETARY TAFT

Given Hearty Welcome to Japan

YOKOHAMA, July 25.—Secretary of War Taft and party received a demonstrative welcome to Japan, the principal buildings, streets and wharves of the city and the shipping in the harbor being gaily decorated. A noisy display of daylight fireworks along the streets fronting the harbor announced the arrival of the steamer Manchuria at the quarantine grounds at 1 o'clock this morning and continued until the vessel was docked. Lloyd C. Griscom, the American minister, the attaches of the legation and consul general H. B. Miller of New Chwang, together with representatives of the Japanese Imperial household, foreign officers, war department and the Asiatic society, then boarded the Manchuria and extended formal greetings to Secretary Taft and Miss Roosevelt, who held an informal reception upon the deck. The party then was driven to the railroad station through the crowded streets, and, boarding a special train, departed for Tokio at 10 a. m., amid the cheers of the assembled multitude.

Upon their arrival at Tokio, Secretary Taft and his personal staff were taken to Shiba, where a detached palace was provided for their accommodation. Miss Roosevelt accompanied Minister Griscom to the American legation.

The voyage was uneventful and the party arrived well.

CANNON WENT OFF

And Killed Man on Board Yacht

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 25—John Lucas, aged 22 years, a member of the crew on board H. Tillinghast's yacht Ida, received injuries from which he died one hour later, while carrying a small cannon from one portion of the craft to another shortly before noon at Pawtuxet today. While passing through the door of the pilot house, the hammer of the cannon struck the door casing, the explosion resulting, sending the charge into Lucas's side and blowing him off into the water. Other members of the crew rescued Lucas from the water but in spite of medical attention he succumbed to his injuries before the arrival of an ambulance.

She was unconscious when assistance reached her and was taken to the house of Mercy in this city. Her skull was fractured at the base of the brain and the surgeons do not believe that she can last through the night.

Mrs. Bushey is but 17 years old and married George Bushey less than a year ago. Mr. Bushey was summoned to the hospital as soon as the identity of his wife became known.

COLORED PRIEST

A Distinguished Clergyman Visiting in Lowell

REV. CHARLES RANDOLPH UNCLES

Rev. Charles Randolph Uncles the First Colored Priest Ordained in America is the Guest of Dr. Frank McAvinnue--His Father Fought Under General Butler

Rev. Charles Randolph Uncles, the first colored priest of the Roman Catholic church to be ordained in America and vieing with that other distinguished colored man, Booker T. Washington, as the leader of his race, arrived in Lowell last evening to pay a brief visit to his old friend of college days, Dr. Frank McAvinnue, of Mammoth road, Pawtucketville.

Fr. Uncles is accompanied by Rev. Fr. Wrenn, of North Brookfield, Mass., another college chum, and the trio for the next 24 hours will revive old memories of St. Hyacinthe's college at Quebec where they prepared for their professional careers.

Fr. Uncles is at present a professor of Latin, Greek and French at the Epiphany college, Walbrook, Baltimore, Md., conducted by the Josephite Fathers whose life is devoted to missionary work among the colored people and Indians, of which order he is a distinguished member. He is now on vacation and will leave tomorrow for Montreal and Quebec.

A reporter of The Sun called at Dr. McAvinnue's home in Pawtucketville this morning and was introduced to the distinguished visitor. Fr. Uncles possesses a most charming personality and is certainly a revelation to those who are prone to judge an entire race by a few of its types. Although 45 years of age he doesn't look it by 10 years; he is tall, standing six feet, two inches, well proportioned and erect and in college days was an all round athlete. His—thin—black hair, slightly curly, he wears parted an one side and brushed back showing a high intellectual forehead. His skin is rather light and he has a bright and kindly eye. His voice, soft and musical, is most attractive and he speaks with the soft accent of the south though not with the pronounced dialect of the southern darkey.

Fr. Uncles was born in Baltimore where his parents still reside. His father is a machinist while his mother is a seamstress. He says that he has more than an ordinary interest in Lowell for his father served in the civil war under General Benjamin F. Butler of this city. He received his early education in St. Francis Xavier's parochial school and afterward in the public schools of his native city. He took the normal course and taught in the public schools of Baltimore for three years. Then deciding to enter the priesthood he went to St. Hyacinthe's college, at Quebec, where Dr. McAvinnue afterward informed the writer he astonished teachers and pupils alike with his brilliant attainments. He took full classical course at St. Hyacinthe's after which, in 1888, he entered the Sulpician seminary in Baltimore where he was ordained by Cardinal Gibbons, personally in 1891, the first colored Catholic priest in America. Even today there is only one other colored priest in America, Rev. Fr. Dorsey, who was ordained two years ago and is missioned at Pine Bluff, Ark. Having joined the Josephite order and showing marked ability as a professor he has since been connected with the Epiphany college though he expects in the near future to be sent through the South on missionary work. He is an eloquent speaker and preaches in both English and French.

AMONG THE COLORED CATHOLICS

Speaking of his life's work Fr. Uncles said: "Catholicity is not a new faith among the colored people of America for there were colored Catholics long before emancipation was dreamed of. But the Josephites are giving exclusive attention to evangelical work among the colored race and I assure you that the future dawns brightly not only for the spiritual but the temporal welfare of the colored man. There are 40 priests in America engaged in evangelical work among the colored people and of these 34 are members of the Josephite order. In Baltimore the order conducts the Epiphany college with which I am connected and St. Joseph's seminary. Both institutions educate and prepare priests for this particular work. The young men are tutored as far as philosophy and they make their theology in St. Joseph's. We have 53 at Epiphany and 30 at St. Joseph's. We have three colored Catholic churches in Baltimore and a Catholic population among the colored people of about 10,000. In Washington there are two churches and schools and there are also colored Catholic churches in Norfolk, Richmond, Lynchburg, and other small places in Virginia, Savannah, New Orleans, Nashville, Charleston, Leavenworth, St. Louis, Pine Bluff, Natchez, Mobile, Montgomery and other places in Alabama, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del., New York and one is projected in Boston.

The Josephites began their work in this country in 1871 and have met with most encouraging results. Churches and schools have been established wherever the colored people had communities. We have also established an industrial school on the plan of Tuskegee, at Wilmington, Del. The estimated average number of adult conversions is about 700 annually while more than 1000 children are baptized annually. There are 23 orders working among the colored people and there are three orders of colored nuns in America. The Sisters of St. Francis were established 20 years ago in Savannah by Bishop Becker. The Sisters of the Holy Family date back to slavery days, 1842, for there were some free negroes then even as there were free negroes fighting for the country's independence in Washington's army. This order has houses in New Orleans and other places in the south and maintains a flourishing academy in Pine Bluff, Ark. The third order is the oldest of all, the Oblate Sisters of Providence who were established in Baltimore way back in 1828. They have schools, an orphan asylum and an academy in Baltimore, schools in Washington, Leavenworth, Kan., and an academy at St. Louis. At the present time we have only two colored priests but we have a young colored man in the seminary now who will be ordained in about two years. On June 21 last, four young priests of our order were ordained and one of them Rev. Fr. Dube comes from your neighboring city of Nashua. My northern trip this year gives me especial pleasure as it has afforded me an opportunity to visit my old college friend, Dr. McAvinnue and Fr. Dube whom we will visit in Nashua tomorrow."

Before leaving Lowell Frs. Uncles and Wrenn will visit the rooms and country club of the Knights of Columbus of which Dr. McAvinnue is a popular member.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

FIGHT FOR CHILD

Cambridge Man Wants His Son

BOSTON, July 25—Cambridge has at present one of the most sensational cases in years in the fight made by Fireman Arthur McArthur, first for his wife's body and then for the custody of his 9-year-old son.

McArthur's wife committed suicide Saturday last. She had left him and he intended bringing suit for divorce, alleging cruelty.

Mrs. McArthur died at her mother's where she had been since she left her husband, and when he was told he could not get the body he threatened to go into court for an injunction.

To prevent such action, the mother held funeral services at her home yesterday, and then allowed the body of her daughter to be taken by McArthur to his mother's home for a second funeral service today.

Then McArthur took steps to obtain custody of his son Nell, who is with his grandmother, Mrs. Esterbrook.

Mr. McArthur says that he wants the boy to attend the funeral services. He will apply to the court to secure possession of the child and to insure his attendance at the services.

He will also later proceed in court, he says, to secure possession of $500 worth of goods which, he claims, belonged to his wife before her death.

Yesterday afternoon Nelle McArthur, niece of Arthur McArthur, went to the Esterbrook house to secure the child Niel. The lad refused to go to his father.

Later on about 7.15 p.m., Patrolman William Rowe went to the Esterbrook house to get possession of the child. He was in the company of McArthur.

Rowe asked Nell if he wanted to go, and the boy said "No." The patrolman asked him why he didn't want to go. The child said that he was afraid of his father because the latter had kicked him several times. He told a story of one instance of this kind.

Rowe went away without the child.

WHAT TOOK PLACE

When William Spoke to Nicholas?

BERLIN, July 25.—Although the German foreign office was advised in the sense cabled to the Associated Press yesterday of the general outlines of which Emperor William would say to Emperor Nicholas in favor of peace and internal reforms in Russia, no report has been received regarding what actually took place and probably none will be received unless it be a belated memorandum covering some point for preservation in the archives. The foreign office says definitely that the Russian emperor took the initiative in bringing the interview about. Who took the first step is not essential, and the German emperor is reported as desiring to offer unsolicited advice.

It is learned from another source that the two emperors have a private cipher in which telegrams are occasionally exchanged and which pass through no third hand.

NO STATEMENT

DEPARTMENT NOT YET READY TO MAKE ONE.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Secretary of navy Bonaparte, when asked today for a statement on the subject of the disaster to the Bennington, said:

"The department is not yet ready to make any statement as to the probable or possible causes of the disaster.

"When the facts are better known, and a reasonable basis for an intelligent opinion may perhaps exist, the department will hold back no information in its possession to which any fair-minded man could think the public entitled. For the moment, I wish to urge by example as well as by everyone whether in or out of the service, the advisability and even duty, of refraining from lies, unwise and untruthful talk on a subject so delicate, so hard to understand, so painful. I ask all good citizens to have patience and if it shall appear that there has been failure of duty on the part of anyone, I promise the public that no one shall be white-washed and the service that nobody shall be made a scape-goat."

AT LAMONT HOME

MR. AND MRS. CLEVELAND WILL ATTEND FUNERAL.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 25—Former Pres. Grover Cleveland and Mrs. Cleveland arrived at Millbrook this afternoon having come from North Sandwich, N. H. They were driven at once to the Lamont home, where they will remain until after the funeral of Col. Daniel S. Lamont, which will be tomorrow at 12.30 p. m.

The service which will take place at the Lamont residence, will be of the simplest nature. Dr. W. M. Erie Smith, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, New York City, which the Lamont family attended when in New York, will officiate. There will be no pall bearers.

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, July 25.—The state penitentiary here was burned today, entailing a loss of $50,000. The convicts were removed in safety.

STEAMER ASHORE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 25.—The Merchants Exchange has received the following message from Eureka, Cal.:

"A message from the Ocean House, near Cape Mendicino, reports this morning that a large steamer is ashore a quarter of a mile from the cape light and about 100 yards from the beach. Tugs have gone to her assistance."

THE BENNINGTON FLOATED.

WASHINGTON, July 25—A telegram received at the navy department over night from Captain Drake states that the Bennington was floated at 6.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and is now alongside the wharf.

FOR AN OLD MAID

Y. M. C. A. Boys Defend Her

SAY SHE IS BETTER ON A FARM

Than the Ordinary Old Style Wheelbarrow

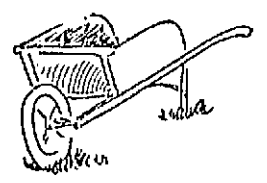

According to the boys who are having a merry month at the Lowell Y. M. C. A. camp, Spectacle pond, an old maid is of more use than a wheelbarrow on a farm.

It is only safe to say, however, that the question has two sides, and that there was a difference of opinion. Here was the question as it officially came before the boys at a public debate:

"Resolved, That a wheelbarrow is more useful on a farm than an old maid." The affirmative was taken by Douglas Morey and Physical Director Maxwell, while Chester E. Wheeler and Percy A. Yarnold led the negative. W. G. Mackay was chairman and W. A. Morse, A. L. Kelly and Mrs. McKay acted as judges.

Mr. Maxwell's assertion that an old maid tramped down the farm more than a wheelbarrow because she made two tracks to a barrow's one, was disputed by Mr. Yarnold, who claimed a point in favor of the old maid because unless the barrow could run itself there were three tracks every time it was moved—one made by the wheel and two by the feet of the person pushing. The affirmative stated that the cost of keeping a barrow was much less than an old maid, claiming that $15 a week was about the figure for the latter, but the negative denied the assertion and said if you gave her some water, a few crackers and a cat she would live for a week. Some doubted her ability to digest the cat and also questioned whether it would be possible to get a fresh one every week. The matter was referred to the judges, who reported in favor of the wheelbarrow, but the audience would not stand for it and demanded that a vote be taken, and on a count of hands the champions of the old maid were declared the winners.

Saturday morning the Tigers and Bears played a six inning ball game the result being 16 to 9 in favor of the former, with an inning to spare. W. G. McKay and W. R. Wiggin were umpires and C. E. Wheeler scored. The teams, positions and runs:

Tigers—Holman Waring c, 2; Herbert Draper p, 2; Paul O'Donnell 1b, 1; Warren Howe 2b, 1; Russell Fox 3b, 3; George Hill ss, 2; Ralph Costello lf, 2; Claude Rogers cf, 3; D. Dills rf, 1.

Bears—Frank Hull c, Carl Taylor p, 2; Fred Gray 1b, 3; Edward Noyes 2b, Lewis Duncan 3b, 1; William Graves ss, 2; Carl McLeod lf, Stanley Crandall cf, Raymond Hawley rf, 1.

In the afternoon a close and exciting game was played between the Junior team of Littleton and Camp Lowell, result—Littleton 8, Camp Lowell 7. Carl Dunning was scorer, while M. C. Corcoran filled the trying position of umpire and gave general satisfaction. The teams, positions and runs:

Littleton—R. Fulton c, H. Canney p, 1; B. H. Fulton 1b, 3; B. G. Smith 2b, L. Prouty ss, A. Godfrey 3b, 1; Gaston lf, R. Godfrey cf, 2; H. Prouty rf, 1.

Camp Lowell—Harold Waring c, 1; Holman Waring p, Herbert Draper 1b, Percy Yarnold 2b, 1; Fred Gray ss, 1; Russell Fox cf, 2; Carl Taylor lf, 1; Myron Harlow 3b, 1; Frank Hull rf.

Camp Lowell .....0 0 1 2 1 1 0 1 1—7

The camp paper has been named The Knocker, and in the Saturday issue not a single person escaped a crack, while some received a great many more. The paper is proving a popular feature and the reading of the same is eagerly looked forward to by all, for no one knows what may be said about him. Mr. Yarnold's slosh—he calls it poetry—in the last issue, created considerable amusement and was greatly enjoyed.

For filling in odd moments whip tag is a popular game, the playing of which furnishes considerable amusement for the participants and spectators.

The Sunday afternoon service was addressed by Rev. A. E. Kenyon, who had an audience of 39. The reverend gentleman read Ecclesiastes 12 for a Scripture lesson and took the same for the basis of his remarks. At the conclusion of the meeting the boys testified to their appreciation of Mr. Kenyon's words of advice and encouragement by a standing vote of thanks.

Recent visitors: W. H. Hoyt, Cora and Etta Draper, O. A. Draper, E. C. Draper, A. E. and Mrs. Kenyon, C. S. Crandall, M. C. Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Stewart, Clara A. Morse, Hattie K. Morse, Henry A. Wisby, Fred G., Grace M., Orson E. and Paul W. McGregor, Leon Butler, Rev. and Mrs. Asa Reed Dills, Rev. Edward M. Noyes.

FOR THE GOOD OF LOWELL

Free Public Baths a Necessity

There is a great opportunity for some philanthropist to win the everlasting gratitude of this community by contributing a sum sufficient to establish a free system of public baths in Lowell.

Nearly two-thirds of our population do not possess the luxury of a bath tub in their homes and these are the people who toil the hardest, perspire most and consequently need the bath tub most.

To meet this public necessity a system of public baths could be constructed for use in summer at least for a very moderate sum but somehow nobody seems to take sufficient interest in the matter to start the movement.

With two noble rivers joining their waters near the centre of our city, with a superb system of canals; with a system of waterworks excelled by none of equal size, yet the toilers and even the boys of our city must risk their lives or take the chances of arrest when they attempt to take a bath either in river or canal.

What is the result? An average of five drownings every summer with such spectacles as were witnessed quite recently when an officer walked off with the clothes of a few young men who were enjoying a swim in the river.

The chief obstacle to the establishment of public baths is the lack of the necessary funds. For a moderate sum a large swimming place can be maintained every summer above Pawtucket bridge; and it would not be very expensive to establish winter baths at a central point in the city.

This would prevent the drownings; it would improve the public health and at the same time the public morals while affording the toilers a privilege that would increase their comfort and happiness—one that they would appreciate far more than public parks, free concerts, or anything else we can offer them. Where is the public benefactor who will establish a free system of public baths?

Let us hope the strike of the coal teamsters will be of short duration. The strikers might have selected a more inconvenient time for the dealers.

Let us hope the Kaiser gave the Czar some good advice. The latter needs wise counsel at the present time, but seems deaf to those who counsel wisdom.

So Premier Balfour will not resign despite the fact that he was defeated in a division forced by the Irish leader, John Redmond. He is a law unto himself.

We have now the word of Attorney General Moody that the beef trust suit will be pressed with all due haste. Wonder if that means its termination in less than ten years.

A Nashua Universalist preacher so far offends against the creed of the sect as to say that there is a class of people in Nashua who ought to go to hell. Wonder if they'll take the hint.

The disaster on the Bennington by which 60 men lost their lives and many more were seriously wounded will be investigated but in all probability the cause of the explosion will never be known.

The Shah of Persia is now in France and is reported to be coming to the United States. He is accounted the most troublesome royal guest on the other side the Atlantic, but if he comes here he may get over his fussiness before he goes home. He will have to keep his jewels and his suite well in hand or he may lose both.

COTTON CULTURE IN EUROPEAN COLONIES.

The expected has happened. When American cotton growers resorted to the torch to get rid of a surplus crop it was natural that foreign nations would endeavor to find some other source of supply.

Accordingly the International Cotton Congress in session at Manchester, England, adopted resolutions urging the other European nations to take immediate steps to promote cotton growing in their colonies. Germany, England and France had already been making experiments on these very lines with more or less success.

So deeply interested is Emperor Wilhelm in the experiments in West Africa that through Booker Washington he had several graduates of the Tuskegee Institution go to West Africa to instruct the natives in the cultivation of cotton. Their success was very limited. The Americans report that the labor is poor and that there are other difficulties which it would take time and money to overcome.

England's chief colonial cotton field is in India, while an effort is being made to boom cotton culture in South Africa, Rhodesia, Central Africa, Egypt and the Soudan as well as in Australia.

The French are carrying on extensive experiments in cotton growing in the upper Niger and Algeria with very fair success. The Dutch are trying to grow cotton in Java and the Dutch East Indies.

Thus in the end the Southern planters may discover that in their effort to limit the supply and keep up the price of cotton they have lost the greater part of the foreign market.

It is true that the South is by far the greatest cotton growing region in the world, but there are others which, if developed, may affect the trade of the South even more than an abundant crop. It does not always pay to be too greedy.

SEEN AND HEARD

There was a large gathering in one of the municipal courts a few mornings ago awaiting the opening of business. Just before 9 o'clock the clerk of the court received a message from the justice stating that he was too ill to leave his home and that court must be adjourned unless some other justice could be found to preside.

The clerk telephoned in every direction, and, finding that he could not get another justice, decided to adjourn the court. So he mounted to the justice's desk and, after securing silence by rapping with the gavel, made the following announcement:

"No justice here! Courts adjourned."

"True enough," said one disgruntled lawyer amid general laughter.

The hot spell was responsible for much prickly heat, and one former resident of the West Indies made himself solid with his friends by advocating burnt flour as a palliative.

The flour is simply stirred in a saucepan over the fire until it is a light brown, and then is applied to the body through a bit of muslin. It is far more effective than ointments, talcum powder and similar remedies and has, moreover, the virtue of simplicity to commend it.

The following letter of sympathy, received at this office a few days ago is self explanatory:

Norfolk, Va., July 12, 1905.

Editor of Lowell Sun:

Sir:—Imagine our surprise this morning when we read in your paper of the death of Police Officer Chester Ryder, who but a few days ago entertained my wife and her friend, Mrs. Joseph C. West while in Lowell. It has been our pleasure to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ryder twice while in Norfolk in the past few years, and it would be hard to find a couple more endowed with all the blessings of good nature than Mr. and Mrs. Ryder. I am sure they came as near being perfect as 'tis possible for man and wife to be. It seems too bad that two as happy as they should be separated. But such is the way of the Master. We want to take this method of expressing our deep sympathy to Mrs. Ches Ryder, in this the saddest moment of her life. We cannot find words to express our deep sorrow.

With our kindest love and best wishes,

MR. ANR MRS. JOHN G. HILL.

Wages of sin—The burglar's loot.

If a juryman was always governed by the evidence it would rarely ever agree.

Two heads may be better than one, but some people act as if they need a dozen.

Lots of people get rich attending to other people's business.

It must be a rather monotonous life when the family doesn't kick up a scrap occasionally.

The waiter who is always holding out his hand for a tip wouldn't want to be classed with a professional beggar.

THE MAN WHO WAITS.

Everything comes to the man who goes after the things some other fellow is waiting for.

Everything may be coming to the man who waits, but it's seldom that anything arrives.

Everything comes to him who waits the least.

Nothing that comes to the man who waits is worth waiting for.

Something that should come to the man who waits is a good strong push.

Some men seem to think that a chance in life is a capital prize destiny will award them for being patient waiters.

The fellow who always waits for something to happen, happens to have to wait always.

Everything comes to him who lets the other fellow do the waiting.

A man and a woman were eating luncheon in a downtown restaurant. It was late in the afternoon. There were, by actual count, thirty-five tables in the room, thirty of which were empty.

A man came in. He passed by the thirty unoccupied tables and took the end seat at the one where the man and woman sat. The couple were deep in a conversation, apparently tender as well as interesting, and they were visibly annoyed by the interruption.

They ceased talking and glared at the man. He appeared oblivious to their wrath. The days of his own romance, if he had any, were over. He had stony blue eyes, a stubby gray mustache and no hair. He ordered fried eggs, apple pie and milk.

"Is there no remedy?" wailed the young woman in despair.

"I am afraid not," said her companion.

She glared still more fiercely.

"I know now," she said, "how people feel when they commit murder."

"Are you guilty of some crime?" she asked presently. "Are we being spotted? Is this a detective? What is his motive?"

"He has none," said the man. "He is simply a born fool."

The intruder never flinched. For thirty minutes he pegged away at his meal as though performing a painful but necessary duty. Finally, he went away, followed by scathing comments from everybody in the restaurant.

Capt. Harry Graham, whose engagement to Ethel Barrymore is announced, dedicated to her his book, "Misrepresentative Men." The frontispiece is a portrait of Miss Barrymore and the dedicatory verses end thus:

"Accept these verses then I pray,
Disarming press and public, too;
For what can hostile critics say?
What else is left for them to do,
But view with Rindness this collection,
Which bears the seal of Your Protection?"

Capt. Graham gets his American soubriquet, "Col. D. Streamer," from his regiment, the Coldstream Guards.

His hair was red, his stature short,
His freckles far from dim;
The neighbors all remarked "Good land!
What could she see in him?"

Yet this is how it came about—
She went to Cupid's shop
And told exactly what she wished
Without a single stop;

"A man of fully six feet two,
With hair of raven wave,
A noble brow, a Samson's strength,
The bravest of the brave."

The gracious clerk then shook his head
As every salesman should,
"All out of that," he said, "but here
Is something just as good."

The little chap was sent next day;
The neighbors cry with vim:—
"Now what on earth do you suppose
She ever saw in him?"

YELLOW FEVER

Causes Six Deaths in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 25.—Mayor Capdau, in view of the presence of yellow fever in New Orleans, issued a proclamation last night to the people of New Orleans, urging them to heed the advices of the health authorities relative to the sanitation of their premises, and calling special attention to the necessity of screening houses and placing nets over all water which might breed mosquitoes.

This proclamation was also signed by the president of the state board of health, by the president of the city health board, by Surgeon White of the Marine hospital service, and by the advisory committee of the New Orleans parish medical society.

Up to date there have been 17 cases of fever in New Orleans and six deaths of yellow fever.

The quarantine regulations suggested by the meeting of citizens requiring six days' detention for all vessels from ports subject to yellow fever were adopted after a heated discussion.

Notification was received at noon from Dr. Hunter of the Mississippi board that he had proclaimed quarantine against the whole state of Louisiana, because Louisiana had not quarantined against New Orleans. This question was discussed and it was decided not to quarantine the state against the city.

THE HOUSE FELL

Four Children Narrowly Escaped Death

LYNN, July 25.—Four small children narrowly escaped death in the collapse of a three-story apartment house in process of erection in Pleasant street last evening. The children were playing in the second story. They are Edward Hartford, Arthur Drew, George Ford and Grace Langford.

The wooden supports in the basement gave way, both floors falling simultaneously. The centre of the first floor landed in the basement, the second floor landing on the floor below. All save young Hartford, 9 years old, heard the crash coming in time to get to the windows from which they subsequently jumped to the ground. Hartford was carried to the basement, landing upon a pile of debris. He was taken out more frightened than hurt. The others were uninjured. The collapse made a terrific noise and attracted a big crowd.

The building is being constructed for H. Goodman by Contractor Goodwin.

Mr. Goodwin says the cause of the collapse was the weakness of the supports in the basement timbers 2x4 inches. The specifications called for iron supports, that did not arrive until yesterday. Mr. Goodwin says he had not seen the building inspector at the house at any time.

The house will practically have to be reconstructed.

FELL DEAD

DOCTOR HAD JUST PRONOUNCED MAN IN PERFECT HEALTH.

NEW YORK, July 25—With a physician in the act of pronouncing him physically perfect, after the rigid government examination, George W. Hennessey, for seven years keeper of the U. S. life-saving station at Spring Lake, N. J., dropped dead yesterday.

Hennessey was taking his annual examination. Dr. Wood, of the U. S. Marine hospital had already finished this examination and was saying: "I wish I were as sure of a long lease of life as you are."

Hennessey proudly expanded his chest, and that act was his last. He fell to the floor with blood running from his mouth and was dead in less than five minutes. Hemorrhage of the lungs was the physician's verdict on the cause of death.

TENEMENT FIRE

Twenty Families Were Hemmed In

NEW YORK, July 24.—Tenants in a five-story double brick tenement, occupied by twenty families, at No. 22 Cook street, Williamsburg, had a race with death in a fire last night.

The flames were discovered in the apartment of Jacob Shapiro on the fourth floor. He was in his rooms alone, according to tenants, who found him there when the smoke was filling the hall. The police communicated the fact to the fire marshal.

Samuel Kanter, who, with his wife and four children, live on the top floor, discovered the fire. He called to M. Teitelbaum, who lives on the same floor with his wife and six children, and they ran down to warn Samuel Kaplan, his wife and two children, who live opposite Shapiro's rooms.

Kanter and Teitelbaum ran to Shapiro's room, out of which smoke was pouring, and rapped at the door with all their might, but got no response. They were beginning to kick in the door when, they declare, Shapiro opened it and dashed past them to the street, yelling "Fire!" The two men say the room was all ablaze.

Kanter and Teitelbaum ran up to get their families, but found themselves cut off by the flames. They had to climb over an adjoining roof.

Tenants in the rear were cut off and had to flee to rear fire escapes, where they were rescued after many were injured by smoke. The Kaplan family were among them. Policeman Carroll, of the Stagg street station, with Policeman Rosenfeld, took many from their dangerous perch.

The fire spread to the adjoining tenement and the two buildings were gutted at the top.

Shapiro told the police he was asleep when the two men awakened him.

WRESTLING NOTES

That a rest will work wonders with an athlete is seen in the case of Frank Gotch, the wrestler. Gotch has done nothing to speak of on the mat since his last match with Tom Jenkins at Madison Square Garden. The other night Gotch faced Alec Samuelson at Minneapolis in a mixed style bout and beat his man in such decisive fashion that Gotch's friends think that he has recovered his old time form. Samuelson is a Swede of large proportions and rated as exceptionally clever, but against Gotch he did not appear to be in it, the American taking two straight falls. The first fall was at catch-as-catch-can, Gotch winning in 13 minutes 30 seconds, and the next at Graeco-Roman, Gotch throwing the foreigner in 25 minutes. This style was supposed to be in favor of Samuelson.

Gotch assumed the aggressive at the call of time and never gave his man a chance to get on top. Gotch utilized every conceivable hold and seemed to have the match clinched several times. However, just when it looked as if Samuelson would go down the Swede would wriggle to safe quarters and land flat on his stomach. Finally Gotch secured a bar hold and quickly forced Samuelson to his back. The latter pluckily went into a bridge, but Gotch was on top of him like a flash and went for a hammer lock. He got it all right, and combined it with a scissors hold, bringing Samuelson down.

After a rest of ten minutes the contest was resumed. The style, Graeco-Roman, did not puzzle Gotch any. He went after Samuelson as if he understood the rules thoroughly. Gotch chased Samuelson all over the mat and finally capsized him with a waist lock. The Swede slipped away from this hold and looked to have a chance until Gotch applied a hammer. He got this grasp in fine fashion and rolled Samuelson on his back. Samuelson made a Spartan effort to land on his stomach, but the hold had done its work. Samuelson flopped flat and groaned with pain. After Gotch had been declared the winner, it was found that one of the ligaments of Samuelson's shoulder had been torn loose. This accident, Samuelson declared, had rendered him helpless. Gotch now declares that he will not rest satisfied unless he secures a match with Tom Jenkins. He adds, though, that he will not meet Jenkins in the East, as he fears that he will not get a fair show in New York. He is satisfied to meet Jenkins at either Minneapolis or Cleveland for a side bet and purse. Gotch has gone to Portland, Ore., on a pleasure trip. He says that he will not do any wrestling there unless one of the clubs come forward with an enticing offer.

George Haskenschmidt has hit upon a unique scheme to make all ambitious wrestlers come to time when they challenge him. The noted Russian lion now insists that when a defi is hurled at him the offer for a match must be accompanied by $5000 cash, not necessarily for a side bet, but as an evidence of good faith.

"I do not wish to appear as an arrogant man," said the Russian recently, "but I had to take this step in order to protect myself. Since I returned to England from my trip around the world I have received no less than a dozen challenges a week from anxious rivals. Some of them are from men I have never heard about, while others come from wrestlers who never had any standing and who never will. In order to be accommodating I thought that I would notice them. So I went to the newspapers that published the defis and answered them in person. I did this sort of thing for weeks, but nothing came of it. When it came to the arrangement of a match my rivals were not ready to do business. It seemed to me that they were simply bluffing and trying to belittle me. I lost a lot of time paying attention to the challenges until it got very monotonous. Finally I concluded that the only way to test whether my competitors were really in earnest was to make them put up their money.

"I want to give everybody a chance, but if they think they are good enough they should not hesitate about posting $5000, half of which should go as a forfeit and the remainder for a side stake. It took me many years to make a reputation, and as long as I think I have the ability to win I ought to get all the spoils if there are any in sight. I will not ignore anybody who will put up his money. Although I have enough engagements to keep me busy on the mat for a period of years. I will not hesitate about taking a night or week off to go into a match whereby I think I have a chance to make a certain amount of money. But I will not pay any attention to challengers unless they do this. What is the use, anyway?"

WITH HAT PIN

WOMAN ATTEMPTED TO STAB HERSELF.

LYNN, July 25.—Annie Donovan, a young woman living at 32 Spring street, was arrested at an early hour last evening by Patrolman Hall on the charge of being drunk and creating a disturbance, and as he was about putting her in a cell in the central police station she pulled a hatpin from her hair and attempted to stab herself in the neck.

The officer, after a struggle, succeeded in getting the pin, which was broken in two pieces, before the woman had a chance to harm herself.

Miss Donovan and a woman named Mary Wheeler, according to the story of the police, had some trouble in their room and during the row the Wheeler woman received a number of bad scratches on the arms and face. Everything was in a mixup when the officer reached the place and there was great excitement until the women had been taken to the police station. Mrs. Wheeler was allowed to go after her companion had been locked up.

DAVID BOYD IMPALED ON PITCHFORK.

WILLIAMSTOWN, July 25—Yesterday David Boyd, aged 22, of North Adams, a farmhand employed by Almon M. Stevens, jumped from a load of hay and struck squarely upon a pitchfork, which was sticking upright in the ground beside the load.

The handle of the fork was driven through the perineum into the bladder, carrying with it parts of the clothing. Boyd was taken at once to the North Adams hospital, where an operation was performed, but it is believed that his injuries will prove fatal.

HE WILL NOT RUN

Douglas Says His Decision is Final

HOME CLAIMS AND BUSINESS

Principal Cause of Stand He Took

BOSTON, July 25.—Governor Douglas' "No" stands.

All the combined eloquence of Josiah Quincy, John R. Thayer, Congressman John A. Keliher, Col. William A. Gaston, Col. A. C. Drinkwater, and a half-dozen more of the specially chosen representatives of the democratic state committee failed to sway the governor in his determination to retire to his delightful home life at the close of his present term, and to relinquish the opportunity to try again for the gubernatorial chair to another standard bearer of his party.

For nearly an hour and a half they pleaded with him, yesterday afternoon, but without avail. At the conclusion Gov. Douglas thanked them for the appreciation they had expressed, but said he felt "compelled to adhere to his original determination not again to be a candidate for the position" he now holds.

On whom the mantle may fall no one of the eleven who emerged from the executive chamber after the conference was prepared or cared to say. There might be some significance in the fact that ex-Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester left the state house with Col. William A. Gaston, and that they spent half an hour together behind the colonel's fast closed door in his office down in State street. But Mr. Thayer was non-committal and so was Col. Gaston. Neither of them wished to talk, and the former congressman departed on a late afternoon train for his home in Worcester.

It was by appointment that the delegation from democratic state headquarters met in the governor's reception room at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Quincy was the spokesman of the party. He read to the governor the resolutions adopted by the democratic state committee on July 12. These Mr. Quincy supplemented by as earnest a plea as he could make, that for the interest of the state and party the governor should reconsider his previously expressed determination to retire from office and from politics at the close of his term and not to permit his renomination by his loyal democratic constituents.

Ex-Congressman Thayer followed in a strong address, urging Gov. Douglas to be a candidate for a second term. So did Congressman Keliher, Col. Gaston, Col. Drinkwater and most of the others on the committee.

When the committee, led by Col. Gaston and John R. Thayer, emerged from the inner sanctum into the outer reception room Col. Gaston's smile was enigmatical. There were more reporters than there were committeemen.

"Nothing to say," remarked the colonel.

"Are you going to run for next governor, Congressman?" Mr. Thayer was asked.

"Oh, I can't talk," replied the man who trimmed the "Grey Eagle" in hardfought battles. "See Mr. Quincy; he will tell you all there is to say for ourselves and the governor."

So the reporters waited. Mr. Quincy did not come forth for at least six minutes more, and when he did he told the story succinctly as stated.

"But what reasons did he give?" asked the reporters.

"He explained his grounds even more fully than he did in his original letter published some time ago," said Mr. Quincy, "but the governor gave his reasons for the committee and not for the press," added the speaker, very decidedly. "We did all we could, but he told us he was compelled to adhere to his previous determination."

BOLD ROBBERY

FOUR BOYS STOLE $220 FROM CASHIER.

WORCESTER, July 25.—The robbery for which Samuel Groloski, George Hickory, John Leighton and Michael Friedman were arrested by the Boston police yesterday at the request of Worcester officials, was the most daring committed here for a long while.

It happened Saturday night in the Worcester market on Main street, while the place was crowded with customers. The four boys entered the store about 8 o'clock and one of them purchased 10 cents' worth of apples. He presented his check at the cashier's desk on which there was a big pile of money, and while the cashier was reaching for his change, the boys made a grab at the pile of greenbacks and silver.

Before the cashier could give an alarm, the three other lads crowded in behind the youngsters who had the money and rushed him through the crowd of customers into Main street, where the quartet was lost in the crowd before the clerks could get from behind their counters through the crowd to the street.

A balance of the store accounts Saturday night showed that the boys had got away with about $220, of which $200 was in bills. After leaving the market, the lads crossed the common to Front street where they jumped into a carriage of Walter D. Ross in front of his store and drove out Main street at a rapid gait. They eluded the police and left horse and carriage near Thomas Flynn's stable on Green street, where it was recovered yesterday, but several bundles, one of which contained a $45 suit of clothes, were gone.

DEALERS FINED

For Violating Law in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, July 25.—The cases of Michael McDonough and Joseph Millington & Co., charged with maintaining liquor nuisances at their saloons since June 1, were heard in police court yesterday before Judge Mahoney. A large number of witnesses were sworn for the prosecution, including the three members of the license board. The dealers paid $2500 each for a license May 1. About the middle of June the members of the license board visited both places and found back doors being used, and in the case of Millington & Co. it was alleged that minors were served liquor in his rear room.

Chairman William J. Bradley of the license board, and a leading attorney, told of finding an open back door at each of the places, and stated that at Millington's he saw liquor served to three girls and two men in the rear room June 24. He took the names and ages of the five. He said McDonough was warned about keeping the back door open, but said nothing when his attention was called to it. Millington did not say to him that he didn't know he was obliged to keep his back door closed. In McDonough's place two women came in while the witness was there by the back door.

James A. Coughlin and B. F. Mitchell, the other two members of the license board, took the stand, but offered no additional testimony.

Lena Smith, Annie and Nora Arnold, aged 22, 18 and 21 respectively, testified to being in Millington's rear room when the licensing board called. Lena Smith testified to drinking two glasses of ale. One of the men with them bought the drinks, but she didn't know his name. The Arnold girls claimed they had soft drinks served to them.

Col. Sweeney and John J. Donovan, counsel for the defendants, argued that inasmuch as the licenses were not filled in with the number of entrances their clients could not be found guilty for maintaining a rear door.

Judge Mahoney read from the statute which says in substance that when a door other than one on a public thoroughfare is opened, the license of the saloon becomes void. The back doors of these places, the judge stated, are on an alley, and he found both defendants guilty. They were fined $75 each. An appeal was taken and sureties of $300 furnished for their appearance in high court.

NECK BROKEN

MAN JUMPED FROM CAR AND WAS INSTANTLY KILLED.

BOSTON, July 25.—On the 8 o'clock car from East Weymouth to Quincy last evening a man, as yet not entirely identified, but who is believed to be E. M. Bond, a chauffeur, jumped from the front seat and was instantly killed, near the high school building in Middle street, Weymouth.

The man, it is said, gave no warning that he wished to leave the car. His neck was broken at the base of the skull and his right hand bruised. He also sustained a bad gash upon the back of his head.

THE STATE BOARD

Of Agriculture Met in Lowell

HELD SESSION AT AMERICAN HOUSE

Officials of Middlesex No. Society Attend

The state board of agriculture held a meeting at the New American house last evening. Reports for the last six months were read, and the report of the chief of the cattle bureau, Austin Peters, was read and accepted. The report was quite an interesting one. That part of the report of most interest to Lowell read as follows:

The principal new feature of the work for the first half of the year has been the unusual prevalence of rabies. There has been very little hydrophobia occurring among dogs in Massachusetts for the last few years, until last winter and spring. The chief outbreak has been at Lowell, where quite a number of cases have occurred. Twenty-four cases have been reported from Lowell, many of them positive. There has also been a case in Somerville, one in Auburndale which came from Pennsylvania, and one in Milton. In Lowell a dog bit two members of one family, a man and his daughter. Both went to New York to take the Pasteur treatment furnished by the New York city board of health, but since returning home first the woman and then the man died of the rabies, having been so badly bitten that the Pasteur preventive treatment was not sufficient to save their lives.

The Lowell police have been very active this spring in killing all stray-ownerless and unlicensed dogs. They have killed several hundred of such animals, and their efforts have undoubtedly contributed to the suppression of the disease.

The last of March the situation in Lowell seemed to be so threatening that a notice was sent to the inspectors of animals in Lowell and surrounding towns and posted in prominent places.

As a result of the efforts of the police authorities and the inspectors of animals in these towns there has been a decrease in the number of cases reported, and as the cattle bureau has not been notified of any new cases in Lowell or vicinity for the seven weeks ending July 24, it is hoped that the outbreak here has been suppressed.

The members of the board present at the meeting were: Warren C. Jewett, Worcester; J. Lewis Ellsworth, secretary of the board; Austin Peters, M. R. C. V. S., chief of the cattle bureau; Alfred Akerman, state forester; J. J. Mason, Amesbury; William A. Lane, Norton; E. P. Williams, Ashfield; O. E. Bradway, Monson; John M. Danforth, Lynnfield; John S. Anderson, Shelburne; Henry E. Paige, Amherst; J. F. Burt, Easthampton; Henry S. Pease, Middlefield; Ralph M. Porter, Cummington; Charles H. Shaylor, Lee; Henry A. Turner, Norwell; H. S. Perham, Chelmsford; H. G. Worth, Nantucket; W. M. Wellington, Oxford; Augustus Pratt, North Middleborough; Albert H. Nye, Blandford; Quincy L. Reed, South Weymouth; Walter D. Ross, Worcester; W. A. Kilbourn, South Lancaster; Albert Ellsworth, Athol; C. D. Richardson, West Brookfield.

Among others present were Prof. Waugh and Prof. Brooks of the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst; Prof. Wheeler, of the Rhode Island Agricultural College; Prof. W. H. Caldwell, secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle club, Peterboro, N. H.; C. I. Hood, Julian Hood, and A. H. Cluer, J. A. Weinbeck and Andrew Liddell, president, treasurer and secretary of the Middlesex North Agricultural society.

NARROW ESCAPE

OF BOY WHO FELL FROM BUILDING.

George Lavallee, aged five years and living in a tenement block in Aiken street, had a narrow escape from being killed yesterday afternoon. He fell from the third story of the building in which he lives and miraculously escaped with his life.

At the time of the accident the boy was trying to climb from the window to the roof of the building when he slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of nearly thirty feet. The most serious result was a sprained ankle.

Late yesterday afternoon the ambulance was called to the Merrimack Piano Stool Co. where John Johnson, an employee, had caught his hand in a planing machine. He was removed to the Emergency hospital where it was found necessary to remove one of the fingers.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A well attended meeting of Gen. Adelbert Ames command, Spanish War Veterans, was held last night in Memorial hall. The trip to Taunton next month was discussed at some length and it is probable that another meeting will be held before the command decides to go. The next regular meeting will be held in September.

Phoenix, No. 4, O. S. B., held a short business session, after which an ice cream party was held at the home of Lady Campos. There was a good attendance and quite a sum was raised. The committee in charge is to be congratulated on the success of the first social of this new lodge.

BILLERICA

Miss Hattie P. Truell, who has been a teacher at the Howe school, has successfully undergone an operation for appendicitis at the Worcester Memorial hospital. She has resigned her position at the Howe school and will study during the coming year in the women's training department of the Hartford theological seminary.

Miss Truell's successor will be Miss Florence Waddington of Cambridge. She has received the degrees of A. B. and A. M. from Radcliffe college, and during the past two years has taught in the Somerville evening schools.

BUTLER WEDDING

Paul Butler Married at Lucerne, Switzerland

PAUL BUTLER.

Bride's Uncle Speaks of the Event--Bride Made Money in Mining -- Tinge of Romance Over the Affair

Cards were mailed last night by Gen. and Mrs. Adelbert Ames, announcing the marriage at Lucerne, Switzerland, Friday, the 21st, of Miss Jeanna Handy Barstow to their brother, Paul Butler of this city.

The home of the bride is at Mattapoisett. Mr. Butler is treasurer of the United States Cartridge company, and is interested in the United States Bunting company of this city and numerous other business concerns, being the oldest son of the late Gen. Butler.

While the announcement made last night has been the occasion of great surprise to friends of the Butler family in this city, it was neither sudden nor secret within the membership of the latter. The acquaintanceship of the couple has extended over many years and the engagement several months. The selection of the place for marriage was, however, characteristic, it is said, of both, with the view of avoiding the elaborate arrangements that might necessarily attend a wedding at the home of either.

The wedding, it is understood, was originally planned to take place in Paris, but the location was changed by reason of incompatible requirements of the French marriage laws, chiefly in point of length of residence required.

The family of the groom and all his friends express themselves as delighted.

Since the death of his father, a dozen years ago, the house in Andover street has been the home also of Gen. Adelbert Ames and Mrs. Blanche (Butler) Ames, the sister of Mr. Butler, and their children. Three of the daughters of Gen. and Mrs. Ames—Mrs. Brooks Stevens of Lowell, Mrs. Spencer Borden of Fall River and Mrs. Oakes Ames of Easton—have left the family circle, and during the congressional season the remainder of the family has been in Washington with the Hon. Butler Ames, member of congress from the 6th district. Mr. Butler has thus been left much alone in the fine old house, and the prospect of a new mistress there is one of pleasurable anticipation to his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will, it is understood, remain in Europe during August and return to Lowell early in September.

GROOM IS WEALTHY.

Paul Butler is the only surviving son of the late Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, and, though 50 years of age, had not married. He is largely interested in the United States Cartridge company, and to a less extent in other manufacturing industries. While a sportsman and a man well travelled, he has had a busy life.

Though now more of a retired gentleman of wealth, given to travelling much, he has been widely known as a champion canoeist and a promoter of sport in canoes. He was of delicate physique as a boy and was kept much in the open air, finally confining his attention to canoes, and particularly to the sailing types. Among other things he invented the sliding seat for sailing canoes. He built his own canoes, experimenting much with models.

In 1876, the year of his graduation from Harvard, he, with his brother Ben, built the Vesper Boat Club house of this city, for many years a centre of aquatic sport. He won about 10 races, many of them championship events.

All outdoor sports were his field more or less, and the series of sportsmen's shows in the Mechanics' building owed their success very largely to Mr. Butler's interest and support.

After Gen. Butler's death, the famous yacht America fell to the share of the general, and Paul was the one who made the most use of the craft. He used it mostly for cruising, but entered in some races.

HONOR TO FAMILY.

Hon. Butler Ames was seen last night at his summer home at the old Gen. B. F. Butler house, Bay View, relative to the marriage of Paul Butler and Miss Annie Barstow of Mattapoisett at Lucerne.

The congressman was asked if he had known of Mr. Butler's matrimonial intentions. He replied that he had. When asked relative to the difficulties in Paris which Mr. Butler encountered regarding his marriage Mr. Ames replied:

"He intended to be married in Paris, but owing to the peculiarity of the French law in regard to the marriage of foreigners they found marriage to be impossible in the French capital. You know that Chauncey Depew attempted to be married in Paris and had to go to Switzerland."

"How old is Mr. Butler?"

"Mr. Butler is about 50 years old."

"Have you ever met Miss Barstow?"

"Yes, I have met her."

"How old would you judge her to be?"

"She is a very charming lady," replied the congressman, "but I would never venture to make any statement relative to a lady's age."

Continuing he said: "We knew that Mr. Butler and Miss Barstow were to be married, because we had telegraphic information on the subject. They were married on the 21st of this month, and we sent out cards. We expect them home some time next month."

Mr. Ames says Mr. Butler announced his approaching marriage about a month ago to the family, when both sailed for Europe on different steamers. Miss Barstow went under the chaperonage of a lady whose name he could not recall. He was unable to furnish any particulars of her family, nor had he any extended acquaintance with the bride.

SURPRISE FELT

IN MATTAPOISETT, THE HOME OF BRIDE.

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—A marriage abroad with a tinge of romance to it, the news of which reached Mattapoisett yesterday afternoon, furnished a subject of discussion for the many society people of the large cities summering here.

The news that Paul Butler, son of Gen. B. F. Butler, a prominent member of several of the large yacht clubs of the country and an authority on yachting matters, as well as a man of inventive genius, had married in Lucerne, Switzerland, Miss Anna H. Barstow of Mattapoisett.

Miss Barstow has not lived in Mattapoisett for about 20 years. The story of her career is best told in the words of her uncle, Abraham L. Palmo of Mattapoisett, who was seen yesterday afternoon.

"Didn't know Anna was married. She went away abroad about Memorial day, accompanied by my wife, and the last I heard from them they were in Paris about two weeks ago, where Mrs. Palmo was ill.

"She went to Boston, took a suite in a fashionable quarter of the city and enjoyed life. I have visited her at her Boston home and she entertained in a lavish manner. She visited her mother in Mattapoisett once a year, generally about Memorial day, spending only several days with her, and then she would be off to some of the fashionable seashore resorts. Prepossessing looking, and a stylish dresser, Anna had no trouble making friends wherever she went.

"Anna didn't come to Mattapoisett this year, but just before Memorial day she sent word down to my wife that she would like to have her make a trip abroad, and my wife hurried and got ready, and went.

"I heard nothing of Paul Butler being with Anna. Possibly she met him abroad. I know nothing about this part of the trip.

"Anna must be about 35 years old. I always thought she would get along all right. From Boston she went to Philadelphia, where she was for some years housekeeper for an immensely rich Philadelphian, who, when he died, left Anna a big bunch of money. Anna invested the money in some kind of a mine, and in a short time the investment returned her three or four times the original amount and made her independent.

"Surprised? Yes, I am, but I have heard Anna say that if she ever married she thought she would have that young Butler, because she liked him. But she has frequently told me that she didn't think she would ever marry.

"Anna, or she was first named Jeanna Handy Barstow, is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Hammond and the late James H. Barstow. The father was a sea faring man and followed the whaling business for a great many years, and finally gave up the sea to reside in Mattapoisett to take charge of a large estate here. His daughter Anna, after receiving a grammar school education, went to Nantasket beach, where she worked in a hotel, and from there to Boston.

"Anna was a lively and vivacious girl and dressed well. She was stylish even in her younger days, and Mrs. Barstow was left some money by her husband and she boarded with Mrs. Shaw on North street."

AT THE SHRINE

Bay State Pilgrims Begin Devotions

STE ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que., July 25—Three hundred pilgrims from Boston and Somerville, under the personal direction of Rev. E. F. Saunders, curate of St. Ann's church, Somerville, arrived here yesterday morning at 11 by special train.

The pilgrims are on a three days' visit of devotion to the famous shrine of Ste Anne. They had a very pleasant trip, thanks to the able management of Fr. Saunders, assisted by Edward Monaghan and Neil Ahearn.

Immediately on arriving the party left the train in which they had sat for 22 hours and walked to the recently erected basilica, built in honor of the Mother of the Blessed Virgin, and heard mass.

They next were escorted to their lodging places. After dinner the pilgrims performed acts of devotion until 4 o'clock, when they congregated in the old memorial chapel for prayer, followed by an interesting sermon by Rev. Fr. Daly, CSSR, of the Redemptorist fathers in charge of the shrine.

In the evening the pilgrims congregated in the basilica, where they again listened to an interesting sermon on the life and virtues of Ste Anne and the duty of Catholics toward the Lord.

Those of the women visitors who are housed in the convent are very comfortably situated and the sisters in charge are indefatigable in their efforts to make them happy.

One of the attractions at the convent is an exhibition of needle work and lace embroidery, all done by the sisters. Included in the display are a number of church vestments, worken in white and red silk and gold, for the dioceses of Boston and San Francisco, which are marvels of delicate workmanship.

GUN CLUB SHOOT.

Lowell shooters were represented at the shoot of the Derryfield Gun club held Saturday. "Climax" Burns of this city, while not eligible to the cup match, was close up and shot a professional race all through the day. The second special prize, however, was captured by Mr. Burns. On behalf of the Lowell club Elmer E. Reed, who captured first prize, was presented with a fancy cigar cutter.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE.

The opera "Boccaccio" was presented at the Lakeview theatre last night before a small but very appreciative audience. The inclement weather kept a number away from the theatre, but the presentation was all that could be expected and is by far the best offering of the season.

The management of the theatre during Sunday had a portion of the sides taken down, making it an open-air theatre, a departure which will be welcomed by the large number of patrons. The work, however, is not completed at the present time, but by next week it is expected that both sides and back will be taken out.

BURNED TO DEATH

Children Perished in a Fire in Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 25.—Two dead, two fatally burned, and three seriously injured, is the result of an explosion of a gasolene stove early today, at the home of Levi Titus, a Kosher butcher, No. 7225 Wood Alley, Braddock.

The dead:—
HARRY TITUS, aged 7 years.
MEYER TITUS, aged 7 years.

Fatally burned:
MRS. SARAH TITUS, the mother.
ELSIE TITUS, aged 3 years.

Seriously injured:
LEVI TITUS, the father.
GOLDIE TITUS, aged 18 years.
RAY TITUS, aged 16 years.

The dead children were twins.

The explosion was caused by the overturning of a gasolene stove on which Mrs. Titus was preparing breakfast. The burning fluid was scattered over the room, enveloping Mrs. Titus and igniting a five gallon can of oil, standing on the rear porch near the door.

A second explosion followed and in a few minutes the entire house was in flames. The twins were suffocated on the second floor, where with the other children, they were asleep. The father rescued the other three children and as he assisted the last one to the window he fell to the floor overcome by smoke. He was taken out unconscious by the firemen, who also rescued Mrs. Titus after she had been terribly burned.

AT OLD ORCHARD

Fire in Hotel Threatened Ten Lives

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 25.—Ten female employes of the Old Orchard house were placed in a perilous position today and given a bad fright by an inconsequential fire in the hotel annex, originating from a defective chimney. The only exit from the second story in which they were at the time, was cut off by dense smoke and they were nearly in a panic before the blaze was extinguished and the smoke cleared away. Clothing and other personal effects were thrown from the windows, ladders were hurried to the scene to remove the employes, but it did not become necessary to use them. No one was injured and the damage was only $500.

HAVE FEVER

SEVERAL OF NORWEGIAN STEAMER'S CREW HELD UP.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The Norwegian sugar laden steamer Avona which arrived last night at quarantine from Carlbarien, Cuba, was inspected and disinfected before being released by the health officer today. The Avona had called at Colon before proceeding to Carlbarien, Cuba. Consequently on reaching quarantine her crew was mustered and closely inspected. Three members of the crew, a fireman, sailor and the ship's cook were removed to Huffman Island for observation suffering from malarial fever. Two others, who showed high temperature, also were transferred to the Island. The steamer then was released.

QUIET DAY

NO OFFICIAL VISITORS TO SAGAMORE HILL.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 25.—This was one of the quietest days President Roosevelt has had since his arrival at Sagamore Hill for the summer. Comparatively little executive business was brought to his attention and no official visitors at all were received.

Although Secretary Root is not in Washington the affairs of the department of state are now under his direction, and all matters relating to that department are being referred by the president to him. These include the arrangements for the formal reception for the Russian and Japanese peace envoys. When the details of these arrangements shall have been worked out by the state department, in connection with the navy department they will be communicated to the president for his approval.

The president practically has finished the preparations for the addresses he expects to deliver at Wilkesbarre, Pa., and Chautauqua, N. Y., on the tenth and eleventh of August respectively.

SEVERE TRIP

THE WOOD PILE RAN INTO ROUGH WEATHER.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 25.—The log of the motor boat Wood Pile, which was the fifth o fthose in the race from New York to this port to arrive, shows that, like the other boats, she had a severe experience. The Wood Pile was compelled to stop on Sunday on account of the dirt in her engine. Resuming, she got as far as Cuttyhunk, where, finding the sea too rough for her progress, Mr. Lincoln, her captain, signalled the lightship and with his crew was taken aboard, where the night was passed. They started again at 7.30 Monday morning. During the forenoon they put in at Cottage City for gasolene and the further run was made to this port without unusual incident. The Wood Pile arrived here at 2.48 a. m. Her elapsed time was 62 hours and 48 minutes. With her time allowance of six hours 20 minutes 11 seconds, her corrected time was 56 hours 27 minutes 49 seconds.

BARON KOMURA

Japanese Peace Envoy in New York

BAND PLAYED NATIONAL AIR

Was Greeted by Japanese Merchants

NEW YORK, July 25.—Baron Komura, the Japanese peace plenipotentiary, arrived on the fast train from Chicago, over the Pennsylvania road at 9.25 today. At the Jersey City station, to greet him, were about forty Japanese merchants. There was no demonstration at Jersey City, but when the ferry boat reached the foot of Twenty-third street, a hundred or more Japanese in the city greeted the baron and his suite with cheers while a brass band played the Japanese national air.

There were no banzais, but the plain American cheer as the baron with Consul General Uchida and two of his suite entered a carriage and were driven to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

H. Denulson, an American, who is attached to the Japanese foreign office and has been in Japan for 35 years, is with the party. Mr. Denulson says he has no official capacity with the peace delegation. The party was met at Philadelphia by Consul General Uchida. Minister Takahira remained in this city. Mr. Sato, who is the chief of staff, said to an Associated Press representative that there was no program prepared for the baron and he did not know what would be done from day to day until he had met Minister Takahira. Mr. Sato said it would not be necessary for any of the party to go to Washington, since the president is at Oyster Bay and that they would await the president's pleasure as to their plans.

"The baron will rest a few days," said Mr. Sato, "his journey having been quite an extended one. He is in good health but needs a little rest after travelling so far. We have travelled every day since he landed in this country, arriving in cities early in the day and getting out in the evening. We stopped not longer than six hours at any one place.

LIVED IN TRUNK

Police Discover Unusual Case of Poverty

WHEREIN A SIX YEAR OLD LAD

Was Left to Shift for Himself

NEW YORK, July 25—An unusual case of poverty and neglect, has been uncovered by a policeman on duty in Tenth avenue. The blue-coat rescued six-year-old John Mulqueen after the lad had made his home for two months in a trunk and subsisted largely on scraps snatched from garbage cans. The little fellow was timid as a bird after his pitiful struggle with the world.

Mrs. Mulqueen, died six months ago and the boy's father disappeared, leaving John to the care of a neighbor. The building where the latter lived, was condemned two months ago and she moved away leaving the child behind. He sought out the house where his mother died and found an old trunk in the alley in which he formerly had played.

Neighbors saw the youngster crawling in and out but he fled when they approached. They placed food near the trunk and the boy ate it. The story finally reached the police and the young outcast was found nestling in a pile of old clothing and broken toys which he had gathered in the alleys.

NOT SURPRISED

Patrick Says He Expected a Stay

NEW YORK, July 25.—The notice of a stay of execution of the death penalty on the order granted by Judge O'Brien yesterday to Albert Patrick, under sentence of death for the murder of the aged millionaire William Marsh Rice, was not served until today on the lawyer who was waiting in prison ready to die in a few weeks. Mr. Patrick laughed when the news was given him and said:

"I knew it would come. It is only what I expected."

He expressed confidence that in a short time more he would secure a new trial and ultimately his freedom. Patrick himself drew up the papers, which were so timely in saving his life. The stay granted him is until October 2, to allow time for a motion for a reargument of the case. Ex-Senator David B. Hill is Patrick's counsel.

Pittsburg with the Fownes and Denver with Pacific coast champion Walter Fairbanks were prominent in the list.

Norris Bekum of the home club and his young partner, G. F. Clingman drove the first balls. Thirty two golfers qualified for the first round of match play.

WOUND IN HEAD

Prominent Broker Was Found Dead

NEW YORK, July 25.—Otto Bernheimer, a member of Bernheimer and Walter, cotton brokers of this city, and reputed to be wealthy, died today in his apartments in the Hotel Sevilla. Bernheimer was found in his apartments lying in front of a full length mirror and expiring from a bullet wound in the temple.

Apparently the shot had just been fired, but no one could be found in the fashionable hotel who heard the report. The suicide left no explanation of his act and his three brothers say that he had every reason to wish to live, so far as they know. Bernheimer was 25 years old.

KILLED HERSELF

Wife of Wall Street Broker a Suicide

NEW YORK, July 25.—Within five minutes from the time that Charles Marshall, a Wall street banker, left his wife apparently sleeping soundly in bed today, the woman wrote her husband a note telling him not to let the world blame him for what was going to happen and shot herself. She was unconscious before Mr. Marshall could reach her bedside from another room and she died in a short time.

Mrs. Marshall was formerly Miss Grace Starr and is highly connected in local circles. No cause for her act has been discovered. The tragedy occurred in the Raleigh, a fashionable family apartment hotel overlooking Central Park.

YELLOW FEVER

MANY MORE CASES SUSPECTED IN NEW ORLEANS.

WASHINGTON, July 25—A report received here today from Surgeon White, of the public health and marine hospital service, who is stationed at New Orleans and who under instructions of the acting surgeon general is engaged in an effort to determine yellow fever conditions in that city, says that the city authorities concede 12 cases and eight deaths, but he adds that there probably are many more cases. Those so far observed are of a virulent type. Surgeon Wasdin, stationed at Memphis, who rendered signal service during the epidemic at Ocean Springs in 1897, has entered upon a careful inspection of conditions along the Gulf coast, from Mobile to Pass Christian, Miss., and Assistant Surgeon Young, has been ordered from Chicago to Jackson, Miss., to confer with the Mississippi health authorities relative to train inspection.

SOLDIERS WORK

TO PREVENT RIVER FROM OVERFLOWING ITS BANKS.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 25—Flood conditions had improved at Valdez according to despatches received yesterday at the local cable office, but the emergency occasioned by the high water still exists and an entire company of infantry was at work, repairing breaks in the dams and keeping the swollen Valdez river from overflowing the business section of the city.

On Sunday night there was a noticeable improvement but yesterday, the water started rising again and was breaking through the dam at various points. It was only by the utmost exertions that a general flood was prevented. At last reports the water was not getting any closer to the town and it was expected that the stream would be under control by this evening.

THE RICKSDAG

Hears Report of Special Committee

TO DEAL WITH SWEDISH CRISIS

Terms of Dissolution Recommended

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 25.—The special committee appointed by the Ricksdag to deal with the crisis which created the revolution in Norway today delivered its report. The committee declares unanimously that the government bill cannot be adopted in the form in which it was presented to the Ricksdag and proposes that the Ricksdag shall signify its willingness to negotiate with Norway for a dissolution of the union, if the newly elected Storthing requests a repeal of the act of union and a dissolution of the union or if such request is received from Norway after the Norwegian people by a plebiscite have declared in favor of a dissolution of the union.

The committee recommends that in the event of a dissolution of the union, Sweden should insist on the following terms:

First, the establishment of a zone on each side of the frontier, separating the kingdoms within which the existing fortifications shall be raised and new fortifications may not be erected.

Second, the right of pasturing reindeer belonging to Swedish Lapplanders in North Norway.

Third, that the transit trade through both countries shall be secured against unjustifiable obstruction.

Fourth—that the status of Sweden in respect to foreign powers as established by treaty shall be clearly defined so that Sweden shall be completely freed from responsibility for Norway to other states.

The committee also regards an arbitration convention between Sweden and Norway desirable although it does not consider it an essential condition for the dissolution of the union.

The committee further proposes to authorize the government to raise a loan of $25,000,000 which can by a resolution of the Ricksdag be made available for such readjustments and arrangements as may be necessitated by the new conditions.

Regarding eventual negotiations with Norway the committee declares:

"Whatever demands be made for the welfare and dignity of Sweden as a condition of the repeal of the act of union on the part of Sweden and of the recognition of Norway must be claimed and adhered to with rigor and determination.

LIFE BOAT

CRUISED ABOUT TO FIND BODY OF MAN.

NEW YORK, July 25.—When the steamer Grosser Kurfurst, which sailed today for Bremen, was passing the quarantine station, she came to a stop suddenly, and a life boat was quickly lowered. The life boat cruised around for some time in the path through which the steamer had passed. If they were searching for a man who had jumped or fallen from the steamer, however, the quest was vain. An object, apparently a life buoy, was the only thing taken from the sea by the crew of the life boat before the little craft returned to the steamer.

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Lowell People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking-down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of urio poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill. Lowell cures are the proof.

Mrs. Margaret Monahan, of 38 West Fifth street, Lowell, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills were first used in our family about seven years ago when I got a box at a drug store and the use of this remedy quickly relieved a case of kidney trouble which had caused much suffering and annoyance. I told of this particular case in a statement for publication given in 1898, and many people who read it called on me and asked if it were true. I have always confidently recommended Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and kidney trouble, and know of many who have been greatly benefited by their use."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AT NO. 45 MARKET ST., LOWELL, MASS.

I will sell, at public auction, the stock and fixtures of the fruit and produce store of Walter Booth.

Having consolidated my business with the M. Donovan & Co., I have instructed Mr. Farrell to sell my 6 horses, 6 wagons, 6 harnesses, 6 horse covers, blankets, etc., and the entire stock of produce now on hand.

The 6 horses are young, sound and kind, and range from 1000 lbs. to 1250 lbs. each and have been used in the business but two years, and are the best lot of business horses offered for sale for some time. The wagons are in first class condition, as I had 3 heavy wholesale 3-spring wagons built to order, one by the Sawyer Carriage Co. The 3 light 3-spring market wagons are in good condition, newly painted and would make a good delivery wagon; 6 sets collar and hames harnesses, all custom made; also 1 safe, 1 office desk, platform scales, trucks and the stock of produce left unsold at the time of sale. As Mr. Booth did not turn his stock and teams to the new firm, he will positively sell everything to the highest bidder, as he is to make the change on August 1. Sale rain or shine.

Per order WALTER BOOTH.
